Man Burned In Explosion Of Paint Can

Forgotten Container Left In Fireplace Of San Rafael Home

A small do-it-yourself project, completed and forgotten, sent San Rafael resident Jack Bataiff to the hospital with severe burns last night when a paint can exploded in his fireplace.

On the previous day, Bataiff's wife, Marion, preparing for the winter, used a small spray paint can to paint a part of the screen covering their fireplace at 245 Prospect Drive. The job completed, she set the can inside the fireplace, and going on to other projects, forgot it was there.

FIRST FIRE

Last night, for the first time this season, Bataiff built a fire. As the warming blaze grew, he stood close on the hearth with his back to the flames. Meanwhile, the pressure in the can grew higher and higher.

Suddenly, the bottom of the can blew out with a bang, showering the room and Bataiff with flaming paint, sparks, and bits of burning wood. He ran to the bathroom where his wife ripped off his clothes and doused him with water from the tap.

MINOR DAMAGE

Firemen, arriving with an ambulance, were able to quell the blaze with minor damage to the room's furniture. Bataiff was taken to San Rafael General Hospital with third degree burns on his face, hands and right elbow. The hospital reported him in satisfactory condition this morning.

"This is a rare sort of accident," San Rafael fire inspector Ken Mazza said after the blaze, "generally these things explode in incinerators outdoors, where people carelessly throw them when they're empty."

"Although the labels clearly warn of the danger involved, some people never read labels," Mazza said.

Supervisor's Kin Dies In Car Crash

Head-On Wreck Fatal To Schultz Son-In-Law

The son-in-law of Marin County Supervisor Vera Schultz was killed last night when his car collided head on with a truck on the Las Vegas-Los Angeles highway.

Richard A. Demers, 24-year-old jockey driving to Las Vegas to get ready for the Nov. 1 opening of the racing season, passed a car driven by Robert Adams, 29, of San Bernardino and collided headon with a truck, according to highway patrolmen. Adams car piled into the wreckage.

RICHARD A. DEMERS
Jockey killed

Three other persons, one of them a passenger in Demers' car, were injured in the crash.

TWO CHILDREN

Demers' wife, Joyce, learned of the accident today at the Mill Valley home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Schultz. The couple, with their son, 2, and daughter, 1, have been staying at the Schultz home at 26 Ralston Avenue for the last three months.

Mrs. Schultz has been supervisor from the third district since 1952. Schultz is a San Rafael insurance broker.

Demers was only apprenticed as a jockey last summer in Canada, his wife said today. He won two races there and came to California to race in county fairs. He broke his ribs in August at the Stockton Fair and had been recuperating in Mill Valley.

LIVED IN SAN MATEO

The young couple previously resided in San Mateo. Demers was a native of Reading, Mass.

Pfc. Michael A. Cofield, 18, of San Diego, passenger in Demers' car, was taken to Nellis Air Force Base hospital with serious injuries, the highway patrol said.

Mrs. Joyce Adams, 26, and Kathryn Whipple, 20, student nurse from Santa Barbara, both passengers in the Adams' car, were injured and taken to a Las Vegas hospital, reported the highway patrol.

Demers' body probably will be brought to Marin County for final rites. Funeral arrangements are pending at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Demers is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Schultz.

Attorney Shot; Wife Arrested For Assault

A socially prominent Kent Woodlands woman was charged with assault with a deadly weapon early today after she shot her husband in the thigh with a .22-caliber rifle, Marin County sheriff's deputies reported.

The victim was Warren A. Palmer, 48, of 135 South Ridgewood Road, a San Francisco attorney. The bullet entered the back of his right thigh and went out the other side. He was released after treatment at Marin General Hospital.

Charged with the shooting was Mrs. Beatrice Casady Palmer, 48, vice president of the Alpha Hardware and Supply Co. of Nevada City. She was released on $1,050 bail for appearance in court Monday.

According to deputies, the couple had been separated for a few weeks, and Palmer was living at Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera. The attorney told officers he decided to go home last night to see his family and that he suspected his wife had been drinking.

Arriving at his home at about 10 p.m., he found Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Jane Smith of Ross, a friend of his wife. After an argument, Palmer said, he went to the kitchen to make a phone call. While he was dialing, his wife pointed a rifle at him and said: "We've had it. Get out," Palmer told deputies.

He said he would not leave

Nixon, Kennedy Exhibited Glaremanship, Timemanship

By ARTHUR EDSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy tossed in a couple of new elements last night in what was probably their last debate.

They both worked hard on glaremanship and timemanship.

Glaremanship: that's the art of staring fixedly at your opponent while he's talking, in the hope this may disconcert him.

In the other debates, neither paid much heed to the other. This time they gave each other the steady glare, with no noticeable results.

But timemanship—that's the art of talking on after the time limit is clearly up—worked much better.

Nixon has shown remarkable ability to use every second of his time, and a little more so. This apparently is the same theory as playing possession ball in basketball or football. As long as you hang on to the ball, the other fellow can't score.

Well, they both used it last night. The word "cut" would be flashed above the cameras, which is television jargon for, "That's all, brother." Often each would finish his sentence, and it would turn out to be a very long sentence.

And at least once Kennedy exceeded his time enough that it nettled Nixon.

As Kennedy raced along with the "cut" sign showing, saying, "and I challenge you tonight . . ." Nixon made a "T" sign with his fingers to indicate the time was up. Unperturbed Kennedy hurried on to the finish.

This reporter was in the studio for their joint television meetings in Chicago, Washington and here in New York last night, and was with Nixon in Los Angeles while the two debated a continent apart.

It was obvious last night that both were far more relaxed than they were in previous meetings. Each smiled occasionally, and Kennedy once broke into a broad grin.

Neither showed the tense-

Nominees Again Debate Quemoy, Cuba, Prestige

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy, with millions watching, disagreed sharply last night in a face-to-face debate on American prestige abroad and the best way to curb the Communist menace in Cuba.

Supporters of both presidential candidates claimed victory today in the fourth of their "great debates" on television and radio, scheduled as the last, but Nixon left the door slightly ajar for a fifth.

Kennedy has insisted on a fifth meeting, closer to the Nov. 8 election, and Nixon's press secretary Herbert Klein said it was "within the realm of possibility."

Nixon himself promised to answer Kennedy's telegram demanding the fifth encounter.

Nixon and Kennedy touched on the Quemoy-Matsu Islands controversy, Fidel Castro's Cuban government, the nation's prestige, nuclear testing, a new summit meeting and the future foreign policy during the debate.

Nixon charged that the Democratic candidate's stand for U.S. support for Cubans opposing Castro was "probably the most dangerous recommendation" of the campaign and would cost this country "all our friends in Latin America."

"It would be an open invitation for (Soviet Premier Nikita) Khrushchev to come into Latin America and to engage us in what would be a civil war and possibly even worse than that," Nixon said.

Kennedy said the Eisenhower administration's plan for an economic boycott of Cuba would fail because other Latin American nations would not participate because of low American prestige.

The Republican nominee leaped on the prestige issue with vigor, charging "when leaders like Senator Kennedy" criticize this country's standing the only effect is to reduce American prestige abroad.

Nixon said Kennedy was "wrong—dead wrong" in saying America was second in the space race, education and science. He said his Democratic opponent has a "responsibility to be right in his criticisms."

"America's prestige abroad will be just as high as the spokesman for America allow it to be," Nixon said.

Kennedy replied:

"I really don't need Mr. Nix-

HEAVY FOG GRIPS MARIN SECOND DAY

Heavy fog gripped Marin County and the rest of the Bay Area early today, for the second consecutive day.

No accidents were reported in Marin because of poor visibility, but motorists moved slowly with lights on. On the Golden Gate Bridge the California Highway Patrol said visibility was restricted to 50 to 75 yards across the span. Cars moved at 20 miles per hour.

Power line failures were reported in some parts of the Bay Area because of dense moisture shorting out insulators, but there was no trouble in Marin, however.

Tam, Wildcats Meet Tonight In Kentfield

Redwood High School Giants last night scored an 18-0 victory over San Rafael in a Marin County Athletic League football game at San Rafael.

In other local games yesterday College of Marin lost a 28-12 decision to Yuba College and the San Rafael Military Academy was defeated by Emeryville 19-14.

More action was in store for local fans tonight as the Tamalpais Indians will meet the Marin Catholic Wildcats at Kentfield, 8 o'clock.

Bills For Taxes On The Way Next Week

You'll be getting your 1960-61 tax bills in the mails next week, County Tax Collector M. F. Donohue announced today.

A total of 58,845 bills, representing a collection of $18,455,544, will be mailed out about Tuesday to taxpayers throughout the county. The total sum includes a bill for $1,959,438 for public utilities.

This year, the county will collect for all cities except San Anselmo and Fairfax. Those in San Rafael and Sausalito, who paid separate taxes in the past, will find both taxes combined in one bill this year.

Some banks and large firms picked up their tax bills in advance and have already paid. About $581,000 has been collected already, Donohue announced.

Deadline for first installment payment is Dec. 10.

The county tax collector's office has several hundred bills with no address. "Taxpayers who do not get their bills within the next 10 days should contact our office," Donohue said.

Jury To Probe Public Need Of Boards

A Marin County Grand Jury committee is to conduct studies of city and county planning commissions and boards of public works in an effort to ascertain whether they are serving useful purposes in county growth, it was announced last night by Harry Heifetz, grand jury secretary.

Heifetz served as foreman pro tem at a session of the grand jury which decided to authorize such inquiry by its committee on municipalities and districts, he said. Study is to be made of the history, growth, functions and structures of the two organs as well as their relationships and impacts on community growth.

Closed hearings will be held separately for each, according to Heifetz.

Any citizens wishing to be heard may arrange appearances through contact with the committee chairman, Ralph C. Briggs of Novato.

U.S. Cuba Envoy Not Going Back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Philip W. Bonsal will not return to Cuba as U.S. ambassador, it was learned today.

President Eisenhower, according to responsible diplomatic sources, has decided to appoint him to succeed John C. Dreier as chief U.S. representative to the Organization of American States. Dreier, a career diplomat, has resigned for "personal reasons."

Bonsal was ordered home earlier this week for "indefinite consultation." This was soon after the United States imposed a strict trade embargo on Cuba in a frank attempt to undermine premier Fidel Castro's pro-communist government.

Church Plans Ground Breaking, Anniversary

Tomorrow Faith Lutheran Church of San Rafael will not only celebrate its fourth anniversary as a congregation of the United Lutheran Church of America, but will also hold a ground breaking for its new church.

Worship service will be held tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the church's temporary sanctuary at the Union Labor Hall, Mission and Tamalpais Avenues, from where a procession of members will leave by car at 10:45 a.m. for the site of the new structure at Los Ranchitos Road and Del Presidio Boulevard, just south of Terra Linda entrance.

Ground breaking, to be held at the site at 11 a.m., will be followed by a luncheon-reception at the parsonage, nearby at 755 Penn Royal Lane in Terra Linda.

Church pastor B. W. Bellinger announced that construction of the first $75,000 unit of the building will begin in about two weeks and will consist of the church sanctuary and an educational wing.

"The entire project is scheduled for completion by spring, depending on the weather," said the pastor.

Architect for the building is John Lord King of San Francisco, and project architect is church member Harold Blewett of Terra Linda. Ray Johnson, Inc. of Kentfield is the contractor.

Pastor Bellinger also reported that tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. all Lutheran congregations in Marin County comprising the National Lutheran Council of Churches of the Bay Area will sponsor a Lutheran Reformation Festival at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

Speaking at the evening festival will be Dr. Otto Dibelius, Bishop of Berlin-Brandenburg Diocess.

"Bishop Dibelius . . . stands in the forefront of his East German diocese and its struggle with politics and society," said Rev. Bellinger.

35 Years In Ministry

Thirty-five years ago Tuesday, Rev. Donald H. Baldwin, pastor of the San Rafael Methodist Church, began his ministry in Sandcoulee, Mont. at the age of 18, succeeding his father as minister in Sandcoulee, Red Butte and Stockewt. Rev. Baldwin has been minister of the San Rafael Church for the past 18 months.

Speaker Slated

The First Baptist Church of Sausalito will have guest speaker Crawford Howell, Superintendent of Training for the Baptist Sunday School Board, of Nashville, Tenn., at the church's 11 a.m. worship service tomorrow.

Episcopal Bishop Pike Will Speak At Belvedere Parish

The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California, last week was the guest of honor at a reception at the home of Mrs. Norman B. Livermoore in Ross, and will speak Nov. 1, All Saints Day, at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

Last week's reception, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Byron W. Leydecker of San Rafael, was the launching of Marin County's participation in the Grace Cathedral Golden Anniversary Program.

The program was organized to finance completion of the cathedral which is on Nob Hill in San Francisco. Nearly two million dollars of a required three million dollars have been contributed toward completion by individuals, corporations and foundations in Northern California, reported the anniversary committee.

"Grace Cathedral in its unfinished state stands as a challenge to all men . . . and is a gift to the people of the ages. Its foundation, its structure and growth through the years of mankind must come from those with vision who are convinced of the value of tradition and continuity," said A. Crawford Green, Ross resident and member of the anniversary committee.

The All Saints' Day celebration at St. Stephen's will be in the interest of the missionary work of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Bishop Pike will speak at an 11:30 a.m.worship service and will celebrate the Holy Eucharist with the assistance of Rev. E. John Mohr, rector of the parish.

At a luncheon following the service, Sister Marjorie Raphael of the Society of St. Margaret, will lecture on her experience in mission work in Haiti and will show colored slides and exhibit her own paintings of the area, reported Mrs. Frieda Glazer of St. Stephen's.

Mrs. Glazer of 553 San Rafael Avenue, requested she be contacted for luncheon reservations.

Missionary Will Speak At Church In San Anselmo

Rev. R. Caldwell Smith, former assistant pastor of the San Rafael Presbyterian Church and now a Presbyterian "fraternal worker" (missionary) to India, will preach at both the 9:30 and the 11 a.m. services at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo tomorrow.

Rev. Smith, assistant pastor at the San Rafael church and student of the San Francisco Theological Seminary during the late 1920s, will be accompanied by his wife, Betty Vaughn Smith, announced Mrs. Andrew Clem, church member.

Church Plans Ground Breaking, Anniversary

Tomorrow Faith Lutheran Church of San Rafael will not only celebrate its fourth anniversary as a congregation of the United Lutheran Church of America, but will also hold a ground breaking for its new church.

Worship service will be held tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the church's temporary sanctuary at the Union Labor Hall, Mission and Tamalpais Avenues, from where a procession of members will leave by car at 10:45 a.m. for the site of the new structure at Los Ranchitos Road and Del Presidio Boulevard, just south of Terra Linda entrance.

Ground breaking, to be held at the site at 11 a.m., will be followed by a luncheon-reception at the parsonage, nearby at 755 Penn Royal Lane in Terra Linda.

Church pastor B. W. Bellinger announced that construction of the first $75,000 unit of the building will begin in about two weeks and will consist of the church sanctuary and an educational wing.

"The entire project is scheduled for completion by spring, depending on the weather," said the pastor.

Architect for the building is John Lord King of San Francisco, and project architect is church member Harold Blewett of Terra Linda. Ray Johnson, Inc. of Kentfield is the contractor.

Pastor Bellinger also reported that tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. all Lutheran congregations in Marin County comprising the National Lutheran Council of Churches of the Bay Area will sponsor a Lutheran Reformation Festival at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

Speaking at the evening festival will be Dr. Otto Dibelius, Bishop of Berlin-Brandenburg Diocess.

"Bishop Dibelius . . . stands in the forefront of his East German diocese and its struggle with politics and society," said Rev. Bellinger.

35 Years In Ministry

Thirty-five years ago Tuesday, Rev. Donald H. Baldwin, pastor of the San Rafael Methodist Church, began his ministry in Sandcoulee, Mont. at the age of 18, succeeding his father as minister in Sandcoulee, Red Butte and Stockewt. Rev. Speaker Slated

The First Baptist Church of Sausalito will have guest speaker Crawford Howell, Superintendent of Training for the Baptist Sunday School Board, of Nashville, Tenn., at the church's 11 a.m. worship service tomorrow.

Episcopal Bishop Pike Will Speak At Belvedere Parish

The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California, last week was the guest of honor at a reception at the home of Mrs. Norman B. Livermoore in Ross, and will speak Nov. 1, All Saints Day, at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

Last week's reception, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Byron W. Leydecker of San Rafael, was the launching of Marin County's participation in the Grace Cathedral Golden Anniversary Program.

The program was organized to finance completion of the cathedral which is on Nob Hill in San Francisco. Nearly two million dollars of a required three million dollars have been contributed toward completion by individuals, corporations and foundations in Northern California, reported the anniversary committee.

"Grace Cathedral in its unfinished state stands as a challenge to all men . . . and is a gift to the people of the ages. Its foundation, its structure and growth through the years of mankind must come from those with vision who are convinced of the value of tradition and continuity," said A. Crawford Green, Ross resident and member of the anniversary committee.

The All Saints' Day celebration at St. Stephen's will be in the interest of the missionary work of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Bishop Pike will speak at an 11:30 a.m.worship service and will celebrate the Holy Eucharist with the assistance of Rev. E. John Mohr, rector of the parish.

At a luncheon following the service, Sister Marjorie Raphael of the Society of St. Margaret, will lecture on her experience in mission work in Haiti and will show colored slides and exhibit her own paintings of the area, reported Mrs. Frieda Glazer of St. Stephen's.

Mrs. Glazer of 553 San Rafael Avenue, requested she be contacted for luncheon reservations.

Missionary Will Speak At Church In San Anselmo

Rev. R. Caldwell Smith, former assistant pastor of the San Rafael Presbyterian Church and now a Presbyterian "fraternal worker" (missionary) to India, will preach at both the 9:30 and the 11 a.m. services at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo tomorrow.

Rev. Smith, assistant pastor at the San Rafael church and student of the San Francisco Theological Seminary during the late 1920s, will be accompanied by his wife, Betty Vaughn Smith, announced Mrs. Andrew Clem, church member.

The couple, now in charge of a language and orientation school of missionaries at Allahabad and at Landour in India, are presently on furlough in the United States, said Mrs. Clem.

Bible Clinic Will Be Held

A Bible teaching clinic, designed to improve the quality of Bible instruction, will be held Monday through Friday at the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Mill Valley for 850 Sunday school workers from Southern Baptist churches in the Bay Aera.

The clinic is jointly sponsored by the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board and the California Baptist Convention and will feature 13 outstanding Bible teaching specialists and several professors of the seminary, anounced assistant to the president Carl M. Halvarson.

Sessions are open to interested Bible teachers of all denominations, said Halvarson.

Morning sessions aref rom 9 a.m. to noon and will feature selected studies in the Gospel of John. Evening sessions will be from 7 to 9:15 p.m.

Dr. Allen W. Graves, a brother of Dr. Harold K. Graves, president of the seminary, will speak daily and lead a conference for pastors and ministerial students. He is dean of the School of Religious Education, Southern Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

Ships Collide, Killing Ten, On Mississippi

EMPIRE, La. (UPI) — A new Italian cargo liner and an American ship on its last run collided near the mouth of the Mississippi River today with a fatal force that ripped open staterooms and killed 10 persons.

The Lorenzo Marcello, steaming upriver to New Orleans, suddenly veered into the Alcoa Corsair in the darkness early today, ripped a great gash nearly 150 feet long in the staterooms of the Corsair, crumpling the bow of the Lorenzo "like a smashed banana."

A ship's officer on the Corsair said that 10 persons were dead, four crewmen and six of the ship's 51 passengers. All casualties were believed to be from the Corsair.

Nine persons were flown by helpcopter to the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in New Orleans and officials said more were on their way. At least one was in "very serious" condition.

Among the passengers on the Corsair, making its last voyage on a trip to San Juan, P. R., were 30 members of a cruise sponsored by the Pasadena, Calif., Chamber of Commerce.

The master of the Corsair, three of its holds flooded and taking water fast, had his ship run aground to prevent it sinking. The 8,480-ton ship's motors continued to pound away hours after the wreck, to keep the ship from drifting free of the beach.

The Lorenzo, a 6,100-ton Italian ship registered out of Venice, was steaming slowly toward New Orleans.

Plaque Exchange Set In Rites At Drake's Bay

Two historic plaques are to be exchanged tomorrow at Drake's Bay, believed to be the site of a 1579 landing by globe-circling Sir Francis Drake.

Capt. A. S. Oko, president of the Drake Navigators Guild, said today that one plate will be given by the president of the American Merchant Marine Institute while a return courtesy will provide a new trophy for walls of institute headquarters in New York.

Ralph E. Casey is to present the builder's name plate from the World War II Liberty ship Sir Francis Drake to Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, honorary chairman of the guild.

Admiral Nimitz, on behalf of the guild, will give a reproduction of the historic Drake's "Plate of Brasse" found in Marin County several years ago.

Officers and members of the guild will officiate at 11 a.m. public ceremonies. Others to be present will include:

Rear Adm. Ira E. Eskridge, commander 12th District, U.S. Coast Guard; Francis P. Farquhar, president of the California Historical Society Thomas W. Peryam, president of the Marin County Historical Society; Richard L. Shirley, secretary-manager of the Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, and members of the county board of supervisors with George Ludy, supervisor-elect for the Fourth District which inclundes Drake's Bay.

The Liberty ship Sir Francis Drake was launched in August, 1942, after construction by the California Shipbuilding Corp., and served in several war theaters.

Admiral Nimitz said today, "It is fitting and proper that a California-built Liberty ship should carry the name of the man who in 1579 careened and repaired his vessel, the Golden Hinde, in Drake's Cove which was to become the first shipyard of record in Northern California."

Police Told Of 17 Marin Burglaries

Ronald Herbert McKenna, 21, suspected of being the "doorbell burglar" who entered about 60 homes in a three-month spree, admitted hitting at least 17 homes in Marin alone.

Sheriff's Inspector William C. Bradley said McKenna yesterday pointed out the homes, mostly in Southern Marin. Eight were in Belvedere, three in Sausalito, six in the unincorporated area, mostly on the Tiburon Peninsula.

Bradley worked with Police Chiefs Howard Clark, Howard Goerndt, and William Woodington to get the admissions from McKenna.

Bradley said McKenna does not appear to be the "pillow case burglar." McKenna told investigators he rang doorbells in the daytime, between 9 a.m. and about 3 p.m. If someone answered, he would say he was looking for a friend and would give a fictitious name.

All 17 Marin burglaries were committed on one day, Sept. 23, he told officers. McKenna was living in Napa for the last six months, working as a roofer. When he was laid off in July, he said he began his burglary spree.

Tiburon Fire Protection commissioners Wednesday night drafted a letter to Fred G. Zelinsky asking that he remove a lumber yard shed which is encroaching on the district's property.

The letter also asked that Zelinsky "cease and desist from further encroachment." It will be sent to county counsel for approval, said commission secretary Kelly J. Wheeler.

Commissioners approved installation of an eight-inch cast iron fire line extension on Tiburon's main street. Chairman Fred C. Hannahs was named to act as district representative in its small claims court suit against American Fire Equipment Co., which sold the district fire hose connectors which have the wrong thread.

The fabulous growth of Marin in the past ten years poses both obvious benefits and attending problems. Here William T. Bagley goes to a scene of progress at Greenbrae to better know how expansion can furnish more jobs and greater income for Marin.

MARIN HAS INCREASED 70% FROM 85,000 TO 145,000 IN TEN YEARS

BILL BAGLEY SAYS:

Economy in Government should be the primary concern of all of us. This is not simply a matter of less expenditure and less taxation, but maintenance and preservation of the financial integrity and credit position of the State of California. We must maintain these in order to provide facilities and services which will be needed to cope with the growth of our State and to serve the real needs of our people. We must maintain stable and attractive economic conditions so that new industries will continue to locate in our State in order to provide the 200,000 new jobs needed annually to support our growing population. Industry will not be attracted and jobs will not be provided if it fears over-regulation, both financially and bureaucratically. We certainly will not attract this new industry simply by creating commissions and bureaus to survey economic conditions and tell the world of our attractiveness, and on the other hand, to severely regulate and regiment our business community once it is established.

on to tell me about what my responsibilities are as a citizen."

He said he was criticizing the leadership the country is getting, not the country.

Kennedy turned from his direct stance before the TV cameras to look Nixon in the eye and reminded the vice president of the encounter between Khrushchev and Nixon in a model kitchen exhibit in Moscow.

"You, yourself, said to Khrushchev 'you may be ahead of us in rocket thrust but we are ahead of you in color television' in your famous discussion in the kitchen.

"I think that color television is not as important as rocket thrust," Kennedy said.

Many of the arguments advanced by both candidates were identical to their three earlier debates but Nixon said he intended to keep the Quemoy-Matsu Islands issue alive" as long as Mr. Kennedy persists in what I think is a fundamental error."

Kennedy, at the outset of his opening eight-minute statement which followed a similar period for initial remarks by Nixon, said he wanted to set the record straight on Quemoy and Matsu and consider the issue closed.

The Democratic candidate said his stand was the same as that of the Eisenhower administration—that the islands off the Communist China coast should be defended if an attack on them was part of a general attack on the Pescadores Islands and Formosa, base of the Nationalist Chinese.

Nixon contended Kennedy had taken the stand Quemoy and Matsu should be excluded from American defense commitments, "slicing off a piece of free territory" and abandoning it to the Communists.

Kennedy replied that Nixon's original position of defending the two tiny islands as a matter of principle had been altered to the Eisenhower administration position.

"It isn't an issue with Mr. Nixon, who now says that he also supports the Eisenhower policy," Kennedy said.

Nixon, in his opening remarks, cited the keeping of the peace and extending freedom without war.

Kennedy said the question was whether the nation is "moving in the direction of peace and security?"

He disagreed with Nixon's stand that American prestige was at an all-time high and the Communists at an all-time low.

"I don't believe it is. I don't believe that our relative strength is increasing," Kennedy said.

Both candidates agreed there must be adequate preparations and some assurances of success before another summit meeting is held.

Both also were in substantial agreement on the regulation of nuclear tests. If this fails, Nixon said this country should resume nuclear tests. Kennedy said "one last effort" should resume. Both candidates opposed atmospheric tests.

Nixon and Kennedy both declared to speculate about a possible choice for secretary of state if they win the election.

Nixon was questioned by a panel of four newsmen who interviewed the candidates about reports that the administration has suppressed a U.S. information agency report which Kennedy supporters claim shows America's prestige is down overseas.

Nixon replied that the report to which Kennedy referred was made "many many months ago and related particularly to the period immediately after Sputnik." The vice president said he would not object to the report being made public.

Kennedy contended the question of the campaign was: "Are we moving in the direction of peace and security?"

The Democratic candidate said the Republicans have stood still at home and overseas and it is time to start moving.

"Are we doing enough today? Is our strength and prestige rising? Do people want to be identified with us? Do they want to follow the United States leadership? I don't think they do, and that's what concerns me," Kennedy said.

ness nor the rigidity that has marked their previous meetings.

Scarcely anything they said last night was new, and reporters who have traveled with both men have heard it all before, in almost the same words.

After each debate the pattern has been about the same. The three reporters allowed inside the studio push forward to ask the gladiators how they figure they made out. Kennedy rarely is in any mood for small talk: he's eager to rush away. Nixon seems eager to unbend.

This was true again last night. Kennedy dashed off instantly. "See you later," he said, and went back to his wife, who had watched the debate on a set inside the studio. Nixon hung around to chat awhile.

It has been an interesting experience to watch, especially from close up.

And undoubtedly this newest phenomenon in politicking will be much discussed and disputed before another presidential campaign rolls around.

This year both candidates are glib and self-assured, veterans of answering questions in hundreds of news conferences.

But what about the candidate who hasn't had this training, and who still might make a good president?

You think of George Washington.

Poor George. He was a lousy speech-maker, and so he never could have passed today's TV test. Yet he has set precedents that have stood up so nicely the next president will still be following them.

And then you think of Lincoln.

Poor Abe. It's hard to imagine him in pancake makeup with the lighting experts trying to get that mournful shadow out of his eyes.

It probably is just as well television was so long getting invented.

P-TA Planning Child Conference

Juveniles Questioned About Beer Party

San Rafael police found 10 to 15 cars full of juveniles on private property in a clearing on Fire Road off Ridgewood in Rafael Highlands last night. The area was littered with beer cans, some still cold with the beer running from the cans, the officers said.

The juveniles were released after being detained and questioned. They said they were unaware the area was private property.

At the ceremony, 140 men will be confirmed, according to Associate Warden Louis Nelson. Bishop Donahoe will give the dedicatory benediction.

The chapel has just been completed as part of a million-dollar remodeling project at the prison. During the construction, the prison wall had to be breached and an old Spanish cell block was demolished to make room for the chapel as well as a new cell block and a projected Protestant chapel.

ATTORNEY

until Mrs. Smith did. Then his wife shot him, he said. Deputies said the shooting occurred at about 11:30 p.m.

The attorney fell to the floor and called his son, Fred, 17, to take the gun away from his wife. Fred grabbed the gun, then Mrs. Palmer, and Mrs. Smith left the house.

After deputies arrived, Fred brought his mother home from Mrs. Smith's house in Ross.

Mrs. Palmer said she had told her husband to stay away from the house and not to call her any more. When he arrived at the house, he lunged at her, she said.

She got the rifle from a closet, she told deputies, and told her husband: "Warren, get out or I'll pop you one." Palmer said the gun wasn't loaded. "It is, too," she said, and shot him.

Mrs. Palmer told deputies her husband had been under psychiatric care for some time. She denied she had been drinking.

3 Cars Collide, One Blows Tire, Strikes Vehicle

Two cars collided at Third and A Streets in San Rafael yesterday, then one of the autos went out of control, jumped a curb, knocked over a bus stop sign and bench, blew a tire, and struck a parked vehicle, pushing it into another parked car. No one was hurt.

Lee F. Wells, whose address was given as San Anselmo or the Marin County Farm in Lucas Valley, was cited by San Rafael police for failure to yield the right of way to a car already in an intersection or close enough to be a hazard.

Wells said he was turning left from A into Third and did not see a car driven by Oliver H. Somers of 19 Wolfe Avenue, San Rafael. Somers said he swerved to avoid a collision with Wells, but was hit. He said the gas pedal stuck after the impact and he lost control of the car.

The parked cars were owned by Lowell Zunino of 2 Belle Avenue, San Rafael, and John J. Taaffe of 1520 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo.

Hub City Wife Booked After Knife Incident

San Anselmo police early this morning arrested Mrs. Marilee Ann Hoeflein, 21, on a citizen's complaint signed by her husband Gerald, who said she threatened him with two knives.

Hoeflein said that he picked his wife up shortly after 2 a.m. at a San Rafael bar, where she is a waitress. On the way home, he said, she began arguing with him, and when they arrived at their apartment, 770 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, she went to the kitchen and got the knives.

She attacked him with them, he said, cutting him slightly on the right thumb before he managed to lock himself in the bathroom. He then climbed out the window, running to the street, where he flagged down patrolling reserve officer Bernie Weller, who took him to Sgt. John Orr at the station.

On Hoffleln's complaint Sgt. Orr and a sheriff's matron took his wife in and booked her at County Jail on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace. Bail was set at $250.

ness nor the rigidity that has marked their previous meetings.

Scarcely anything they said last night was new, and reporters who have traveled with both men have heard it all before, in almost the same words.

After each debate the pattern has been about the same. The three reporters allowed inside the studio push forward to ask the gladiators how they figure they made out. Kennedy rarely is in any mood for small talk: he's eager to rush away. Nixon seems eager to unbend.

This was true again last night. Kennedy dashed off instantly. "See you later," he said, and went back to his wife, who had watched the debate on a set inside the studio. Nixon hung around to chat awhile.

It has been an interesting experience to watch, especially from close up.

And undoubtedly this newest phenomenon in politicking will be much discussed and disputed before another presidential campaign rolls around.

This year both candidates are glib and self-assured, veterans of answering questions in hundreds of news conferences.

But what about the candidate who hasn't had this training, and who still might make a good president?

You think of George Washington.

Poor George. He was a lousy speech-maker, and so he never could have passed today's TV test. Yet he has set precedents that have stood up so nicely the next president will still be following them.

And then you think of Lincoln.

Poor Abe. It's hard to imagine him in pancake makeup with the lighting experts trying to get that mournful shadow out of his eyes.

It probably is just as well television was so long getting invented.

Juveniles Questioned About Beer Party

San Rafael police found 10 to 15 cars full of juveniles on private property in a clearing on Fire Road off Ridgewood in Rafael Highlands last night. The area was littered with beer cans, some still cold with the beer running from the cans, the officers said.

The juveniles were released after being detained and questioned. They said they were unaware the area was private property.

Chapel Dedication Set At Quentin Tomorrow

Bishop Hugh Donahoe, auxiliary bishop of San Francisco, will preside at the dedication of San Quentin Prison's new Catholic Chapel tomorrow.

At the ceremony, 140 men will be confirmed, according to Associate Warden Louis Nelson. Bishop Donahoe will give the dedicatory benediction.

Invited guests include members of the Adult Authority and members of the Department of Correction committee on institutional religion. The prison's two Catholic chaplains, Father Fred Dingberg and Father John Mullen will assist the Bishop.

The chapel has just been completed as part of a million-dollar remodeling project at the prison. During the construction, the prison wall had to be breached and an old Spanish cell block was demolished to make room for the chapel as well as a new cell block and a projected Protestant chapel.

ATTORNEY

until Mrs. Smith did. Then his wife shot him, he said. Deputies said the shooting occurred at about 11:30 p.m.

The attorney fell to the floor and called his son, Fred, 17, to take the gun away from his wife. Fred grabbed the gun, then Mrs. Palmer, and Mrs. Smith left the house.

After deputies arrived, Fred brought his mother home from Mrs. Smith's house in Ross.

Mrs. Palmer said she had told her husband to stay away from the house and not to call her any more. When he arrived at the house, he lunged at her, she said.

She got the rifle from a closet, she told deputies, and told her husband: "Warren, get out or I'll pop you one." Palmer said the gun wasn't loaded. "It is, too," she said, and shot him.

Mrs. Palmer told deputies her husband had been under psychiatric care for some time. She denied she had been drinking.

3 Cars Collide, One Blows Tire, Strikes Vehicle

Two cars collided at Third and A Streets in San Rafael yesterday, then one of the autos went out of control, jumped a curb, knocked over a bus stop sign and bench, blew a tire, and struck a parked vehicle, pushing it into another parked car. No one was hurt.

Lee F. Wells, whose address was given as San Anselmo or the Marin County Farm in Lucas Valley, was cited by San Rafael police for failure to yield the right of way to a car already in an intersection or close enough to be a hazard.

Wells said he was turning left from A into Third and did not see a car driven by Oliver H. Somers of 19 Wolfe Avenue, San Rafael. Somers said he swerved to avoid a collision with Wells, but was hit. He said the gas pedal stuck after the impact and he lost control of the car.

The parked cars were owned by Lowell Zunino of 2 Belle Avenue, San Rafael, and John J. Taaffe of 1520 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo.

Intoxicated Driver Given Fine Of $175

Hub City Wife Booked After Knife Incident

San Anselmo police early this morning arrested Mrs. Marilee Ann Hoeflein, 21, on a citizen's complaint signed by her husband Gerald, who said she threatened him with two knives.

Hoeflein said that he picked his wife up shortly after 2 a.m. at a San Rafael bar, where she is a waitress. On the way home, he said, she began arguing with him, and when they arrived at their apartment, 770 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, she went to the kitchen and got the knives.

She attacked him with them, he said, cutting him slightly on the right thumb before he managed to lock himself in the bathroom. He then climbed out the window, running to the street, where he flagged down patrolling reserve officer Bernie Weller, who took him to Sgt. John Orr at the station.

On Hoffleln's complaint Sgt. Orr and a sheriff's matron took his wife in and booked her at County Jail on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace. Bail was set at $250.

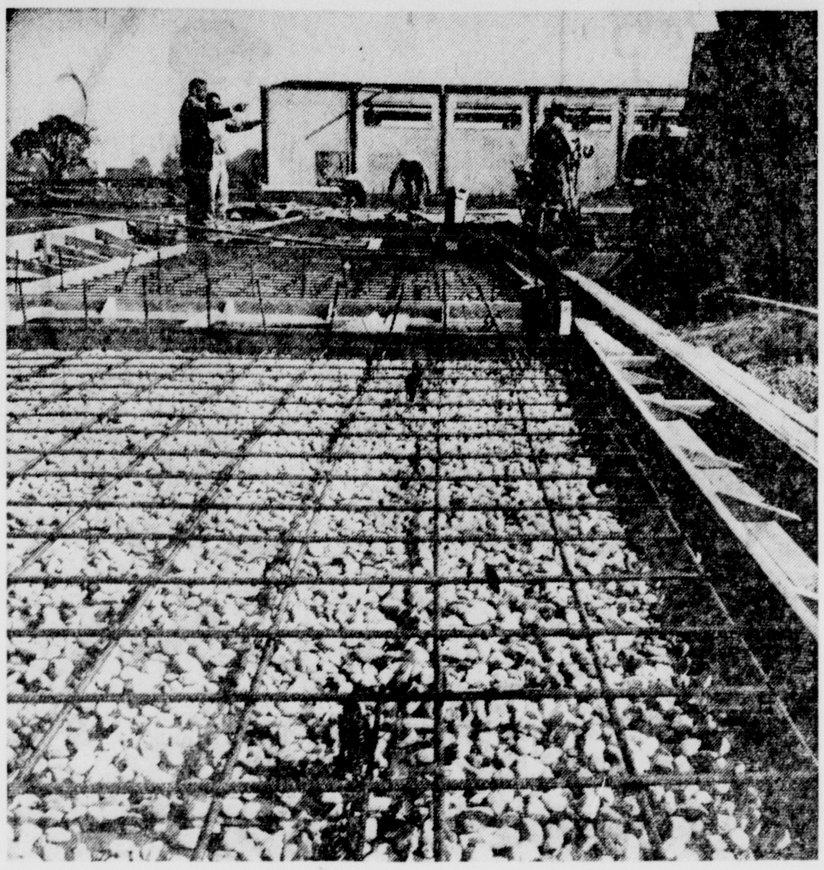
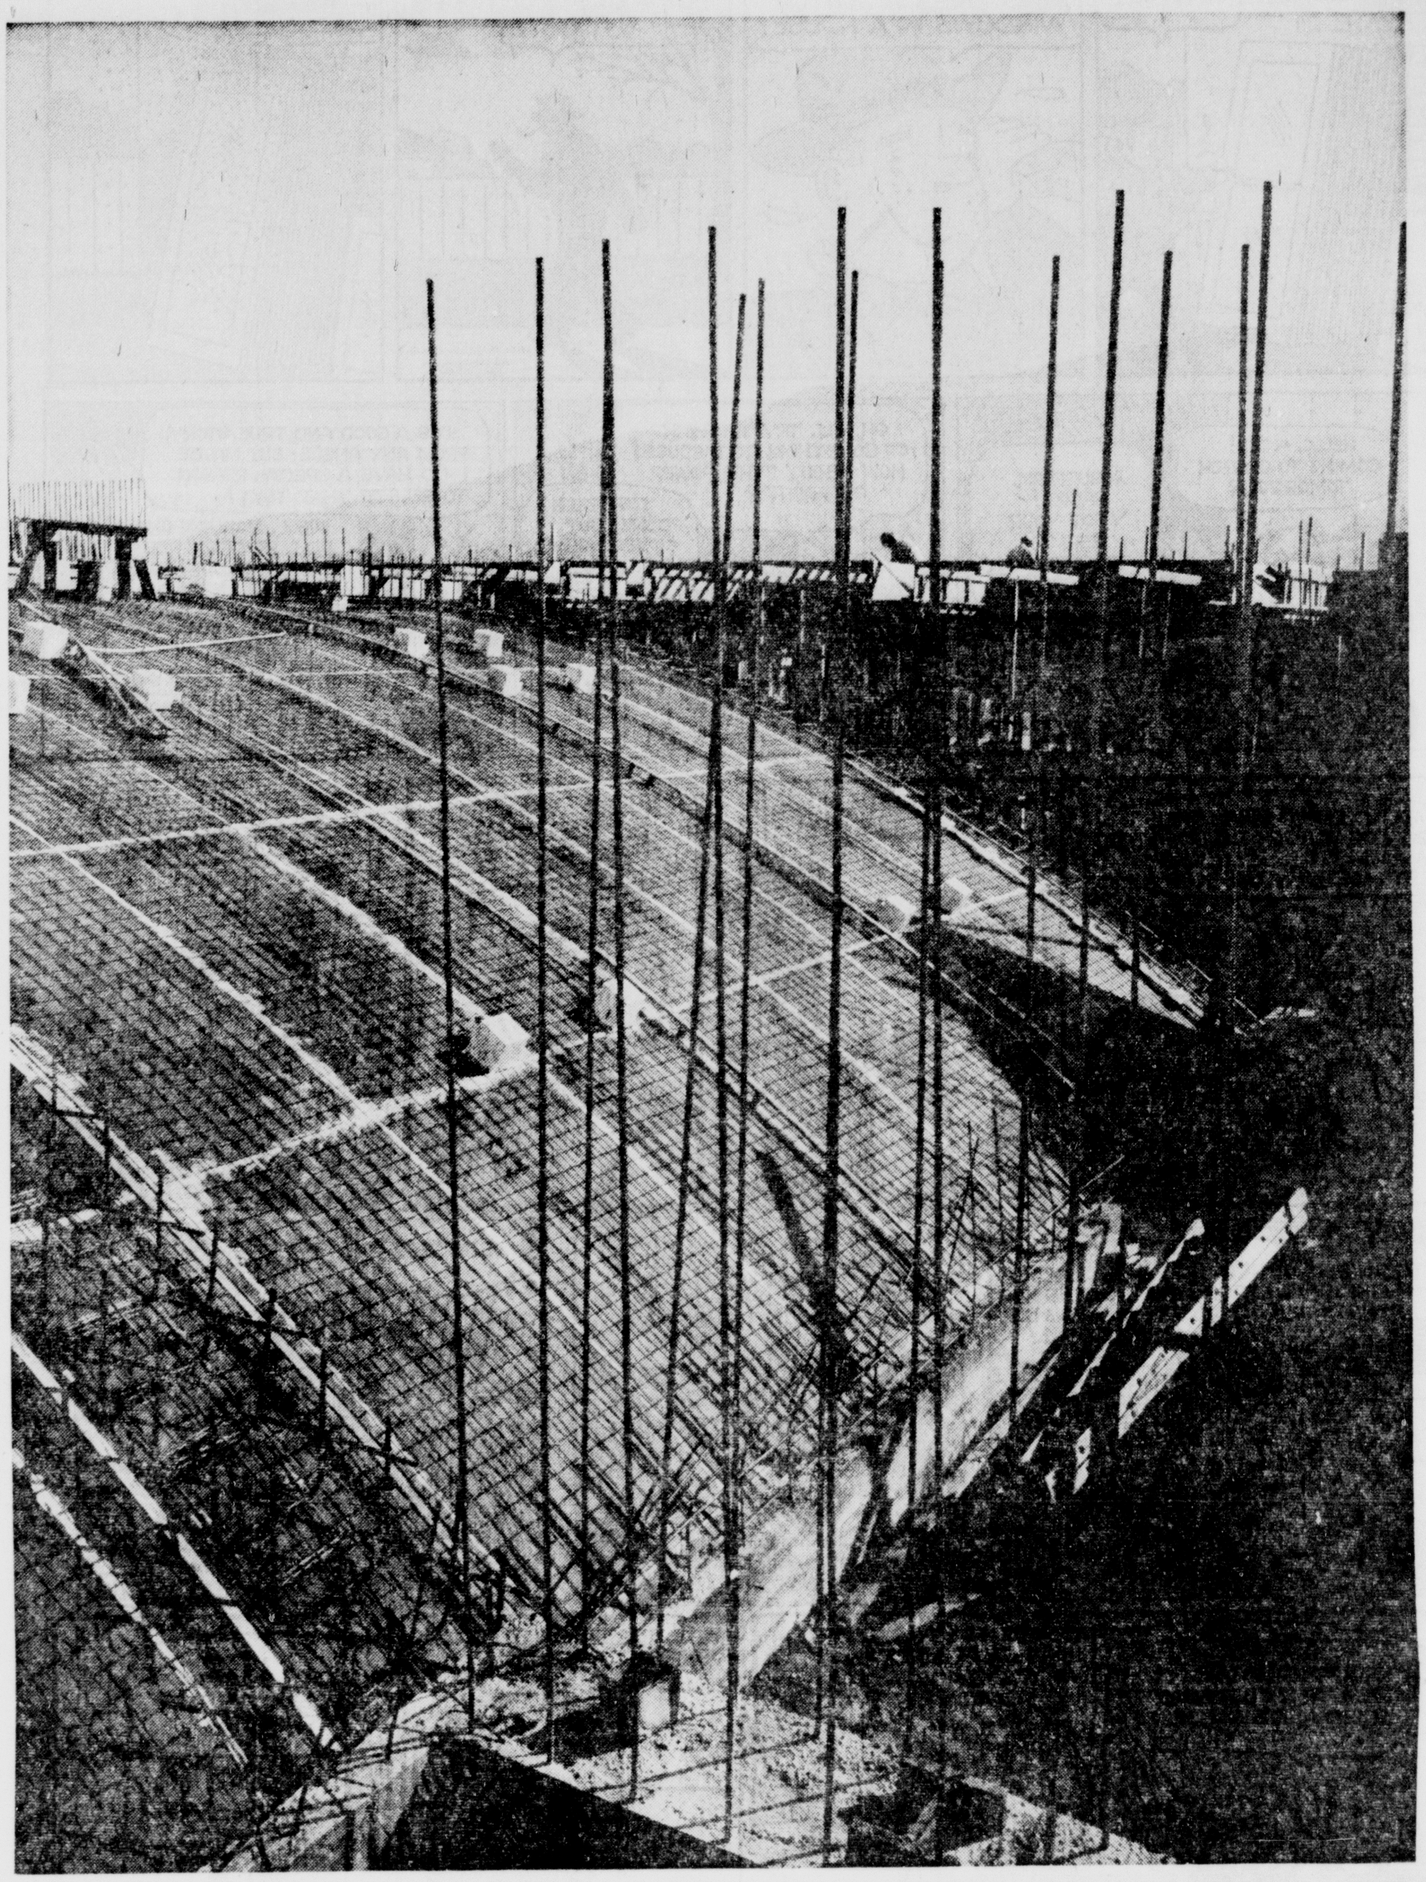
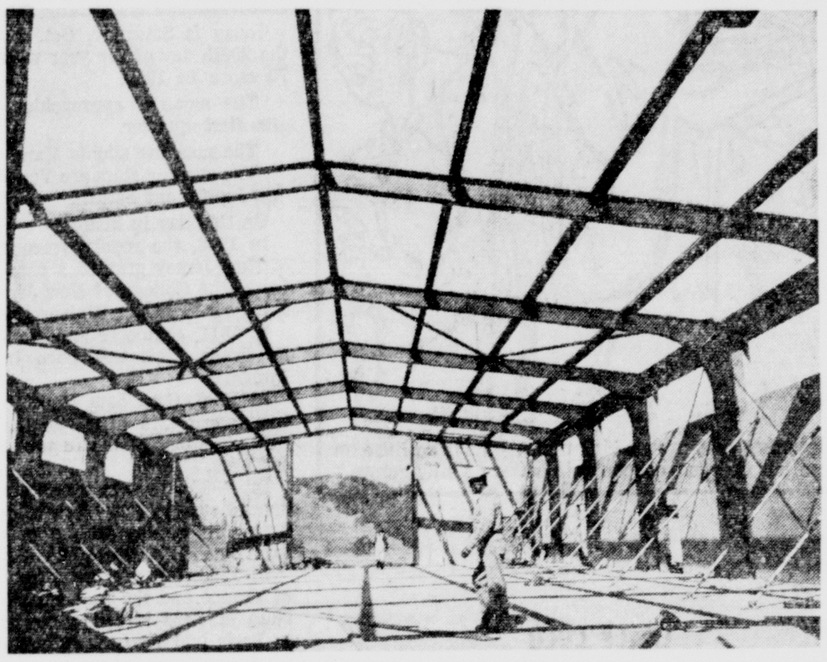
Civic Center Takes On A New Look



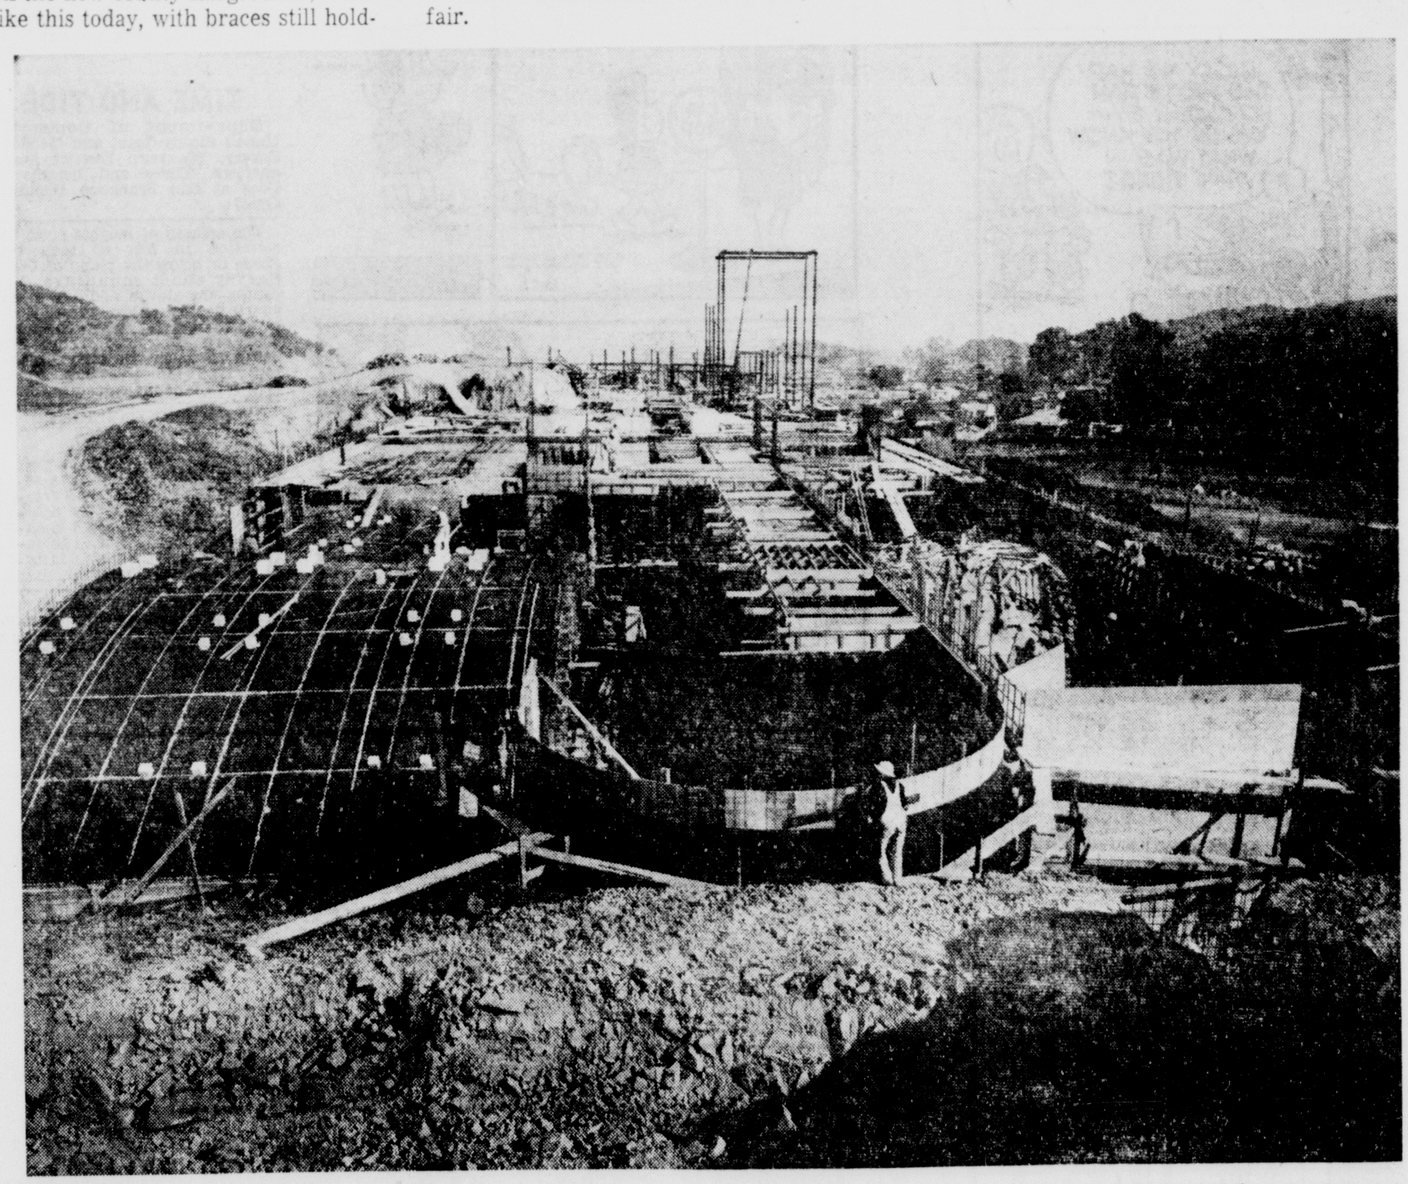
MILITARY BUILDINGS RISE FIRST —Walls of the Naval Reserve Training Center buildings at the county fairgrounds in Santa Venetia are being poured on the already installed floors of the buildings. The rocks below the grid of reinforcing steel will be on the oustide of the building's walls. Concrete from the truck (right) is poured into these rocks. After the concrete hardens, the slabs are tilted up in place to form the walls. In the background is the National Guard Armory, which has smooth concrete exterior.



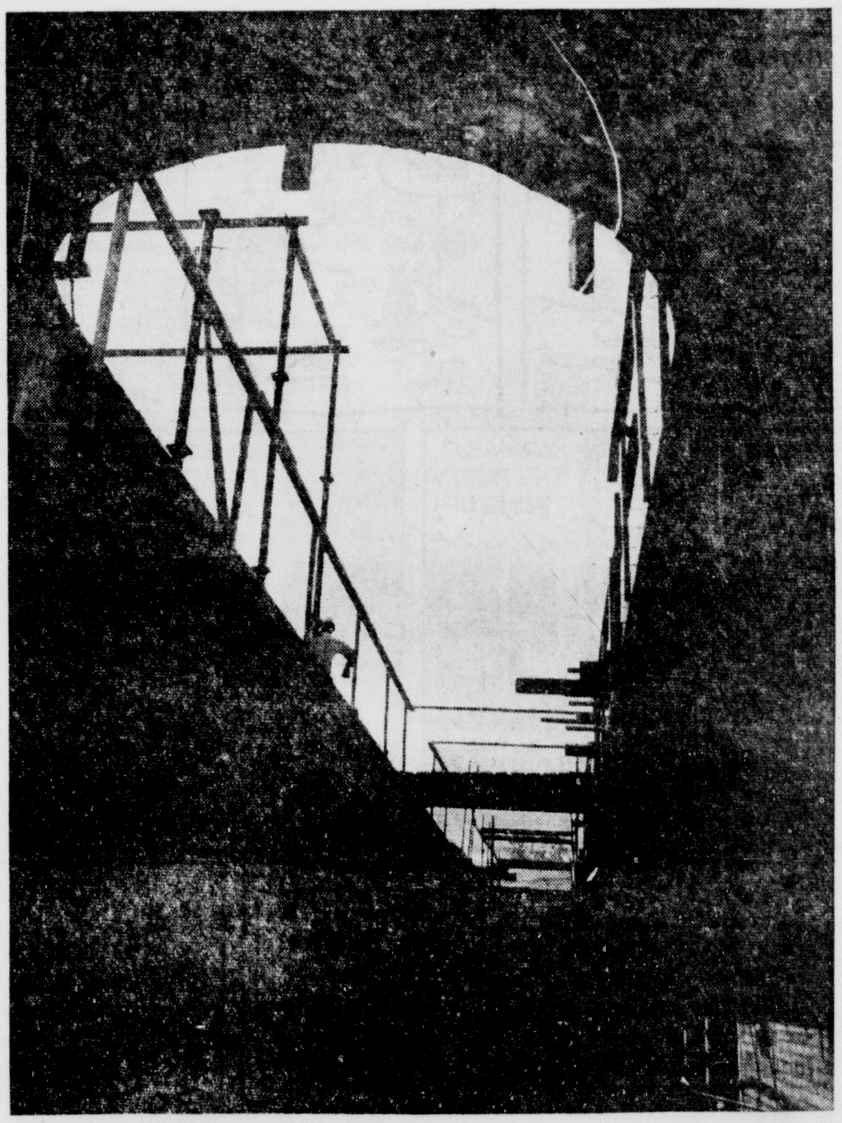
MASSIVE ARCH—Heavy reinforcing steel checkerboards archway which will span road going through the new civic center building at Santa Venetia. Two of these will arch across a 66-foot roadway and give 15½-foot clearance to vehicles passing underneath. First floor of the three-story main building will be atop arch. Rothschild, Raffin and Weirick, contractors for the near four million dollar building, expect to complete it late next year.



ARMORY FRAMEWORK — National Guard Armory, first structure to rise on the new county fairgrounds, looks like this today, with braces still holding up the concrete tilt-up slabs which form the walls. This hall will also be the first exhibit hall for the county fair.



OVERALL VIEW—From south end main building of Frank Lloyd Wright-designed civic center looks like this today. This is the main floor, shortest of the three in the concrete building. The second floor will extend onto the dirt hillside in the foreground and third story will reach above and beyond hillside spot from which picture was taken. Two arches which span the roadway going through the building are in the foreground. The far end of the building is about 562 feet away. The highest steel in the right center shows the final height of the building.



PATTERN OF LIGHT—This is view looking upward from ground level through long lightwell which divides the main building of the new Marin County Civic Center into two sections. The ground level will be a planted area. As the lightwell reaches upward three stories it gets wider. Top will be covered with arch of plastic roofing. Redwood Defense Smothers S.R.

By JIM GILMARTIN

A classic defensive performance last night highlighted Redwood High School's 18-0 football victory over the San Rafael Bulldogs in Marin Athletic League action at San Rafael's fog-shrouded gridiron.

Limiting San Rafael to a total of 80 yards rushing and passing, and keeping the Bulldogs on their own side of the 50-yard line for all but two series of downs, the Redwood "Iron Curtain" wowed a crowd of approximately 3,300 fans as the title-minded Giants won their second league game of the year and seventh straight over a two-year period.

And, it was that defensive unit that set up Redwood's first touchdown in the second period when end Herb Schrieber recovered a San Rafael fumble on the Bulldog 20. Two plays later Keith Norton raced 18 yards into touchdown territory for six points.

That was enough to win, but the Giant offense wanted its share of glory and collected same with touchdowns in the third and fourth stanzas, both set up on long pass plays from quarterback Roger Siemens to glue-fingered John Whitney. The first aerial went 49 yards to San Rafael's six, from where Norton tallied his second TD on the next play, and the fourth period Siemens-Whitney combo covered 31 yards to the Bulldog 3. Mike Alessio went over for the score on the very next play.

Alessio attempted to kick extra points after all three touchdowns, but all were wide.

"I can't say enough for our defensive unit," said Redwood Coach Bob Troppman. Co-Captain Mike Hoffman again was nothing short of sensational in his linebacking duties, time and again diagnosing the Bulldog play patterns and smothering them with cat-like quickness.

San Rafael's statistics show only 38 yards rushing and 42 passing. The only times the Bulldogs penetrated Redwood's half of the 50-yard line were in the second half. Late in the third period an 11-yard pass, Jack Sovereign to Billy Roberts, put San Rafael on the Giant 48 and the Bulldogs managed to get as far as the 38 in six plays. Then, on the final play of the game the Bulldogs took over on Redwood's 35 for their only other visit to enemy territory.

Troppman heaped praise on a number of defensive men, including Hoffman, Mike Walsh, Mark Pearce, John Keppel, Buddy Weckel, Schrieber and John Clum.

He also liked the running of halfback Norton and the pass catching of Whitney, whose two receptions were the work of excellent maneuverability and timing. Redwood gained 104 yards rushing and 97 passing.

Although San Rafael's offense got nowhere fast, the Bulldog defense played a creditable game. As Troppman pointed out, "I'm glad this game's over. San Rafael is a team that is getting stronger and stronger. They're well-coached and had us pretty-well scouted."

Most prominent Bulldog defenders were end Randy Petrini, tackle Chris Yaeger and linebacker Alan Finley.

The Bulldogs thwarted two Redwood drives in the first period. The first was stopped on the San Rafael 8-yard line when Paul Pellollo recovered a Norton fumble and the second was stopped on the 14 when Yaeger smothered Alessio for a four-yard loss on a fourth down play.

Redwood, now 2-0 in league play, meets Tamalpais next Saturday afternoon at Kentfield. San Rafael, 0-2, entertains Drake next Friday night.

It's Win-Or-Else For S.F. Tomorrow

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers will battle favored Green Bay tomorrow before what is expected to be the largest crowd ever to see a football game in this baseball-happy city.

The Green Bay Packers predict attendance at County Stadium, home of the Milwaukee Braves, will exceed the 40,199 that turned out to see the Packers play the Baltimore Colts on a Saturday night in 1955.

Although the Colts and Chicago Bears lead the Western Division, the Packers and 49ers come next. But a loss could all but eliminate the California team, which has a 2-2 record after losing, 27-10 to Chicago last week.

The Packers, idle last week, are 2-1, and the Colts and Bears 3-1.

Packer Coach Vince Lombardi said, "This is a game San Francisco must win to stay in contention. If we win, we'll still be in contention, but they must win to stay in contention."

Dan McGuire, the 49er publicity director, agreed with Lombardi's opinion and said San Francisco Coach Red Hickey has also said he considers tomorrow's meeting a make-or-break affair.

McGuire also quoted Hickey as saying he is still undecided whether to start John Brodie or Y. A. Tittle as the San Francisco quarterback. "We won't know who will start until they line up at the kickoff," Hickey said.

INJURED 49ERS

One thing Hickey does know—three of his regulars are still out of action.

Missing from the offensive lineup will be right guard Ted Connolly and left tackle John Thomas. Left linebacker Clancy Osborne will also be absent from the defensive unit.

Connolly injured his knee Thursday when he collided with newcomer Ray Norton, the U.S. Olympic team runner, on a pass play. Connolly came up with a bad knee and is out indefinitely. The others were hurt in previous games.

The replacements include two rookies, Mike Magac from Missouri for Connolly and Gordon Kelley from Georgia for Osborne. Also out of service will be the utility man in San Francisco's defensive backfield, Jim Ridlon.

The Packers, who annually play two home games in Milwaukee, will go into the contest at full strength. Lamar McHan, who guided Green Bay to wins over Detroit and Baltimore in its last two games, will again quarterback.

The Packers are 9½ point favorites.

TAM BATTLES MARIN 'CATS AT KENTFIELD

Tamalpais High Indians will be minus one of their best braves for tonight's tangle at Kentfield with Marin Catholic High. Star halfback Pat Morgan has been benched this week for "disciplinary reasons."

The Indians will go against the Wildcats with a San Rafael scalp dangling from their belt, and Marin Catholic, who lost theirs to Sir Francis Drake High last week, will no doubt try to take advantage of Morgan's absence.

Coach James Hanretty's Indians will depend a lot on the fancy running of sophomore Warren Domino and the hard rushing of Rich Hamilton to offset any onslaught Marin halfback Jerry Crowe may spark in Coach Harry Moore's Wildcats.

Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m.

WEEKEND SCHEDULE

Pro Grid Leaders Due For Upsets?

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Baltimore Colts and Chicago Bears, who share the lead in the Western Division of the National Football League, play on the road tomorrow against a pair of teams that have not yet won a game and are due for an upset.

Baltimore, in excellent shape, was a 14-point pick over the Detroit Lions and Chicago was the choice by six points over the Los Angeles Rams.

Los Angeles, back home after a three-game road trip, now has lost 12 in a row for the team's longest losing streak in 20 years. The Rams still are annoyed at the Bears for the "signal-jamming" stunt Chicago pulled during a 34-27 victory two weeks ago.

Coach Bob Waterfield, who is learning that coaching can be as rough as playing, will start Frank Ryan, a third-year quarterback who once played for Rice. Ryan will be the Rams' third signal-caller in as many weeks, following Billy Wade and Buddy Humphrey.

At Detroit, Coach George Wilson said he would stick with Jim Ninowski at quarterback, even though the Lions' attack has produced only two touchdowns while suffering three defeats. However, Wilson planned to shake up at least five other positions in the starting platoons:

Both Waterfield and Wilson feel that just as it is practically impossible to go undefeated in the NFL, so is it inevitable to go for too long a stretch without victory. At least, they're hoping that tomorrow is THE day.

The Cleveland Browns, only team in the league with a perfect record thus far, play at home against the Philadelphia Eagles in an important Eastern Division game. The Eagles, with a 3-1 record, need a victory to stay "alive" in the race. But the Browns, who won their first meeting, 41-24, in Philadelphia, are 10-point favorites.

In other NFL games, the Green Bay Packers were favored by 9½ points over the San Francisco 49ers at Milwaukee; the Pittsburgh Steelers, with quarterback Bobby Layne a doubtful starter because of an injured thumb were rated even with the Redskins at Washington; and the St. Louis Cardinals were picked by 10 at home against the winless Dallas Cowboys.

The American Football League presents one of this weekend's top pro attractions at New York, where the Titans entertain the Houston Oilers in a battle for first place in the Eastern Division. In other games, the Denver Broncos are at home against the Boston Patriots, and the Buffalo Bills entertain the Oakland Raiders.

BOWLING

Dottie Rosso's 490 series highlighted Thursday morning's "Splitniks League" at Greenbrae Lanes.

Penny DeCota followed with a 477, Sally Powers had 471, Nadeen Gelatti 460 and Lu Latson and Grace Webster each 450.

Sally Powers was a model of consistency as her 471 total included three consecutive games of 157—a rare triplicate.

In yesterday's Bowling Bags League at Greenbrae Jean Gaffney led the way with 138-146-199—483. Dottie Rosso had 464 and Rosamund Kavanagh a 459.

Raiders Slim Favorites Over Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders were due in town today for tomorrow's American Football League game with the Buffalo Bills and the West Coast team is a slight favorite to win its third straight.

It marked the first of a three-game swing which will take Coach Eddie Erdelatz, his ulcers and his troops on to New York and Boston after the Buffalo scuffle.

Erdelatz is reported to have the squad at a mental peak for the road trip. Fears were dispelled that Billy Lott, the team's second best ground gainer, might not be able to play when he reported before leaving that the pulled muscle in his leg and improved. Lott injured it in the final workout before heading east.

Driver Badly Hurt In Laguna Seca Accident

FT. ORD (AP)—Briton Sterling Moss, hitting top speeds of over 120 miles an hour, broke Laguna Seca's race course record yesterday, shortly after a San Jose sports car driver was seriously injured in a practice run.

Moss did not appear to be pushing his 2.5-litre Lotus MK XIX as he averaged 90.5 miles an hour in a qualifying run over the twisting 1.9-mile asphalt course.

His time of 1 minute 17.3 seconds was 2.4 seconds better than the record set last year by Charles Howard of China Camp, Calif., in a Huffaker Special.

Unless some other driver beats Moss tomorrow morning, he'll have the pole position for the afternoon 200-mile $20,000 Pacific Grand Prix.

Jack Graham, San Jose plumbing contractor, was on a practice lap when his Ferrari Testa Rosa went out of control. It flipped and came to rest on top of the 41-year-old driver. He suffered head injuries.

There are 61 professional drivers here competing for a share of the prize money. Racing today was given over to the amateurs.

By coincidence, Graham was hurt on the same turn where Sacramento driver Sam Weiss was killed last spring in Laguna Seca's only racing fatality.

Moss described the closed course asphalt track near Monterey as a driver's track which cancels out any advantage big cars may have in power and puts the competition on the basis of driver's skill and car roadability.

The 31-year-old Moss figured as a pre-race favorite with Jack Brabham, Bruce McLaren and Phil Hill, this season's 1-2-3 of international road racing.

Jim Hall of Dallas, Tex., had the second best lap time with 1:17.8 in a Type 61 Maserati. Augie Pabst of Milwaukee was third with 1:18.2 in an American built Scarab and Carroll Shelby, another Dallas driver, was fourth in 1:19.7 with a Birdcage Maserati.

Mrs. Prydz Wins Second Straight M.V. Golf Title

Mrs. George Prydz of San Anselmo won the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club championship for the second straight year yesterday by defeating Mrs. Lynn Sumpter of Corte Madera 5 and 4 in the scheduled 18-hole finals.

Mrs. Philip Schafer defeated Mrs. Arthur Schallock 2 and 1 for the first flight title and Mrs. Victor Verdellet downed Mrs. Joseph Greenland 3 and 2 in the second flight finals.

Winners of defeated flights were Mesdames D. P. Norton, John Kobil and Walter Goldman.

Mrs. Garry Conzelman won the consolation flight with a net score of 67.

Japanese Stars Defeat Giants

TOKYO (AP) — The favored San Francisco Giants were shut out 1-0 today by the Yomiuri Giants as the visitors opened their 16-game goodwill tour of Japan.

The Tokyo team, which failed to make the Japan World Series, scored its run in the seventh inning.

Centerfielder Akira Kunimatsu smashed a triple. He scored when right-fielder Andy Miyamoto of Hawaii bunted to squeeze Kunimatsu home.

The battle of the Giants opened before a crowd of 20,000 which later swelled to 25,000 in partly filled Korakuen Stadium.

Yuba Defeats Mariners By 28-12 Count

College of Marin Tars last night at Kentfield stadium were behind the Yuba College 49ers 28-0 in the final minutes of the game when Coach Harry Pieper's club, with not enough players to field two squads, fought like they were at the Alamo, scored twice, and almost three times before the last shot was fired.

When the smoke cleared the scoreboard read: Yuba 28, Marin 12.

Yuba, easily dominating the first half, scored 14 points on a 40-yard run and a 13-yard pass play. The Tars were whacked by a 50-yard TD run around their right end by 49er halfback Mel Oliver in the third period, and caught off guard in the last four minutes of the same quarter when a pass from Marin quarterback Ron Blum to the right flat was intercepted by Yuba center, fast-running Skip Fesmire, who took it on Marin's 45 and rumbled to the two. Yuba ran it over in the next play and passed for the two-point PAT to complete its 28 digits.

There were only eight minutes left and most ball clubs would have thrown in the towel, but the Tars were not about to. Halfback Russ Cook sparked a series of offensive plays that took the Tars 60 yards to the Yuba three inch line where Blum ripped over center for six points.

BLOCKED PUNT

After the kick off an angry rushing line of Marin forced Yuba to punt on a fourth down situation on its own 15 where five Tar linemen annihilated the kicker before he could get the ball away. Several plays later, Tar right tackle Frank Gallardo tore a huge hole in the line for Blum who skipped over on a roll out, making the score 28-12.

Marin was able to get the ball again in the final minute and a half of the game. The Tars clicked on a 45-yard pass from Blum to Mike Cicero on Yuba's 20. The clock would have allowed about four more plays, but a double off sides nullified the play and Marin's efforts for a third touchdown.

Marin Girl Wins Top Swim Honors

Kathy Barbano of Camp Lagunitas, a freshman at Chico State College, led her school's Women's Athletic Assn. swimming team to victory over 11 other college teams in a recent swim meet.

Miss Barbano, a graduate of Drake High School, scored 16 of her team's 51 points by winning the 25-yard free style and 25-yard backstroke and placing second in the 50 free.

She was the only freshman swimmer in the meet.

Redwood Defense Smothers S.R.

By JIM GILMARTIN

A classic defensive performance last night highlighted Redwood High School's 18-0 football victory over the San Rafael Bulldogs in Marin Athletic League action at San Rafael's fog-shrouded gridiron.

Limiting San Rafael to a total of 80 yards rushing and passing, and keeping the Bulldogs on their own side of the 50-yard line for all but two series of downs, the Redwood "Iron Curtain" wowed a crowd of approximately 3,300 fans as the title-minded Giants won their second league game of the year and seventh straight over a two-year period.

And, it was that defensive unit that set up Redwood's first touchdown in the second period when end Herb Schrieber recovered a San Rafael fumble on the Bulldog 20. Two plays later Keith Norton raced 18 yards into touchdown territory for six points.

That was enough to win, but the Giant offense wanted its share of glory and collected same with touchdowns in the third and fourth stanzas, both set up on long pass plays from quarterback Roger Siemens to glue-fingered John Whitney. The first aerial went 49 yards to San Rafael's six, from where Norton tallied his second TD on the next play, and the fourth period Siemens-Whitney combo covered 31 yards to the Bulldog 3. Mike Alessio went over for the score on the very next play.

Alessio attempted to kick extra points after all three touchdowns, but all were wide.

"I can't say enough for our defensive unit," said Redwood Coach Bob Troppman. Co-Captain Mike Hoffman again was nothing short of sensational in his linebacking duties, time and again diagnosing the Bulldog play patterns and smothering them with cat-like quickness.

San Rafael's statistics show only 38 yards rushing and 42 passing. The only times the Bulldogs penetrated Redwood's half of the 50-yard line were in the second half. Late in the third period an 11-yard pass, Jack Sovereign to Billy Roberts, put San Rafael on the Giant 48 and the Bulldogs managed to get as far as the 38 in six plays. Then, on the final play of the game the Bulldogs took over on Redwood's 35 for their only other visit to enemy territory.

Troppman heaped praise on a number of defensive men, including Hoffman, Mike Walsh, Mark Pearce, John Keppel, Buddy Weckel, Schrieber and John Clum.

He also liked the running of halfback Norton and the pass catching of Whitney, whose two receptions were the work of excellent maneuverability and timing. Redwood gained 104 yards rushing and 97 passing.

Although San Rafael's offense got nowhere fast, the Bulldog defense played a creditable game. As Troppman pointed out, "I'm glad this game's over. San Rafael is a team that is getting stronger and stronger. They're well-coached and had us pretty-well scouted."

Most prominent Bulldog defenders were end Randy Petrini, tackle Chris Yaeger and linebacker Alan Finley.

The Bulldogs thwarted two Redwood drives in the first period. The first was stopped on the San Rafael 8-yard line when Paul Pellollo recovered a Norton fumble and the second was stopped on the 14 when Yaeger smothered Alessio for a four-yard loss on a fourth down play.

Redwood, now 2-0 in league play, meets Tamalpais next Saturday afternoon at Kentfield. San Rafael, 0-2, entertains Drake next Friday night.

REDWOOD RAMBLER — Redwood halfback Mike Alessio (42) races back a punt 22 yards in fourth quarter of last night's game against San Rafael. Coming in to make the tackle is Bulldog back Billy Roberts. Other San Rafael players are Chris Yaeger (72) and George Bullis (53).

It's Win-Or-Else For S.F. Tomorrow

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers will battle favored Green Bay tomorrow before what is expected to be the largest crowd ever to see a football game in this baseball-happy city.

The Green Bay Packers predict attendance at County Stadium, home of the Milwaukee Braves, will exceed the 40,199 that turned out to see the Packers play the Baltimore Colts on a Saturday night in 1955.

Although the Colts and Chicago Bears lead the Western Division, the Packers and 49ers come next. But a loss could all but eliminate the California team, which has a 2-2 record after losing, 27-10 to Chicago last week.

The Packers, idle last week, are 2-1, and the Colts and Bears 3-1.

Packer Coach Vince Lombardi said, "This is a game San Francisco must win to stay in contention. If we win, we'll still be in contention, but they must win to stay in contention."

Dan McGuire, the 49er publicity director, agreed with Lombardi's opinion and said San Francisco Coach Red Hickey has also said he considers tomorrow's meeting a make-or-break affair.

McGuire also quoted Hickey as saying he is still undecided whether to start John Brodie or Y. A. Tittle as the San Francisco quarterback. "We won't know who will start until they line up at the kickoff," Hickey said.

INJURED 49ERS

One thing Hickey does know—three of his regulars are still out of action.

Missing from the offensive lineup will be right guard Ted Connolly and left tackle John Thomas. Left linebacker Clancy Osborne will also be absent from the defensive unit.

Connolly injured his knee Thursday when he collided with newcomer Ray Norton, the U.S. Olympic team runner, on a pass play. Connolly came up with a bad knee and is out indefinitely. The others were hurt in previous games.

The replacements include two rookies, Mike Magac from Missouri for Connolly and Gordon Kelley from Georgia for Osborne. Also out of service will be the utility man in San Francisco's defensive backfield, Jim Ridlon.

The Packers, who annually play two home games in Milwaukee, will go into the contest at full strength. Lamar McHan, who guided Green Bay to wins over Detroit and Baltimore in its last two games, will again quarterback.

The Packers are 9½ point favorites.

Raiders Slim Favorites Over Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders were due in town today for tomorrow's American Football League game with the Buffalo Bills and the West Coast team is a slight favorite to win its third straight.

It marked the first of a three-game swing which will take Coach Eddie Erdelatz, his ulcers and his troops on to New York and Boston after the Buffalo scuffle.

Erdelatz is reported to have the squad at a mental peak for the road trip. Fears were dispelled that Billy Lott, the team's second best ground gainer, might not be able to play when he reported before leaving that the pulled muscle in his leg and improved. Lott injured it in the final workout before heading east.

Academy Football Team Loses, 19-14

Emeryville High scored a touchdown in the final minutes of play yesterday to defeat the San Rafael Military Academy football squad 19-14 at the San Rafael field.

San Rafael's touchdowns were by George Booth on a 62-yard run and Bill Freeman on a 46-yard run. Doug Silva kicked the two extra points before he suffered a broken leg.

WEEKEND SCHEDULE

Pro Grid Leaders Due For Upsets?

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Baltimore Colts and Chicago Bears, who share the lead in the Western Division of the National Football League, play on the road tomorrow against a pair of teams that have not yet won a game and are due for an upset.

Baltimore, in excellent shape, was a 14-point pick over the Detroit Lions and Chicago was the choice by six points over the Los Angeles Rams.

Los Angeles, back home after a three-game road trip, now has lost 12 in a row for the team's longest losing streak in 20 years. The Rams still are annoyed at the Bears for the "signal-jamming" stunt Chicago pulled during a 34-27 victory two weeks ago.

Coach Bob Waterfield, who is learning that coaching can be as rough as playing, will start Frank Ryan, a third-year quarterback who once played for Rice. Ryan will be the Rams' third signal-caller in as many weeks, following Billy Wade and Buddy Humphrey.

At Detroit, Coach George Wilson said he would stick with Jim Ninowski at quarterback, even though the Lions' attack has produced only two touchdowns while suffering three defeats. However, Wilson planned to shake up at least five other positions in the starting platoons:

Both Waterfield and Wilson feel that just as it is practically impossible to go undefeated in the NFL, so is it inevitable to go for too long a stretch without victory. At least, they're hoping that tomorrow is THE day.

The Cleveland Browns, only team in the league with a perfect record thus far, play at home against the Philadelphia Eagles in an important Eastern Division game. The Eagles, with a 3-1 record, need a victory to stay "alive" in the race. But the Browns, who won their first meeting, 41-24, in Philadelphia, are 10-point favorites.

In other NFL games, the Green Bay Packers were favored by 9½ points over the San Francisco 49ers at Milwaukee; the Pittsburgh Steelers, with quarterback Bobby Layne a doubtful starter because of an injured thumb were rated even with the Redskins at Washington; and the St. Louis Cardinals were picked by 10 at home against the winless Dallas Cowboys.

The American Football League presents one of this weekend's top pro attractions at New York, where the Titans entertain the Houston Oilers in a battle for first place in the Eastern Division. In other games, the Denver Broncos are at home against the Boston Patriots, and the Buffalo Bills entertain the Oakland Raiders.

BOWLING

Dottie Rosso's 490 series highlighted Thursday morning's "Splitniks League" at Greenbrae Lanes.

Penny DeCota followed with a 477, Sally Powers had 471, Nadeen Gelatti 460 and Lu Latson and Grace Webster each 450.

Sally Powers was a model of consistency as her 471 total included three consecutive games of 157—a rare triplicate.

In yesterday's Bowling Bags League at Greenbrae Jean Gaffney led the way with 138-146-199—483. Dottie Rosso had 464 and Rosamund Kavanagh a 459.

Kentfield Couple Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

German Pair Play Game Called 'Don't Get Angry'

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

Hermann and Gertrude Dietrich, each a ripe and hearty 79, will sit down tonight, as they do almost every night of their lives, and play a few rounds of a German checker game called "mensch angere dich nicht!"

The game will follow a quiet gathering of their family and friends to celebrate the couple's golden wedding.

Freely translated, the name of the game means, "don't get angry!"

Judging from their broad smiles, their outbursts of laughter when one or the other makes a winning move, neither Gertrude nor Hermann has anything to be angry over.

COZY HOME

They live in a cozy shingle home at 338 Kent Avenue in Kentfield with their two daughters and their sons-in-law. The Dietrichs, well known among their neighbors even though neither of them speaks a word of English, have lived in the house since 1956 when they arrived here from Bavaria.

When their plane touched American soil, it represented the end of a life in limbo which had begun for them more than 20 years earlier.

CLERK IN CITY HALL

In 1934, Hermann, a clerk in the city hall in Breslau, was fired from his job because he would not join the Nazi Party. From then until 1945 he worked in the circulation department of a Silesian newspaper, holding onto the job only by "keeping quiet" and not expressing his antagonism to the party.

Through their eldest daughter, Mrs. Paul Holzapfel, the story of their flight, separation and eventual arrival on American soil was interpreted.

During the closing stages of World War II, before the Russian forces moved into that area of Silesia which is now in Poland, Mrs. Dietrich and her two daughters, Mrs. Holzapfel and Mrs. Adrian Maendle, escaped into Austria, leaving Dietrich in Breslau.

Hermann made his way to Austria some weeks later, only to find that his wife had returned to Breslau in search of him. After a period of searching, hindered by lack of mail, communications and utter confusion throughout the occupied country, the two finally were reunited in Unterknoeringen, Bavaria, where they remained until 1956.

It was then that they came to Kentfield, where they joined their daughters and sons-in-law in the home they had purchased.

A familiar sight up and down Kent Avenue, Gertrude does all of the family shopping and prepares the evening meal for all of them. Hermann's daily stint is spent taking care of the well-tended garden. All the other members of the family work during the day.

"She knows to the penny if she is getting the right change," Mrs. Holzapfel said, telling of her mother's daily shopping tour without benefit of the English language. "If she doesn't like the looks of a vegetable in one market, she goes right away to another store. Then, often she will return to the first store and buy the first vegetable she had looked at," she laughed. "We think that is her way of getting exercise."

As he sipped his beer, Hermann was reminded that he first saw his bride at a Bock beer festival in Breslau in October, 1910.

Which of the couple had proposed to the other?

"I don't remember," Gertrude said, shyly.

"She's forgotten," Hermann said in mock anger. "I was the one who proposed, of course!"

Recreation Plan Drawing Requested

The Sausalito Recreation Commission decided Thursday night to ask the city for funds to get a landscape architect's rendering of the commission's proposed recreational facilities on Napa-Litho Street waterfront property.

The commission will ask that the city acquire property owned by the Sausalito Properties, Inc., chairman John R. Minton said.

The commission has in mind using the property for small boat facilities, a fresh water swimming pool, a view point for everyone, and a playground for smaller children, he reported.

Minton said an interim report was made last night emphasizing the Napa-Litho area as the major waterfront access recreational area and that a complete report will be ready in a few months.

"This land is our last hope for recreational area," he declared.

City Manager Charles A. Brown told the commission that work on enlarging and improving the Turney Street boat ramp may have to be held up. He said it may have to be relocated because of a proposed land swap between Sausalito Properties, Inc., and the city. Specifications for the ramp were approved last week by the city council.

Candidates Night Planned At College

A "meet-the-candidates night" will be held by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin at 8 p.m., Nov. 1, in Olney Hall of the College of Marin in Kentfield.

Brief talks are to be given and audience questions answered by Fred G. DuPuis and Clement W. Miller, candidates for congressman; Charles M. Geller and John F. McCarthy, candidates for state senator; and William T. Bagley and Everett A. Matzen, candidates for assemblyman.

Dads, Daughters Plan Safari From Dominican

A motorcade of jeeps, Pierce Arrows and sports cars, will leave Forest Meadows on the Dominican campus in San Rafael tomorrow noon, led by a whizzing police escort.

The caravan will head through downtown San Rafael, out the Miracle Mile into San Anselmo, and into Sleepy Hollow, as students of the Dominican Convent Upper School, accompanied by their fathers, pay their first official visit to Dominican's new school site at the end of Butterfield Road.

About 105 cars and 350 pith-helmeted and Bermuda-short-clad students and costumed fathers are expected to join the motorcade, reported Sister M. Thomasine, O.P. of the Dominican Upper School.

The Sleepy Hollow Safari for Dads and Daughters will pass before a faculty reviewing stand in Sleepy Hollow at 1:30 p.m., announced Sister Thomasine. Prizes will be given for the best-decorated cars and hunters. (One father will be dressed as a gorilla, it was reported.)

The hunters and their assistants will stalk game in the wilds of the Sleepy Hollow campus. The group will break up into eight hunting teams, and 12 large stuffed animals will be hidden around the campus,Sister Thomasine said.

When the final jungle horn blows at 3 p.m., the hunters will return their trophies to the jungle station and sit down to a picnic supper. The students will put on a jungle show for their guests in "Crockodile Cove". The fathers will also be awarded big game hunters' citations.

When the sun begins to go down, the hunters will be told to break camp and head for civilization, Sister Thomasine said.

Bloodhound Tracks Down Bank Robber

A Marysville bank robbery suspect, who was tracked Thursday by a San Rafael special deputy sheriff and his bloodhound, gave up without a struggle in Nevada County about midnight Friday.

Police Chief John Blevins of Marysville identified the man as Robert Carl Adams, 24, a Portland truck driver. Adams is being held by federal authorities in Nevada County and may be taken before a federal court in Sacramento, Chief Blevins said.

Michael McLean of San Rafael, his bloodhound and an FBI agent from San Rafael left for Rough and Ready in Nevada County early yesterday to help in the search. Chief Blevins said Adams was caught by Nevada County sheriff's deputies.

According to the chief, Adams still had a gun believed to be that used in holding up Mid Valley Savings and Loan Assn. in Marysville Wednesday afternoon. He also had most of the $1,400 taken in the holdup.

Laundry Workers Sign Up Members

Laundry Workers Local 26 has signed up more than 100 new members in the last month, the Marin County Labor Council was told Wednesday.

The council also learned that the State, County and Municipal Employees Union will meet in Sacramento Nov. 3 to discuss a pay adjustment for San Quentin Prison employees.

In other business, the council joined in support of two resolutions from the State Federation of Labor convention, one opposing any undermining of the eight-hour day and another supporting the right of paid fire fighters to organize.

SPEAKS ON HEARING— Ada M. Hill, administrative assistant of the American Hearing Society in Washington, D.C., will speak on "Hearing—a Community Problem" at 8 p.m. Oct. 28 in Olney Hall of the College of Marin, under sponsorship of the Hearing Society of Marin. "The Glass Wall," a film on rehabilitation of the hard of hearing, will be shown.

At YMCA Session

Lyn Woods, Dave LeBeck, Chris Tilden and Tom Harriman are Marin County YMCA leaders attending a leadership training camp at La Honda in San Mateo County today and tomorrow.

Man Grabs $75 At Novato Store

A man, about 30 years old grabbed about $75 from the cash register of a Novato liquor store Thursday and vanished while the proprietor waited on a woman customer.

George Warden, who operates Warden's Liquor Store at 878 Grant Avenue, told sheriff's deputies the woman may have been working with the till tapper.

Marinwood Recreation Site Costs Detailed

Preliminary grading and turfing of a 10-acre proposed recreation site at Miller and Lucas Valley Roads will cost $5,000 to $8,000, it was reported to a meeting of the Marinwood Community Services District board Thursday night.

The estimate was given by the parks and recreation committee of the district. Charles A. Bier sent in his resignation from the committee due to departure from the district, but no action was taken to fill the vacancy.

The board voted to institute a social security program for the three paid employees of the district, including two firemen and the business manager, Mrs. Genevieve Bolding.

The board authorized expenditure of an additional $125 for repair of the "fire jeep" and approved an insurance bill of $385.55 on fire equipment exclusive of the jeep, as well as giving personnel coverage. Inclusion of the jeep will add $75 to the annual insurance cost.

An appraisal report on the recreation site was reported to have been prepared by Neil J. Brodsgar of San Rafael and turned over to E. Warren McGuire, assistant county counsel, who was said to be holding it pending further action toward site acquisition.

Mary Bierbrier Takes Vows At Marriage In Mill Valley

Peace Lutheran Church in Mill Valley was decorated with white chrysanthemums for the wedding on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 15, of Mary M. Bierbrier and Richard G. Hahn. The romance of the young couple began when they attended Cushing Academy in Ashburnham, Mass.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lenord T. Bierbrier of Mill Valley, fromerly of Lynnville, Va., wore a classicly styled full length white satin gown with a short train. Her fingertip length veil was held by a cluster of white satin roses and white roses were in her bouquet.

Miss Edith Bierbrier of Mill Valley who was her sister's maid of honor, wore a shrimp colored taffeta, ballerina length gown. Matching was the veiling on her hair and white chrysanthemums were in her bouquet.

The husband of the bride's other sister, Herbert Harris of San Francisco was best man. The Rev. Harold Johnson officiated at the 3 o'clock ceremony which was followed by a small reception at Bob's of Marin in Corte Madera.

Following a honeymoon in the Yosemite, the young couple will reside at 1473 Oak St., San Francisco.

The new benedict, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Hahn of Terrytown, N.Y. has two brothers, Robert and Kimball Hahn, who reside at the family home. Dick, after graduating from Cushing, attended Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania and Westchester College in New York.

The bride, a graduate of Pine Bush High School in Pine Bush, New York, attended Westchester.

Sigma Kappa Alums To Mark Founding

Plans for commemorating the 86th anniversary of the founding of Sigma Kappa Sorority will be made by Marin alumnae members at their first meeting of the 1960-61 year on Tuesday, Oct. 25, at 8 p.m. at the Terra Linda home of Mrs. Robert Hosmer.

According to Mrs. Dorr W. Grover, president of the Marin Alumnae Chapter, the principal observance in the Bay Area of the sorority's founding will be a Founders' Day Luncheon at the Villa Hotel in San Mateo on Saturday, Oct. 29. "Widening Horizons" has been selected as the theme for the affair and guest speaker will be Dr. Alice Dement, professor of psychology at San Jose State College. Dr. Dement is a member of Sigma Kappa and faculty advisor for the active chapter at San Jose State.

The Founders' Day Luncheon is held annually under the auspices of the Bay Area Council of Sigma Kappa, which is composed of representatives from eight Sigma Kappa alumnae chapters in the Bay Area. Mrs. Paul Edison Noland, who was recently installed president of the council, has appointed Mrs. Grover as the council's publicity chairman.

Sigma Kappa Sorority was founded at Colby College, Waterville, Maine, in 1874 and now has 96 active chapters and more than 200 alumnae chapters. Work in the field of gerontology is the sorority's principal national philanthropic project, but members also support the Maine Sea Coast Mission at Bar Harbor, Maine, and the American Farm School in Salonica, Greece. In addition each local alumnae chapter has its own service projects. The Marin Chapter has "adopted" a Korean orphanage and also supports the Hemophelia Foundation.

Officers serving with Mrs. Grover during her term are Mrs. W. P. Duhamel, vice president; Mrs. Robert Judd, secretary; Mrs. Elmo Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Hosmer, panhellenic representative.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Gay Winter Season Lies Just Ahead

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The social pace is now gaining in speed and the gay winter season seems right ahead. The Charity Ball a week from tonight at the Meadow Club, always an annual glamorous event staged by Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary, will be preceded by a number of large cocktail parties. Minthorne Tompkins, who was a member of the young social set which put on the first Charity Ball to benefit Sunny Hills way back when, with his wife will entertain friends as a preliminary to next Saturday's ball. The Robert Franchinis will also host a pre-ball cocktail conclave.

TONIGHT Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Aaron are hosting a pre-Halloween dinner party at their San Rafael home. Witches, pumpkins and goblins will predominate in the decorations. Guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Frank Howard, Dr. and Mrs. James Goebel, Dr. Irving Sharon, Dr. Lucy Lawson and the Jack Wilseys, John Merrymans, Leon Smiths, Robert Gradys and Robert Walkers.

AT THE ST. FRANCIS YACHT CLUB in San Francisco, a former Marinite, Mrs. S. Nicholas Jacobs, entertained a group of friends from over here at luncheon and bridge on Thursday. In the group were Mesdames David Dorward, Curtis Knowles, John Campion, Frank Paganini, Sheldon Griffin, George Schirmer and Edward Mahoney.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY was the theme of the dinner party Mr. and Mrs. Leon Smith gave Sunday evening at their Ross home honoring his mother, Mrs. James E. French. Present to congratulate Mrs. French on her natal anniversary were many of her San Francisco friends.

A FAREWELL brunch was given on Sunday by the Charles Rosenbaums of San Rafael honoring the Stanley Breyers. Stan, who owns one radio station in San Francisco and has bought another in Los Angeles, with his wife and three children will move to Los Angeles as soon as the Kent Woodlands home is sold.

Guests were the Breyers' neighbors, the Walter Josephs, Simon Anixters, Edward Zellers and crossing town for the party were the Robert Eschens of Fairhills. Marie Zeller and Mrs. Eschen, her sister-in-law, were telling of their plans. Both are attending the Golden Jubilee convention of Camp Fire to be held at Commodore Hotel in New York, as delegates from the Marin Council. Mrs. Eschen leaves on Thursday, going to Washington, D. C., first and then to New York. Marie and Mrs. Robin Galloway fly east on Sunday, Oct. 30. Marie will remain for a rendezvous with her son-in-law and daughter, the Edward Barrys. Mrs. Barry is the former Patricia Zeller. He has been studying at Stanford University for the Ph. D. degree, majoring in genetics, and she has a master's degree. He is to receive the degree next week and then he and Pat will leave for the East immediately. He will be at Yale University doing research and Pat will be a research technician. Marie will spend a week-end with them in New Haven, Conn.

ANNUAL TREK north is being made by the Thornton Seligmans of Albuquerque, N. M. they will arrive in San Rafael on Nov. 16 and the following night her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee, are giving a dinner party for them so they will have an opportunity to meet old friends. The visitors will divide their time between Marin and San Francisco, as Mrs. Seligman's mother, Mrs. A. S. Lee, longtime resident of San Rafael, has sold her home, and the first of November will move into a San Francisco apartment.

AFTER FIVE MONTHS in their chateau in Normandy, Col. and Mrs. J. J. Graves are returning to their home in Ross. The chateau, which was badly damaged during World War II, is now in the best of repair. With Col. and Mrs. Graves are the Frank Everetts of Fresno, who were with them for the five months and for a cruise through Scandinavian waters. Also in the party is Colonel Graves' sister-in-law, Mrs. Walker C. Graves of the Peninsula, who has been in Europe for a year, most of the time in Paris. They are crossing the Atlantic by ship and will make the transcontinental trip from New York by train, the City of San Francisco.

A EUROPEAN TRIP is in prospect for Mr. and Mrs. John W. Buxton of Sausalito, who leave on Nov. 4. They'll stop in Bronxville, N. Y., to spend Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pierce Jr., and sail Dec. 2 on the Liberte. They'll be in London for Christmas with John's father, George W. Buxton. The Sausalito couple will buy a car for an extensive tour of the continent. Returned to Sausalito after a sojourn in Europe is Dr. Thomas B. Wiper. He and his wife left late in August for the continent and to attend a medical meeting in Vienna. Mrs. Wiper remained to visit with friends in Switzerland.

MRS. BENJAMIN H. DIBBLEE has returned to her home in Ross after a month's stay in the East. She flew by jet to Virginia, and then went north, and visited with her niece, Mrs. Hugh Robinson, in Norfolk, Conn. Mrs. Robinson is the former Mrs. George Brown of Ross. Mrs. Dibblee traveled through the northern part of the New England states, where the coloring of trees and shrubs is particularly beautiful this time of year.

LIMA, PERU, is the new address for Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Gibson (Florence Anderson), who lived for many years in Washington, D. C., where he was with the Embassy of Peru. He has now left the diplomatic service and will engage in business in Peru, where his family lives. With their four children the Gibsons visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Berrien P. Anderson of San Rafael, in August and were extensively entertained.

RETURNED from extensive travels are several Marin County couples. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schau are back in their Sleepy Hollow home after much traveling in Europe and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cowen of San Rafael made a 54 days around the world trip. They had been to Europe several times and were there again this time. However, they were particularly intrigued by Hong Kong, Tokyo and Persia. They spoke of the great wealth of the latter country and its progressiveness. The terrible poverty of the people of India appalled the Cowens. They said that no tipping is allowed in the Grand Hotel in Calcutta and the government is trying to stop begging. Japan was a country which allowed no tipping at all. They found Nikko very charming and beautiful.

The Schaus flew to Amsterdam and toured Belgium, Germany, Switzerland; saw the Passion Play in Oberammergau and visited with Walter's cousins, Hermine and Peter Pelzl, in Vienna. From Austria the Schaus went to Italy, staying some time at Rapallo on the Riviera. They went to Nice on the French Riviera and then to Paris. They took car in England and with Mr. and Mrs. Verne Culbertson of Richmond, Calif., toured the British Isles. In Bristol the Schaus were the guests of her cousins, Sir William and Lady Grant.

JUST RETURNED from a delightful visit, I should say visits, in the East is Mrs. Robert B. Finn Jr. of San Rafael. She flew east on Aug. 29 to see her son, Lt. (j.g) Robert Finn III and his wife, the former Margaret Giusto of San Anselmo, and their family in Arlington, Va. Their second daughter, Therese Marie, had been born on Aug. 28. Their other daughter, Janet, is a year old. Lt. Finn is stationed in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Finn remained for the baptism of little Therese Marie on Sept. 25 at the Navy Chapel in Arlington. Officiating at the ceremony was a Navy chaplain, Rev. J. E. Lonergan, a family friend. Godmother was Mrs. Joseph Molosky, whose husband, the late Lt. Comdr. Molosky, was a shipmate of Lt. Finn. Proxy for the godfather, Lt. Cyril Appel, now in Germany, was Lt. Richard Van Antwerp, USN. Following the religious ceremony a brunch was held at the Fort Myer Officers Club.

The senior Mrs. Finn went on to New York City to visit her sister, Mrs. Walter Henricksen (Helen Hubber) and then went to Perrysburg, Ohio, where her sister, Mrs. George Kapel (Jean Hubber) and her husband live in a beautiful old Colonial-type home fronting the Maumee River. He is with a TV station in Toledo.

LATE VACATIONS are being enjoyed. Carl and Til Riznik of Ross returned from Hawaii, telling of meeting the Ed DeLongs, who had just gotten back from Hong Kong, and Mrs. George Wurtzburg of San Rafael, who will be joined by her husband in Honolulu soon. Til and Carl stayed at Reef Towers in Honolulu and Coco Palms in Kauai. They rented a car for a complete tour of the islands.

The John Dowlings have returned from Prairie Creek near the mouth of the Klamath. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Jones were at Sardine Lake and Mrs. Ann Schultz is on a combined business and pleasure trip to Chicago and San Francisco.

From Austria the Schaus went to Italy, staying some time at Rapallo on the Riviera. They went to Nice on the French Riviera and then to Paris. They took car in England and with Mr. and Mrs. Verne Culbertson of Richmond, Calif., toured the British Isles. In Bristol the Schaus were the guests of her cousins, Sir William and Lady Grant.

JUST RETURNED from a delightful visit, I should say visits, in the East is Mrs. Robert B. Finn Jr. of San Rafael. She flew east on Aug. 29 to see her son, Lt. (j.g) Robert Finn III and his wife, the former Margaret Giusto of San Anselmo, and their family in Arlington, Va. Their second daughter, Therese Marie, had been born on Aug. 28. Their other daughter, Janet, is a year old. Lt. Finn is stationed in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Finn remained for the baptism of little Therese Marie on Sept. 25 at the Navy Chapel in Arlington. Officiating at the ceremony was a Navy chaplain, Rev. J. E. Lonergan, a family friend. Godmother was Mrs. Joseph Molosky, whose husband, the late Lt. Comdr. Molosky, was a shipmate of Lt. Finn. Proxy for the godfather, Lt. Cyril Appel, now in Germany, was Lt. Richard Van Antwerp, USN. Following the religious ceremony a brunch was held at the Fort Myer Officers Club.

The senior Mrs. Finn went on to New York City to visit her sister, Mrs. Walter Henricksen (Helen Hubber) and then went to Perrysburg, Ohio, where her sister, Mrs. George Kapel (Jean Hubber) and her husband live in a beautiful old Colonial-type home fronting the Maumee River. He is with a TV station in Toledo.

LATE VACATIONS are being enjoyed. Carl and Til Riznik of Ross returned from Hawaii, telling of meeting the Ed DeLongs, who had just gotten back from Hong Kong, and Mrs. George Wurtzburg of San Rafael, who will be joined by her husband in Honolulu soon. Til and Carl stayed at Reef Towers in Honolulu and Coco Palms in Kauai. They rented a car for a complete tour of the islands.

The John Dowlings have returned from Prairie Creek near the mouth of the Klamath. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Jones were at Sardine Lake and Mrs. Ann Schultz is on a combined business and pleasure trip to Chicago and San Francisco.

Patricia Wedemeyer Weds Joseph N. Ratto

Autumn leaves and chrysanthemum of bronze to gold and white were at the altar of St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur for the recent wedding of Patricia Anne Wedemeyer and Joseph Noel Ratto.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Florence Kofoed of Larkspur and Arthur E. Wedemeyer of Ukiah. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ratto of San Anselmo.

Rev. James J. Healy officiated for the nuptial high mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white peau de soie fashioned with fitted bodice and scalloped neckline and short sleeves of Chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by an orange blossom coronet and she carried a bouquet of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Mrs. Frank Ratto of Santa Venetia as matron of honor, was gowned in pale mint green taffeta. She had a matching coronet and circular veil and carried autumn leaves and gold and coffee shades of pompon chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. E. J. Clark of Orangevale, Calif. the bride's sister, and Linda Eling and Karen Ritter of San Anselmo wore emerald green gowns with matching coronets and veils styled like the matron of honor's. They carried bouquets of autumn leaves with gold and bronze pompon chrysanthemums.

Peter Meagher of San Anselmo was best man. Escorting guests to their seats were Frank Ratto, the bridegroom's brother of Santa Venetia, E. J. Clark of Orangevale, and Gerald Pisani of San Francisco.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kofood chose a silver-blue lace dress with matching beaded hat and white gloves. Her flowers were cymbidum orchids.

The mother of the bridegroom was gowned in plum chiffon with mauve hat and gloves. Her flowers were vanda orchids.

A reception for 350 guests followed the ceremony at the Corte Madera Recreation Center where arrangements featured bowls of white chrysanthemums, gladioli and stock.

For a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe, the bride wore a camel wool dress with matching shoes and accessories. She had a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

The bride was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and is the sister of Arthur Wedemeyer Jr. of Larkspur and Mrs. Clark of Orangevale. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Teters of Kerman are her grandparents.

Time And Cub Scouts Will Help 8-Year-Old Outgrow Sloppy Habits

Mrs. N.L.. "Our son is 8. He leaves his shirts on the floor and his shoes on the chair. He drops his coat almost anywhere. He forgets to make his bed. He never voluntarily cleans his room. He doesn't like to wash his face. I keep nagging.b ut it does very little good. What's wrong with him?"

Reply. Nothing time won't cure. He sounds like a normal boy of 8. It would help to make a chart, listing the jobs expected of him. Have him check off each task as he does it. Reward good performances. Can he join the Cub Scouts? The Cubs are taught to be orderly and clean. Most boys begin to care about neatness shortly after they reach dating age. Talk with the mothers of other boys. You'll see your son is not unusual.

P.R.N. "Our girl, who is 12, has asked to join a dancing class. It comes after school, one day a week. The P-TA sponsors it. I want her to join, and so does her father. However, my parents say she shouldn't dance. They have religious scruples against it. Should we decide this or my parents?"

Reply. You should. Your girl is your responsibility, not your parents'. Try to explain to them why you're letting her take the class and try not to offend them. But make your own decision.

Mrs. I.L. "I'm the mother of four girls and one boy. I'm ashamed to say the boy is my favorite. He is only a year old, but the girls sense my feeling. They resent it. How can I get over my special love for him?"

Reply. Probably you can't. Under the circumstances your feeling for him is to be expected. However you shouldn't let anything influence your treatment of your daughters. Be thoroughly fair to them all. Don't play favorites. Have them help take care of him. Eventually the girls may understand.

Meeting On Motel Association Set

Technicalities of organization were threshed out today by a three-man executive committee headed by David Bellucci of the Skylark Motel.

DOG LIKES TO BE KITTEN-SITTER

Smoky, a combination toy pomeranian and chihuahua, isn't a relative of these kittens in Salt Lake City .He just likes to move in and act as baby sitter whenever the mother, Willy, leaves them. The animals' owner Mrs. Keith L. Hales, fears Smoky may just take over altogether. (AP Wirephoto)

Jury Indicts Man, 66, For Lewd Conduct

A 66-year-old San Rafael nursery manager was indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury Thursday on charges that he molested three girls at the nursery in August and September.

James E. Lewis of 206 Solano Avenue, San Rafael, is accused of lewd and lascivious conduct against two girls, 11 and 13, on Sept. 7, and a 13-year-old on Aug. 12. He was arrested on Sept. 9 by sheriff's deputies and bailed out for $1,050.

According to sheriff's deputies, parents of the girls complained that Lewis gave the girls flowers and plants to lure them to the nursery,

The grand jury last night also indicted four San Quentin convicts, for knife possession and sex perversion.

Raymond R. Adams and Audrey W. Newsome, both Los Angeles burglars, are accused of perverted acts at the prison on last July 15.

William Pennywell, Alameda County robber, is charged with illegal possession of a knife on Aug. 15. Pedro A. Velasquez, who is serving time for assault in Los Angeles County, is also accused of knife possession at the prison on July 6.

A committee was named to nominate next year's board of directors, with Earl Thompson as chairman, according to Mrs. Donald J. Taylor, secretary. The board will be voted upon at the annual dinner at 6:30 p.m., Nov. 5, at the clubhouse.

Time And Cub Scouts Will Help 8-Year-Old Outgrow Sloppy Habits

Mrs. N.L.. "Our son is 8. He leaves his shirts on the floor and his shoes on the chair. He drops his coat almost anywhere. He forgets to make his bed. He never voluntarily cleans his room. He doesn't like to wash his face. I keep nagging,b ut it does very little good. What's wrong with him?"

Reply. Nothing time won't cure. He sounds like a normal boy of 8. It would help to make a chart, listing the jobs expected of him. Have him check off each task as he does it. Reward good performances. Can he join the Cub Scouts? The Cubs are taught to be orderly and clean. Most boys begin to care about neatness shortly after they reach dating age. Talk with the mothers of other boys. You'll see your son is not unusual.

P.R.N. "Our girl, who is 12, has asked to join a dancing class. It comes after school, one day a week. The P-TA sponsors it. I want her to join, and so does her father. However, my parents say she shouldn't dance. They have religious scruples against it. Should we decide this or my parents?"

Reply. You should. Your girl is your responsibility, not your parents'. Try to explain to them why you're letting her take the class and try not to offend them. But make your own decision.

Mrs. I.L. "I'm the mother of four girls and one boy. I'm ashamed to say the boy is my favorite. He is only a year old, but the girls sense my feeling. They resent it. How can I get over my special love for him?"

Reply. Probably you can't. Under the circumstances your feeling for him is to be expected. However you shouldn't let anything influence your treatment of your daughters. Be thoroughly fair to them all. Don't play favorites. Have them help take care of him. Eventually the girls may understand.

Meeting On Motel Association Set

A meeting is expected to be held sometime next week to make legally required formal announcement of agreement of six Marin County motels to form a chapter of the California Motel Assn.

Technicalities of organization were threshed out today by a three-man executive committee headed by David Bellucci of the Skylark Motel.

DOG LIKES TO BE KITTEN-SITTER

Smoky, a combination toy pomeranian and chihuahua, isn't a relative of these kittens in Salt Lake City .He just likes to move in and act as baby sitter whenever the mother, Willy, leaves them. The animals' owner Mrs. Keith L. Hales, fears Smoky may just take over altogether. (AP Wirephoto)

Jury Indicts Man, 66, For Lewd Conduct

A 66-year-old San Rafael nursery manager was indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury Thursday on charges that he molested three girls at the nursery in August and September.

James E. Lewis of 206 Solano Avenue, San Rafael, is accused of lewd and lascivious conduct against two girls, 11 and 13, on Sept. 7, and a 13-year-old on Aug. 12. He was arrested on Sept. 9 by sheriff's deputies and bailed out for $1,050.

According to sheriff's deputies, parents of the girls complained that Lewis gave the girls flowers and plants to lure them to the nursery,

The grand jury last night also indicted four San Quentin convicts, for knife possession and sex perversion.

Raymond R. Adams and Audrey W. Newsome, both Los Angeles burglars, are accused of perverted acts at the prison on last July 15.

William Pennywell, Alameda County robber, is charged with illegal possession of a knife on Aug. 15. Pedro A. Velasquez, who is serving time for assault in Los Angeles County, is also accused of knife possession at the prison on July 6.

Almonte Board Vacancies Filled

Two new members were named to fill vacancies on the board of the Almonte Improvement Club Wednesday evening.

They are Jack Shapiro of 112 Almonte Boulevard, who replaces Neal K. George, and Homer E. Winfield of 136 Morningsun Avenue, replacing Forest J. Sur.

A committee was named to nominate next year's board of directors, with Earl Thompson as chairman, according to Mrs. Donald J. Taylor, secretary. The board will be voted upon at the annual dinner at 6:30 p.m., Nov. 5, at the clubhouse.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

McClure Realty
GL 4-9030 and WA 4-0438

Dear Richard,

Your interest in Marin County waterfront property warrants action. One little gem of a home that we have requires about $3,500 down and payments would be around $110 a month. Price $15,500.

John

Dear John,

I understand that you have a 3 bedroom, 2 bath luxury type home on the bay, with a boathouse and a tremendous view, for $45,000.

Richard

Dear Helen,

John says he would like you to see a home at 588 Calle de la Mesa, next to the golf course in Loma Verde. It has an all electric kitchen, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and is priced at $25,000 and includes many other fine features.

John's Other Wife

Dear Other Wife,

Richard wants so much these days and money is the problem. I understand that McClure has 2 beautiful homes in Glenwood, where we could still be near to golfing and boating and have all electric kitchens for less than $5,000 down.

Helen

Dear Richard,

Your interest in Marin County waterfront property warrants action. One little gem of a home that we have requires about $3,500 down and payments would be around $110 a month. Price $15,500.

John

Dear John,

I understand that you have a 3 bedroom, 2 bath luxury type home on the bay, with a boathouse and a tremendous view, for $45,000.

Richard

Dear Helen,

John says he would like you to see a home at 588 Calle de la Mesa, next to the golf course in Loma Verde. It has an all electric kitchen, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and is priced at $25,000 and includes many other fine features.

John's Other Wife

Dear Other Wife,

Richard wants so much these days and money is the problem. I understand that McClure has 2 beautiful homes in Glenwood, where we could still be near to golfing and boating and have all electric kitchens for less than $5,000 down.

There Is Much More To Thrift Than Mere Frugality

This is National Thrift Week—almost an incongruous term in today's buy-it-on-credit economy.

To some, the word thrift brings a picture of an old man sticking his money in a sock and shoving it under the mattress. To others it conjures up visions of a tattered miser.

Actually thrift means economic management of money. Part of it is a savings account. Another part is prudent investment in a home or other property, in the business of America through stocks and bonds, or in U.S. savings bonds and life insurance programs.

Yet true thrift must go beyond an individual's financial resources. It will do a person with a savings account little good if government allows runaway inflation to make his savings valueless because of depleated purchasing power. He must insist that government protect the value of his dollar through sound fiscal and monetary policies.

He should protest unwarranted invasions of the credit system, whereby department stores and similar establishments extract interest on their charge accounts from good credit risks to pay losses on bad credit risks, and then don't bother to try to weed out the good from the bad.

He should beware of so-called "liberal" credit policies which heap service charge on service charge and overlap rates so that the publicized interest rate is insignificant when compared with the actual cost to the unwary customer.

Yet on pointing out the pitfalls, we must not lose sight of the fact that saving is still the American way to success. More people than ever before in our history own their own homes. The record shows that among non-farm families, 60 per cent now own homes as compared with only 40 per cent just 10 years ago.

Savings accounts in banks have been increasing in number, although their size has been decreasing as thrift-minded savers put their money in prospering savings and loan associations or other places where the return is higher.

We are happy to support National Thrift Week in the hope it will be successful in encouraging development of self-reliance in individuals, a balanced national economy, efficient local government, sound business policies and well-planned money management by everyone concerned.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BRICKBATS—a whole truckload of them—to Novato City Council for grasping a loophole in the Brown (freedom of information) Act and going into secret meeting just days after the attorney general cut the loophole. And more Brickbats to Mill Valley City Council, which has slated the same kind of session.

BOUQUETS to the gardeners and everyone else responsible for the beauty which marks the campus of the College of Marin in Kentfield.

A BOUQUET to the San Rafael Lions Club and students of San Rafael High School for setting up the first smog-testing station in Marin County. Give Marin County a BOUQUET too. There hasn't been a bit of smog since the station was set up.

A BRICKBAT to sponsors of Proposition 15, which would give Southern California half of the seats in the State Senate, for the most misleading advertising of the campaign. Proponents have erected billboards saying "The San Francisco Bay Area Deserves Seven Senators," as if that would be a great gain. The same counties which would get those seven senators under the Southern California plan, now have NINE senators.

A BOUQUET to the Regional Water Pollution Control Board for its "get-the-facts" attitude in ordering a complete inventory of all points discharging sewage into Richardson Bay, as basic information needed for correction.

A BRICKBAT to whoever is responsible for leaving the grass in front of the San Rafael library in such a torn-up state. The beautiful new addition and remodeling of the library are put at a disadvantage by the grass eyesore.

PUT YOUR CONVICTIONS TO WORK

Excitement was in the air as the crowds swarmed down to the banks of the Jordan to hear John the Baptist. He was a towering figure, like the prophets of old, and his words sank into their souls.

"Let your conduct," he charged them, "be in keeping with your change of heart." (Luke 3:8)

John's insistence on suitable conduct brought this question from men of every occupation: "What can I do?"

His answers were always to the point.

"He who has two tunics," he shot back, "should give one to him who has none; and he who has food should do likewise."

To tax collectors he said, "Exact nothing in excess of the rate prescribed to you."

This was his advice to the military: "Browbeat no one; blackmail no one; and be content with your pay."

John took men where they were. He did not tell them to give up their jobs, but to fulfill them in all justice. In your own hunger for justice, imitate the forerunner of Christ, and put your convictions to work.

Lord, from whom proceed all just thoughts, help us to translate Your inspirations into action.

Petition Seeks 500,000 Signatures To Push Congress To Gold Action

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Congratulations should be given the publishers of a paper called "American Gold News," which recently has combined with the Western Mining News. The publication will be devoted to bringing the attention of the people of the nation to the sorry plight of the gold mining industry.

American Gold News is published by John R. Ross of San Andreas. Editorial consultant is Donald J. Segestrom, who formerly published Western Mining News in Sonora, Tuolumne County.

THUS, TWO publications in the heart of the gold country, the Mother Lode of California which in 1849 called the pioneers to this state, are combined to advance the cause of gold.

And one way they are doing it is in the promotion of a petition to the Congress of the United States, which calls attention to the fact the gold mining industry is in a critical state. The petition asks the Congress to:

1. PASS A LAW to treat gold as a commodity.

2. Pass a law to require the secretary of the treasury to purchase newly mined gold at the rate of $105 per fine ounce, such law to state that this gold so purchased be stocked by the treasury as backing for domestic currency.

3. Pass a law which would prohibit withdrawals of gold for foreign aid, the International Bank, or foreign commercial use until such time as gold sufficient to back deficit United States commitments has been accumulated.

4. Pass a law allowing citizens of the United States to own gold and to renew the federal coinage of gold.

Ross expects to have 500,000 signatures on this petition in time to present it to the Congress. All of the gold mining states are interested, as they see world drainage on the gold in Fort Knox, which is the federal depositary, and no increase in the price paid for the yellow metal authorized by the government.

THE $35 PER FINE ounce government price, established during the last depression, does not give sufficient return to mine operators to pay the expenses of getting the gold out of the ground. Consequently, many of the larger mines, particularly on the Mother Lode in California, have shut up shop and allowed the mines to flood.

In addition, the public has been deprived of gold since depression days, when the government called in all the coinage and made it illegal to possess gold except as collectors items. And the price of a collector's item during the intervening years, has risen out of bounds. For instance, $30 for a $10 gold piece.

THIS IS ABOUT the same ratio the petitioners want the government to increase the price of gold to domestic miners.

Gold production dropped eight per cent in 1959 to 1,600,000 ounces valued at $56 million in the United States, putting production at the lowest level since 1892, except for World War II years.

It is small wonder then, that the gold industry is concerned about its future, particularly when most gold production these days is an offshoot of copper mining, a mere by-product.

What Cub Pack Saw On Courthouse Visit

By CHAPIN A. DAY

DAY

Three Den Mothers of Cub Scout Pack 74 wrote the county administrator a letter of thanks after their pack had toured the county offices.

After expressing appreciation to "Mrs. Ward in the sheriff's office" and "the gentleman and girls" in the IBM office and the assessor's office and "Judge Haley" and "the sheriff's deputy," they reported this:

"We asked our Cubs what they had learned concerning good citizenship and you may be interested in some of the answers:

"Don't get drunk.

"Juries cannot talk about the trial to anyone when they go home.

"Don't break the law.

"A judge must be fair.

"A judge likes Cub Scouts.

"If you break the law, you may go to jail where there is no water.

"If you are good, you may become a sheriff and can ride in a car with a siren and a flashing red light and a radio.

"It's better to have your report cards made out by a machine than by a teacher."

So much for good citizenship, Don't forget to vote, either.

ANOTHER YOUNGSTER got into politics, too.

Scott Parlette, 10, of Mill Valley, wrote a note to the Republican Finance Committee on one of the blank checks the committee is circulating in an effort to get contributions. He said:

"My family is sending Ross, my brother, to college, Mass. Inst. of Tech., so no money. Enclosed in this letter is $.25. I worked for a Democratic family and made .25 for one hour. Am sending to you. A young 10 yr. Republican. Scott Parlette."

YOU PROBABLY noticed that Marin County is now one of only three counties in the state which has more Republicans than Democrats. The other two are Alpine and Mono Counties, two of the three smallest in voter registration in the state. Alpine has a total of 213 registered voters; Mono 1,616 voters. Marin has 71,905.

This week the precinct statistics were released. There are 30,682 precincts in the state. Marin has exactly 1 per cent of them, 306. Mono has six and Alpine five.

VOTING PARTICIPATION by members of Congress in the 86th Congress, just concluded, have been figured by Congressional Quarterly.

Our congressman, Clement W. Miller of Corte Madera, was recorded as voting on 88 per cent of the 93 roll call votes during 1960 and on 94 per cent of the 180 roll calls during the entire 86th session.

CQ noted that Miller "made his position known" either by voting, pairing his absent vote against some absent member in opposition, announcing his stand, or answering a CQ poll on 100 per cent of the roll calls.

Miller was slightly better than the average Democrat in the House; the average was 87 per cent in 1960 and 89 per cent for the whole session. Twenty-seven Democrats and 19 Republicans in the House voted on every roll call.

Senator John Kennedy, incidentally, voted on only 35 per cent in 1960. Vice President Richard Nixon wasn't recorded in the poll as he votes only in case of a tie.

MARIN SENATOR John F. McCarthy, many of whose constituents have been upset by recent school bond defeats, is studying advisability of introducing a Constitutional Amendment at the next session of the Legislature which would reduce the vote needed to pass school bonds from 66⅔ to 60 epr cent. This would mean that for passage a measure must amass approval by a 3 to 2 margin rather than the present 2 to 1.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Should Dispose Of Fluoridation

Independent-Journal:

Let us hope that the issue of fluoridation in Marin County will now be disposed of decisively and for all time, and with the good sense displayed by the people of the East Bay in rejecting the innovation by wide margins, so that we may be able to give our attention to broader problems in later elections.

Since the last vote on fluoridation, the arguments in favor of this pollution of our water have been reduced to nil by the action of the American Dental Association in approving a certain fluoridated toothpaste as a means of preventing dental decay in children. Knowing that this method is now available—and that fluoridated tablets can be obtained, even though only on medical prescription — why prescribe fluorides for all the people merely in order to provide it for those who could get them in any case?

The basic facts are simple. Since there is medical disagreements as to the possibly deleterious effects of constant intake of artificial fluorides, it would be the rankest folly to make all the people risk their health as guinea pigs. It is, moreover, pernicious and against the American way of life to institute compulsory medication. Therefore I urge an emphatic "No!.... on fluoridation.

Lesson In What Thinking Means

Independent-Journal:

We who have been privileged to have been John Reber's friend for 25 years are deeply grateful to you for your beautifully expressed editorial (Oct. 18) "Man With a Dream . . . "

It isn't necessary to go back into history to find a man (artist, composer, inventor, scientist, or author) who did not live to have his work recognized in his lifetime. John Reber, like so many of them, personally was an humble man, not blessed with the comforts of many worldly goods or robust health, but one who never gave up.

I was proud to read to the class, an article and your editorial about Mr. Reber and his "dream," which should be an inspiration to the youth of today who think there is nothing more to do or to see that is worthwhile.

Mr. Reber had a love of God, love of country, faith in himself and the things he believed—and then was willing to work to see those things realized.

The last was not God's will, but whether the present genertion lives to see and enjoy the fruit of a "dream" proved practical, they will have had a lesson in what it means to think, to plan, to preserve, and to have faith in oneself.

Fusselman Shoo-In For Chairman, Staff Skittish Of New Board

Veteran Supervisor William D. Fusselman is just about a shoo-in to take over as chairman of the supervisors when the new regime comes in next January.

But what's going to happen after that is less predictable. All sorts of rumors are already floating around in the courthouse. Some may be groundless, but others could well turn out to be true.

Some of the newer and younger employees, trying to work their way up the merit system ranks, seem to feel some vague uncertainty.

PROBABLY STEMS from the fact that the incoming supervisors are out to cut expenditures. For example, supposing they don't like the idea of continuing reappraisal to keep property assessments throughout the county in line with current prices. The supervisors can't tell the assessor how to run the office, but they could cut his budget and lop off the appraisal staff so that continuing reappraisal is impossible.

Budget control is a powerful weapon over any department. Some employees are already asking: "Will we be out of jobs? Will we get annual step increases as in the past?"

ELECTION GIMMICKS of all kinds are being used for the November election. Any day now, I'm expecting a candidate to report to police that all four tires from his car had been stolen during the night. Followed immediately by announcements from the campaign manager:

"Our candidate is a hard worker—a 'tireless' campaigner!"

FIRE DRILL at E Street School is something to watch. Hundreds of kiddies come tripping out in neat file. Then out of the basement tumble a group of grizzled men from the City Public Works Department, playing follow-the-leader behind Supt. Norris Rawles.

As long as they occupy the school building, they've gotta abide by the rules. When the teacher says okay, they trudge happily back to their slide rules and drafting boards.

DEPUTY DIST. ATTY. Charles Convis, whose main job is to find criminals guilty, turned "traitor" the other night.

Terra Linda Little Theater gave a play Friday and chose a jury from the audience to decide the verdict. Convis, whose name was drawn for jury duty, voted the defendant "not guilty."

NO WONDER Judge Joseph Wilson performed like a veteran from the first day. He is clothed in experience.

The robe he is wearing was worn by his father on the Oregon bench.

YOU SOMETIMES hear of boys running away from St. Vincent's. But the other day, a boy ran away from home to go to St. Vincent's.

The 13-year-old explained he was there before and liked it so well, he decided to run back.

HAVE YOU SEEN the new dial-a-phones they're putting out? All you do is prepare a list of names and numbers you call the most. Just flip to any name you want and push a button. The phone dials itself.

A local sanitary district is trying to get all employees to wear white shirts. Their slogan: "Never mind what you think; we're all pure inside."

BENNETT CERF

To prove how inaccurately people listen, or read, Pollster George Gallup tells of a congressman who chided the Department of Agriculture for the trashy, useless pamphlets it publishes at the people's expense. "Seems like you fellows print every last thing about nature," he complained, "but the love life of a frog!"

Promptly, six letters arrived in the next two days asking for copies of "The Love Life of a Frog." Others followed in such profusion, the Department felt obliged to state in a circular, "We do NOT print 'The Love Life of a Frog.'" The result of this procedure was such a flood of new requests that the Secretary of Agriculture got into the act personally.

"Confound it!" he thundered on a nation-wide radio program, "This department never has printed 'The Love Life of a Frog,' never will print 'The Love Life of a Frog,' and we never even want to hear about The Love Life of a Frog again!"

The next day there were over 400 requests in the department's mail.

Senator John Kennedy, incidentally, voted on only 35 per cent in 1960. Vice President Richard Nixon wasn't recorded in the poll as he votes only in case of a tie.

MARIN SENATOR John F. McCarthy, many of whose constituents have been upset by recent school bond defeats, is studying advisability of introducing a Constitutional Amendment at the next session of the Legislature which would reduce the vote needed to pass school bonds from 66⅔ to 60 epr cent. This would mean that for passage a measure must amass approval by a 3 to 2 margin rather than the present 2 to 1.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Should Dispose Of Fluoridation

Independent-Journal:

Let us hope that the issue of fluoridation in Marin County will now be disposed of decisively and for all time, and with the good sense displayed by the people of the East Bay in rejecting the innovation by wide margins, so that we may be able to give our attention to broader problems in later elections.

Since the last vote on fluoridation, the arguments in favor of this pollution of our water have been reduced to nil by the action of the American Dental Association in approving a certain fluoridated toothpaste as a means of preventing dental decay in children. Knowing that this method is now available—and that fluoridated tablets can be obtained, even though only on medical prescription — why prescribe fluorides for all the people merely in order to provide it for those who could get them in any case?

The basic facts are simple. Since there is medical disagreements as to the possibly deleterious effects of constant intake of artificial fluorides, it would be the rankest folly to make all the people risk their health as guinea pigs. It is, moreover, pernicious and against the American way of life to institute compulsory medication. Therefore I urge an emphatic "No!.... on fluoridation.

Lesson In What Thinking Means

Independent-Journal:

We who have been privileged to have been John Reber's friend for 25 years are deeply grateful to you for your beautifully expressed editorial (Oct. 18) "Man With a Dream . . ."

It isn't necessary to go back into history to find a man (artist, composer, inventor, scientist, or author) who did not live to have his work recognized in his lifetime. John Reber, like so many of them, personally was an humble man, not blessed with the comforts of many worldly goods or robust health, but one who never gave up.

I was proud to read to the class, an article and your editorial about Mr. Reber and his "dream," which should be an inspiration to the youth of today who think there is nothing more to do or to see that is worthwhile.

Mr. Reber had a love of God, love of country, faith in himself and the things he believed—and then was willing to work to see those things realized.

The last was not God's will, but whether the present genertion lives to see and enjoy the fruit of a "dream" proved practical, they will have had a lesson in what it means to think, to plan, to preserve, and to have faith in oneself.

Fusselman Shoo-In For Chairman, Staff Skittish Of New Board

Veteran Supervisor William D. Fusselman is just about a shoo-in to take over as chairman of the supervisors when the new regime comes in next January.

But what's going to happen after that is less predictable. All sorts of rumors are already floating around in the courthouse. Some may be groundless, but others could well turn out to be true.

Some of the newer and younger employees, trying to work their way up the merit system ranks, seem to feel some vague uncertainty.

PROBABLY STEMS from the fact that the incoming supervisors are out to cut expenditures. For example, supposing they don't like the idea of continuing reappraisal to keep property assessments throughout the county in line with current prices. The supervisors can't tell the assessor how to run the office, but they could cut his budget and lop off the appraisal staff so that continuing reappraisal is impossible.

Budget control is a powerful weapon over any department. Some employees are already asking: "Will we be out of jobs? Will we get annual step increases as in the past?"

ELECTION GIMMICKS of all kinds are being used for the November election. Any day now, I'm expecting a candidate to report to police that all four tires from his car had been stolen during the night. Followed immediately by announcements from the campaign manager:

"Our candidate is a hard worker—a 'tireless' campaigner!"

FIRE DRILL at E Street School is something to watch. Hundreds of kiddies come tripping out in neat file. Then out of the basement tumble a group of grizzled men from the City Public Works Department, playing follow-the-leader behind Supt. Norris Rawles.

As long as they occupy the school building, they've gotta abide by the rules. When the teacher says okay, they trudge happily back to their slide rules and drafting boards.

DEPUTY DIST. ATTY. Charles Convis, whose main job is to find criminals guilty, turned "traitor" the other night.

Terra Linda Little Theater gave a play Friday and chose a jury from the audience to decide the verdict. Convis, whose name was drawn for jury duty, voted the defendant "not guilty."

NO WONDER Judge Joseph Wilson performed like a veteran from the first day. He is clothed in experience.

The robe he is wearing was worn by his father on the Oregon bench.

YOU SOMETIMES hear of boys running away from St. Vincent's. But the other day, a boy ran away from home to go to St. Vincent's.

The 13-year-old explained he was there before and liked it so well, he decided to run back.

HAVE YOU SEEN the new dial-a-phones they're putting out? All you do is prepare a list of names and numbers you call the most. Just flip to any name you want and push a button. The phone dials itself.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

To prove how inaccurately people listen, or read, Pollster George Gallup tells of a congressman who chided the Department of Agriculture for the trashy, useless pamphlets it publishes at the people's expense. "Seems like you fellows print every last thing about nature," he complained, "but the love life of a frog!"

Promptly, six letters arrived in the next two days asking for copies of "The Love Life of a Frog." Others followed in such profusion, the Department felt obliged to state in a circular, "We do NOT print 'The Love Life of a Frog.'" The result of this procedure was such a flood of new requests that the Secretary of Agriculture got into the act personally.

"Confound it!" he thundered on a nation-wide radio program, "This department never has printed 'The Love Life of a Frog,' never will print 'The Love Life of a Frog,' and we never even want to hear about The Love Life of a Frog again!"

The next day there were over 400 requests in the department's mail.

Marinites Urged To Take Part In Annual Art Week Observance

The American Artists Professional League has designated the week of Nov. 1 to 7 as "American Art Week."

And Nevin Kempthorne, curator of Mill Valley's Artist Associates Gallery in the picturesque El Paseo, has been named as director of the observance for the Marin region.

Purpose of the observance, which will be marking its 28th consecutive year, is to emphasize and publicize the best in native American art.

And Mrs. Kempthorne is calling upon all Marinites and all Marin communities to participate in the observance.

She points out that schools can play a particularly active role in the observance. And she suggests such activities as assembly programs featuring local artists as speakers and demonstrators, special projects for the art classes, and open house nights at which the work of art students could be exhibited.

Churches, too, can take part in "American Art Week," she notes, possibly by exhibiting the religious art work of members of their congregations, or by scheduling discussion and analysis sessions on art and creativity.

Clubs can hold similar exhibits of members' art work, Mrs. Kempthorne says, and can schedule artists as their program speakers during the week.

Public and school libraries are being asked to feature art books and instructive art literature during the week. And merchants are requested to display posters and samples of local art work.

Newspapers, radio and television are also being asked to join in making the observance a successful one.

All present indications are that this year's observance in Marin will be the most extensive in history, Mrs. Kempthorne says.

"We have been receiving wonderful cooperation from all the groups that we have contacted," she says.

But personal contact with all such groups is impossible, she also notes. And so she extends a blanket invitation to all organizations and institutions in the county to get into the spirit of "American Art Week."

Anyone desiring assistance in planning such an exhibit or program will find Mrs. Kempthorne at the Artists Associates Gallery. And she will be eager to extend a helping hand in making the necessary contacts.

While Mrs. Kempthorne didn't say so, we feel certain that neither she nor Marin artists will object if we point out that there is still another even more effective way in which each and every one of us can observe "American Art Week."

That can be accomplished by purchasing during the week a painting or some other piece of art work done by an American artist.

And while you are at it, make it a point to look closely at some of the work being done by our own Marin artists.

Many of them hold and deserve a high place in the ranks of the leading American artists.

Talent-Plus At The Piano Keyboard

Bright Future For Young Marinite Seen

By DOROTHY SIMPERS

"I'm a romantic at heart, pianistically speaking," says San Anselmo's talented David Del Tredici, a dark-haired young man with an infectious smile, who looks more athletic than musical.

In the 11 years since he first began the study of the piano at the age of 12, David has given recitals, played with orchestras in concerts, won many scholarships and received the plaudits of critics.

More recently he has become interested in composing. For the past year he studied composition at Princeton University with Prof. Roger Sessions on a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

HE PREFERS to play modern and romantic music, like that of Schumann and Chopin, and he composes in the same vein: Music that is "romantic in spirit, modern in idiom."

This year he is dividing his time between his family home at 329 Laurel Avenue in San Anselmo and Berkeley, where he has many friends. "I'm doing just what I like to do this year . . . practicing, composing and reading," he says. He also plans to teach some pupils.

Next summer David will go to England to study in London with the renowned Myra Hess. He met her in New York and again in the Bay Area through a friend, and she agreed to accept him as a pupil. He hopes to stay abroad for a couple of years. Later on he may work for a master's degree.

David first became acquainted with serious music at St. Anselm's School. His teacher, Sister Mary Engracia, encouraged him to take piano lessons and felt that he had extraordinary talent. Right from the start, he began to be a perfectionist.

Nobody in his family had shown any special interest or flair for music, and his parents did not realize how talented he was until he began studying. His mother does remember, however, that when he was a baby and even before he could speak, David would hear a tune four or five times and then hum it.

The young musician was born in Cloverdale, Sonoma County, March 16, 1937, the first child of Walter and Helen Del Tredici. The family moved to Marin City during the war, then to San Anselmo. David's father is an accountant with Bechtel Construction Co.

THREE MORE sons and a daughter followed David. Robert, now 21, is studying for the priesthood at St. Patrick's Seminary and is also a talented greeting card artist. Richard, 19, is a sophomore at the University of California, and Peter, 16, attends Marin Catholic High School. Ann, 9, is a student at St. Anselm's.

After St. Anselm's and Marin Catholic High, David studied at the University of California. He received a bachelor's degree in music in 1959 and was named to Phi Beta Kappa.

His piano lessons started with the nuns at elementary school. There have followed a number of years of study with Bernhard Abramowitsch of Berkeley, a teacher at the College of the Holy Names in Oakland.

DEL TREDICI has "extraordinary talent," says Abramowitsch of his pupil. "He has the possibility of being a great pianist."

David is an enthusiastic student and learns very quickly, says the teacher. He also believes the San Anselmo youth is an "extremely gifted composer."

In 1951, 1952 and 1954 Del Tredici won Marin Music Chest scholarships, which helped pay for his lessons. But the highlight of his career to date was the winning of the $5,000 Kimber Award in 1955, he recalls.

Preliminaries in this competition were held throughout the state in piano, violin and cello. Ten finalists were chosen and then played in Los Angeles before a board of judges. Winning the $5,000 and the gold medal was a "shock," David says now, but it certainly helped to pay for a lot of things, including a piano.

That same year, 1955, he made his first professional appearance in San Francisco, and later he played with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra under Arthur Fiedler and Enrique Jorda.

He also played with smaller orchestras around the state, including the Symphony Guild of Marin, and gave several solo recitals in the Bay Area.

In April, 1957, he became the first Marin artist to play as soloist for a regular concert of the San Francisco Symphony, performing Mendelssohn's "Piano Concerto in G-Minor."

LATER THAT year he gave a recital in San Francisco's veterans auditorium, three years after his debut. He played three extremely modern compositions. Del Tredici "enjoyed a triumph," wrote the Independent-Journal reviewer. She praised his "enormous forcefulness which seems limited only by the piano itself, his sense of dynamics combined with an inexorable rhythm. He enjoys a bravura for which simply nothing is too difficult."

Some critics that year com-

ELEVEN YEARS AGO, at the age of 12, David Del Tredici began his study of the piano. His natural talent plus hard work — he averages about four hours a day at the keyboard — have brought him to the attention of critics and leading concert pianists who see a bright future ahead for the young Marinite. Nobody in his family had shown any special interest or flair for music, and his parents did not realize how talented he was until he began studying. His mother does remember, however, that when he was a baby and even before he could speak, David would hear a tune four or five times and then hum it.

The young musician was born in Cloverdale, Sonoma County, March 16, 1937, the first child of Walter and Helen Del Tredici. The family moved to Marin City during the war, then to San Anselmo. David's father is an accountant with Bechtel Construction Co.

THREE MORE sons and a daughter followed David. Robert, now 21, is studying for the priesthood at St. Patrick's Seminary and is also a talented greeting card artist. Richard, 19, is a sophomore at the University of California, and Peter, 16, attends Marin Catholic High School. Ann, 9, is a student at St. Anselm's.

After St. Anselm's and Marin Catholic High, David studied at the University of California. He received a bachelor's degree in music in 1959 and was named to Phi Beta Kappa.

His piano lessons started with the nuns at elementary school. There have followed a number of years of study with Bernhard Abramowitsch of Berkeley, a teacher at the College of the Holy Names in Oakland.

DEL TREDICI has "extraordinary talent," says Abramowitsch of his pupil. "He has the possibility of being a great pianist."

David is an enthusiastic student and learns very quickly, says the teacher. He also believes the San Anselmo youth is an "extremely gifted composer."

In 1951, 1952 and 1954 Del Tredici won Marin Music Chest scholarships, which helped pay for his lessons. But the highlight of his career to date was the winning of the $5,000 Kimber Award in 1955, he recalls.

Preliminaries in this competition were held throughout the state in piano, violin and cello. Ten finalists were chosen and then played in Los Angeles before a board of judges. Winning the $5,000 and the gold medal was a "shock," David says now, but it certainly helped to pay for a lot of things, including a piano.

That same year, 1955, he made his first professional appearance in San Francisco, and later he played with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra under Arthur Fiedler and Enrique Jorda.

He also played with smaller orchestras around the state, including the Symphony Guild of Marin, and gave several solo recitals in the Bay Area.

In April, 1957, he became the first Marin artist to play as soloist for a regular concert of the San Francisco Symphony, performing Mendelssohn's "Piano Concerto in G-Minor."

LATER THAT year he gave a recital in San Francisco's veterans auditorium, three years after his debut. He played three extremely modern compositions. Del Tredici "enjoyed a triumph," wrote the Independent-Journal reviewer. She praised his "enormous forcefulness which seems limited only by the piano itself, his sense of dynamics combined with an inexorable rhythm. He enjoys a bravura for which simply nothing is too difficult."

Some critics that year com-

ELEVEN YEARS AGO, at the age of 12, David Del Tredici began his study of the piano. His natural talent plus hard work — he averages about four hours a day at the keyboard — have brought him to the attention of critics and leading concert pianists who see a bright future ahead for the young Marinite. plained that he crouched or slouched when he played. But he has forgotten about that, he says with a laugh.

"When I'm most nervous, I lean forward more."

This past summer he played with Arthur Fiedler and the San Francisco Pops, but he has no definite future engagements planned.

AT THIS point in his career he feels torn between composing and playing. He'd like to go on the concert stage, but he also wants to compose and perhaps teach as well.

David has written a number of piano pieces and songs, and a trio for strings, which has been played in San Francisco and at Princeton. He started composing when he was a senior in college. Right now he's working on a string quartet piece.

Milton and Peggy Salkind of Mill Valley, concert pianists and teachers, think David is "extremely talented." He has composed a "very contemporary" piece for four hands and one piano especially for them, titled "Scherzo." They will introduce it at a concert next February.

In the summer of 1958 Del Tredici attended the Aspen Music School in Colorado, where the composer Darius Milhaud heard him and encouraged him to go on with his composing.

David feels that children with musical talent should begin studying when they are young, if they want to do so, but not if lessons are "absolute torture."

But, he adds, "if they are good at it,they'll like to play."

SOMETIMES HE wishes he had started to study younger. "I think I would have been better," he muses, "and certain things would be easier."

He never had to be urged to practice; he always liked it, and he averages four hours a day at the keyboard, depending on how much composing he's doing at the moment.

His teacher, Abramowitsch, has been a "very good personal influence" on him, David says. "He's a very wise person. He kept my more extreme tendencies under control . . . If I got nervous or upset, he kept me in check . . . I'm a little too extreme in the way I play."

David and his brothers, Bob and Richard, served as Red Cross swimming instructors this summer (David at Tamalpais High). The young pianist has done this for three or four summers, although he maintains, with a grin, that he "hates sports."

HE LIKES to arrange flowers, go to movies, to plays and sometimes to concerts, and he enjoys "social life" and parties at Berkeley. He's not asked to play at the parties he goes to now, but he had that problem at high school affairs.

"I played the only two popular pieces I knew, until they got sick of it,'" he remembers.

He wants to get married some day, but has no special girl friend right now, he says.

David has had a "very hectic life up to now," says his attractive mother. He has been working at starting a career and maintaining good grades in college while practicing his music.

He never wanted to do anything else, she says. He worked "awfully hard to get started, and he has always done so well . . . He supported himself by his music . . . won scholarships . . . he has never been a burden."

HIS FAMILY, of course, has been pleased with David's progress. One of his most loyal "fans" is Inky, a black and white English cocker who joined the household about 10 years ago when David won an Independent-Journal contest. His answer to "why I want Inky" brought him the dog. Inky has won a lot of trophies since then in obedience trials. David's father shows the dog.

One of David's memories is of the time he auditioned for Liberace and was chosen to play in his nightclub act. It was the first time the young pianist—then about 15—had ever played a grand piano, and he went through his number using the wrong pedal.

He apparently impressed Liberace, despite that embarrassing incident. Some day, the famous entertainer told a San Francisco columnist, David will be a great pianist.

Poetry—A Hobby You Can Carry With You

A Marin Woman Tells Why She Enjoys Writing Verse

By DON KEOWN

The writing of poetry is the ideal hobby because it is one that you can carry around with you.

So believes Ruth Murray Jones, San Rafael poet and one of the founders of the Creative Writing Workshop of the Marin Branch of the American Assn. of University Women.

At one time Mrs. Jones was more interested in short story and essay writing than in poetry.

"BUT TO WRITE a short story you have to have a typewriter," she says. "And you can't carry a typewriter around with you.

"On the other hand, if you are walking along and a line of poetry pops into your head, you can always jot it down on the back of an envelope or some other scrap of paper and transcribe it on the typewriter later."

Mrs. Jones is a northern Californian by birth, having been born at Bodega in Sonoma County. She attended no less than four high schools in California and Nevada before enrolling at the University of Nevada where she graduated with a bachelor of arts degree, majoring in English and minoring in Latin and art.

As a high school student, she recalls, she was interested in literature. And she did write some small verses. And even as a collegian she developed no serious interest in the writing of poetry.

After college she taught school for four years.

"I wrote a little poetry then" she says. "But I was much more interested in the essay and the short story. The poetry I wrote I didn't like. And it went into the wastepaper basket."

Two of those four years were spent teaching in the old gold mining camp town of Tonopah in the southern Nevada desert.

It was there, she believes, that the foundation was laid for her dedication to poetry which was to bloom later. "I fell in love with the beauty of the desert, and I never forgot it," she says. "It was an inspiring place."

It was also there that she met and married Victor W. Jones.

They came to San Rafael in 1924 and Jones was for many years an employee of San Rafael High School as an Industrial arts instructor and secretary to the board of education. He retired three years ago.

DURING THE war years Mrs. Jones first began to write poetry seriously.

The Joneses had suffered a great sorrow. Their son, Deane, was killed in the war.

"I think poetry served as an emotional outlet for me at a very bad time," Mrs. Jones says today.

She remembers fondly that her first poem to appear in print was published by the small poetry booklet, "The Bard."

Mrs. Jones was one of the charter members of the Marin chapter of the AAUW. And it was from this group that the Creative Writing Workshop sprung in the days just after World War II.

She recalls that at the time Mrs. Margaret Albanese was chairman of the AAUW's arts section. And Mrs. Albanese was much interested in the writing of poetry. So she suggested the formation of the creative writing unit.

Of the women who made up the first membership of the workshop, three are still active in the group. They are Mrs. Albanese, Mrs. Davina Kosh and Mrs. Jones.

"I remember that Mrs. Albanese announced at one of our first meetings," Mrs. Jones recalls, "that she hoped we would be able to put out a booklet of poetry by workshop members by the close of our first year. I thought: 'Oh my, we'll never be able to write poetry that well.' But we did. And the booklet came out."

Called "Arrows in the Air," it has been published annually since that first year—1947.

MRS JONES is proud of the Creative Writing Workshop.

"We are serious-minded poets," she says.

The group meets once a month. Work is submitted anonymously, read aloud, and subjected to vigorous criticism if such is merited.

"We all learn a lot," says Mrs. Jones.

"And," she continues, "we have turned out some very fine writers."

Mrs. Jones regrets that she is unable to set up a fixed schedule for her writing and envies her fellow poets—such as Mrs. Albanese—who have been able to do so.

"I have just been too busy for a regular schedule," she says. During the war she worked for the Office of Price Administration. And after the war she was for 11 years an employee of Webb and Rogers Drugs, and she still helps out on occasions at that San Rafael firm.

Her poetry continues to be published frequently in the small poetry books and publications. And her verse has appeared often in the Marin Magazine's Poet's Corner and in other newspapers.

But her biggest feat, financially at least, was the winning of first place in the 1956 Coolbrith Poetry Day Contest. Her triumph earned her a cash prize of $50.

"And, believe me, my family began to sit up and take notice of my poetry then," she smiles.

Actually, she says, her husband has always been proud of her poetry and the recognition she has earned.

"He doesn't write poetry himself, but he has always liked it," she says. "And I can remember years ago reading Robert Service together."

Last Saturday was Poetry Day, an annual observance.

It is also a day in which the women of the Creative Writing Workshop make a special effort to entice their fellow Marinites into a closer acquaintanceship with the beauties of poetry.

"WE LIKE TO urge the people we talk with to read just one book of good poetry during the Poetry Day period," Mrs. Jones says. "We think once exposed to poetry, they will become fans of this great form of literature."

Who knows? They may even become poets themselves. And join Mrs. Jones and other in the ranks of those who receive great personal satisfaction and gratification from the writing of poetry.

You don't have to be a Robert Frost or Carl Sandburg to enjoy it, Mrs. Jones says.

And she smiles when she recalls an early-day bit of verse which she dashed off for "The Bard" and entitled "For Better or for Verse." It ran like this:

I'll never be a faultless poet,
I lack the genius and I know it.
I'll never lay a meager claim to Nobel Prize or laureate's fame:
I've no delusions of such grandeur,
but I admit with honest candor,
I hope I'll live to see the time
I earn a dollar with a rhyme!

Mrs. Jones has earned that dollar and her poetry today is many cuts above those limerick-like lines. For instance, her latest to be published was carried by the Carmel Pine Cone-Cymbal and was entitled: "Big Basin." It runs:

Sun comes shuttered through these aisles fingering its light on younger ferns and paler growth of huckleberries.
Sequoias hush all sounds of outer world:
all whistle shrieks, and locomotive bells,
And clang of industry on wheels.
The deer come hungerclose with trust in eyes that seek and share without false pride which human eyes invariably reveal.
A spotted thrush moves caution-free, churched in the bounty of its host:
this redwood world is rimmed with confidence where peace lives on, unarmed and unafraid.

Visitors Find Boys' School Fairly Bursting With Life

"Come-see" tours of United Crusade - supported agencies this year have translated dull facts and figures into living reality for some 500 employees of the Pacific Telephone Co.

Workers who took the tours were given time off in order to see for themselves how their Crusade dollars go to work right here in Marin County.

TWO SAN RAFAEL residents who made such a tour recently were Mrs. Bea Sager, a telephone operator, and John A. Linch, an equipment tester. They agreed that their visit to St. Vincent's School for Boys was a deeply moving experience.

The 105-year-old school, set amidst acres of rolling farmland, now houses and serves 250 boys. Most of them, either temporarily or permanently, can not be cared for in their own or foster homes. Their average stay is for two years.

Director of St. Vincent's for the past decade has been Msgr. Clement A. McKenna. His assistant, Raymond J. Hebel, conducted the tour and answered the questions posed by the visitors.

HEBEL IS A great favorite of the youngsters and can call most of them by name. A relaxed, pipe-smoking man, he made an ideal guide. Neither the uproar of the boys at recess nor the paper airplanes that whizzed by his head from time to time seemed to bother him.

The group watched as one of the Dominican sisters who staff the school tossed out a basketball for the exercise period. She threw with surprising accuracy, sending the ball high into the air toward the waiting players.

The two visitors also witnessed one of life's little tragedies, a tumble off the see-saw, and looked on as the Sister soothed the sobbing youngster. In a few minutes, he was back in the midst of those eagerly awaiting their turns on the see-saws.

MRS. SAGER and Linch inspected the rabbit hutches built by the boys to house their prolific pets. The structures ranged from crude to elaborate.

"Some of the boys are just better carpenters than others," Hebel explained.

But good carpenters or bad, the boys seemed to be noisily enjoying this sun-splashed life in the Marin countryside. There was no orphanage gloom here.

From the dairy farm to the dispensary, from the classrooms to the cafeteria, St. Vincent's was bursting with life.

THE STATELY SPIRES of St. Vincent's School for Boys welcome visitors Bea Sager and John Linch, telephone company employees making a "come-see' tour of the United Crusade-supported agency. Upon arrival they are met by one of the boys from the school. What they saw on the conducted tour that followed, they share with you in the pictures in Page M-9.

Today's article will deal with an entirely new kind of record playing unit. Since the advent of Stereo records, the rumble and mechanical turntable noises of our record changers have become objectionable during the quiet piano or individual solo instrument passages. Because of this, some enthusiasts have changed over to high quality manual-type record players.

This week, we received our first shipment of the Garrard Laboratory Series TYPE A AUTOMATIC TURNTABLE. The Type A is the answer to a long awaited record changer with the precision qualities of the professional manual turntables. The unit has a dynamically - balanced tone arm with a built-in calibrated pressure gauge; a balanced and polished SIX-pound, non - ferrous turntable separated by a resilient foam barrier from the basic turntable; a newly developed heavy duty fully sheilded motor with a micro-balanced armature for clear sustained musical passages and most important, the ability to play several records automatically and then shut off.

The price of this newest of the Garrard family is only $69.50. Audition it at our store now. If you are planning to start your stereo home music system, the Garrard Type A will be an excellent building block.

"Why Is My Best Dress Stained Down the Back?"

You distinctly recall putting your dress away, freshly cleaned, in perfect condition. Now, after six months, you find it has a bad stain down the back of the neck. You are right, your dress did appear perfect when it came from your drycleaner and was put away for the season. What you did not realize was that you wore that dress when you had a cold wave solution applied to your hair. Unnoticed, some of the solution dripped from your hair to the back of your dress.

This damage is not visible at first. Sometimes when the dress is drycleaned and the heat of finishing is applied, the stain will show. Other times the loss of color will not appear for several weeks or months.

Year after year, the National Institute of Drycleaning finds loss of color from cold wave solutions its largest single cause of fabric damage. Careless use of these chemicals is most costly. The best preventive of this damage is to remove the dress when cold wave solutions are applied to your hair. Then be certain all the cold wave solution is rinsed from the hair before its comes in contact with your garment.

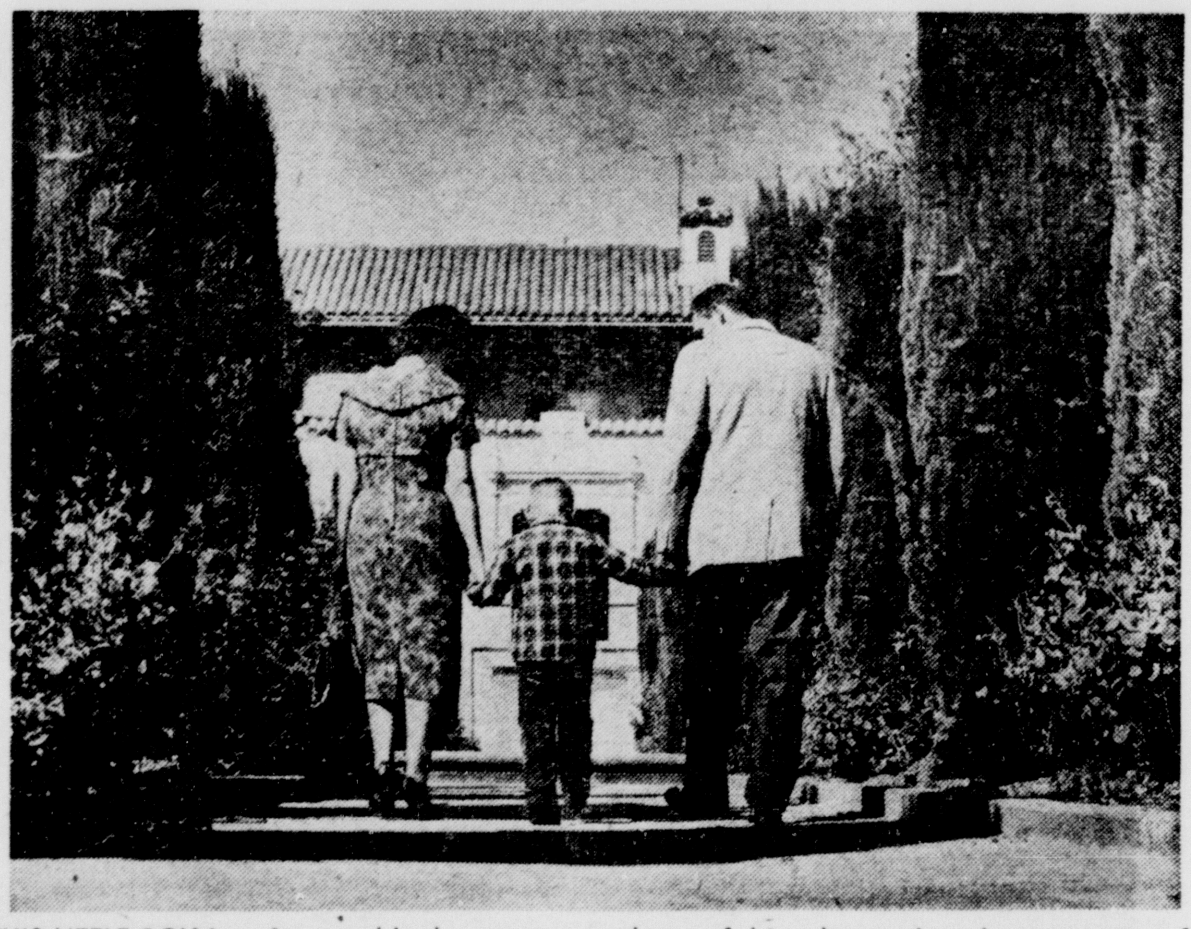
AN ARCHWAY emphasizes the natural beauty of the grounds surrounding the school as Mrs. Sager and Linch stop for a chat with their young guide before beginning their tour. A country boy before coming to St. Vincent's, he told them the school's farm is much more interesting to him than the classes.



THIS LITTLE BOY is a 6-year-old who wants to become a big league baseball player. He conducted the visitors down one of St. Vincent's tree-bordered walks and told them of his plans when he gets out of the first grade. If things work out, he said solemnly, he hopes to join the San Francisco Giants. He figures they could use some fresh talent.

THE TWO VISITORS look in on a reading lesson being administered by Sister Mary Claudia, first grade teacher at St. Vincent's School. The story is a familiar one, but it is still good for some smiles. Linch's only complaint was that the desks were never intended for his six-foot frame.

PLAY TIME between classes fills the air at St. Vincent's with a mighty din. Raymond J. Hebel, assistant director of the school, at right, marvels at the amount of energy expended on the playgrounds during an average day. The building at left, constructed in 1916, is the oldest one in use at the school.

COMIC BOOK STORY is acted out with gestures by this young patient at the school's dispensary. He said his head cold gave him an opportunity to catch up on his reading. Just the same, he was happy to have some visitors with whom to talk.

THE YOUNG GUIDE proudly shows Mrs. Sager and Linch a ton of beef on the hoof at the school farm. St. Vincent's has 200 head of cattle, enough to provide all the milk and beef needed in the school cafeteria. And the thirsty boys consume 100 gallons of milk per day.

THE SHIPYARDS of Marinship looked like this at night as the workers labored around the clock to turn out ships for Uncle Sam's World War II effort. The swing and graveyard shifts together constituted about half the Marinship payroll. Night on the ways was a time for loading heavy quantities of steel. Daytime crews coming to work in the mornings usually found their surroundings completely changed from what they had been at quitting time the previous day. And ships seemed to be built before anyone knew about them.

When Marinship Helped Win The War

Marinites Rolled Up Their Sleeves And Went To Work

By HARRY CRAFT

The names on the doors at 3030 Bridgeway, Sausalito, were different 15 years ago, and the moldloft building was tenanted by production specialists, engineers, draftsmen and loftsmen. There were immense, hangar-like structures known as the "Plate-Shop" and "Sub-Assembly" where the boom of steel on steel was a 24-hour timpano.

Monster antediluvians called gantry cranes prowled back and forth in a domain piled high with deck and hull assemblies. The warehouse at the south end of the yard was the largest building in Marin County, and from the road that cut around the hill the view of shipways and outfitting docks was a changing scene from day to day.

There were thousands upon thousands of people.

THIS WAS Marinship from 1942 to 1945.

The 230-acre strip along Richardson Bay was then a lusty, pulsating community that gave birth to 15 Liberty ships, 16 fleet oilers and 62 tankers. During these hectic years the yard employed to nurse the labor pains a total number of wartime workers equivalent to more than one half of the present population of Marin County.

I was one of them. So, too, were many hundreds of people still living in Marin today.

How Marinship Met And Passed Its Crucial Wartime Test

In the beginning, there were scores who came in as skilled craftsmen, construction and ship workers--but not enough. To fill out the ranks, many of us were drawn from desk jobs, sales jobs, nightclubs, stores and occupations, professions and businesses that had gone into hibernation after Pearl Harbor.

A few of us had taken "quickie" courses in shipfitting, blueprint reading, welding, burning, pipefitting and electricity. Most of the rest started with a hard hat, goggles and shoes with steel toes.

After a week lots of us were ready to quit. Some of us did. But wartime labor became frozen and enough of us stuck it out to learn where to set a bulkhead, to tack and weld so it would hold, to burn a straight line, to tread a narrow catwalk at a dizzy height and to look down without flinching.

Then it was easier. We did good work and taught others. We are as proud of our accomplishments today as we were then. Ask any one of us. Each of us has a different story to tell.

In March, 1942, the United States Maritime Commission awarded the W. A. Bechtel Co. contracts to build a shipyard and deliver 34 Liberty ships by the end of '43. Associated in the venture were the Bechtel-McCone-Parsons Corp., MacDonald & Kahn, Inc., Morrison-Knudson Co., Inc., J. T. Pomeroy and Co., Inc., and the Raymond Concrete Pile Co. The organization was eventually set up as the Marinship Corporation and the ship contract was revised to substitute tankers for some of the Libertys.

CONSTRUCTION OF Marinship itself was as remarkable and record breaking as some of its later achievements in shipbuilding. Preparations and facilities necessary to put it into full operation were:

The removal of 40 residences and other buildings from the property.

Driving of 25,952 timber piles.

Relocation of the main line of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad and moving more than 25,000 feet of track, siding and spurs.

Construction of electrical power and water supply systems, asphalt and concrete pavements, 22 buildings, six shipways, seven gantry ways, crane ways, two outfitting docks, ramps, a ferry slip and dredging a 300-foot channel one and a quarter miles in length to deep water.

All this was not done before the first Liberty keel was laid on June 27, 1942, but it was substantially accomplished by the end of the year. By then, Marinship had already laid 11 keels, launched seven Liberty ships, delivered five and laid the keel of its first tanker.

What world records for speed might have been shattered had Marinship held to building Libertys will never be known. Perhaps none. With only six shipways, it probably would have been a poor match for the Kaiser yards and Calship with their greater facilities.

THE YARD changeover to build tankers was a crucial test for even the seasoned shipbuilder. We on the production line had to get acquainted with new designs, learn new methods, work with heavier steel and more of it. Everything had to be enlarged—including the shipways—to accommodate parts and materials for the most powerful oil tankers ever attempted.

As a hull worker, I can recall the painstaking efforts and attention to detail that followed our first keel laying. Many of us had been upgraded by now, with greater responsibilities. We had been told what to build. How to build them, and build them fast and well was something to tax the imagination and skill of every man from superintendent to journeyman.

The lack of preconceived ideas turned out to be an asset.

ASSEMBLY METHODS that had never been tried before were devised so fast that each succeeding hull was a new experience. No one who had a thought for improvement was ignored. Marinship's "idea factory" was one of its biggest achievements.

The years of 1943 and 1944 saw a steady climb in production.

In April, 1944, Marinship was awarded the national Tanker Champ flag previously held by Swan Island in Portland. It was similarly crowned in May and November and again in March, 1945. The world-record Huntington Hills was launched the following June after 28 days on the shipway and delivered fully outfitted five days later.

The year 1945 was mostly downhill sledding. The great American war potential had delivered the goods and victory was in the air. There was no longer the crying need for more tankers as the war entered its last decisive phase.

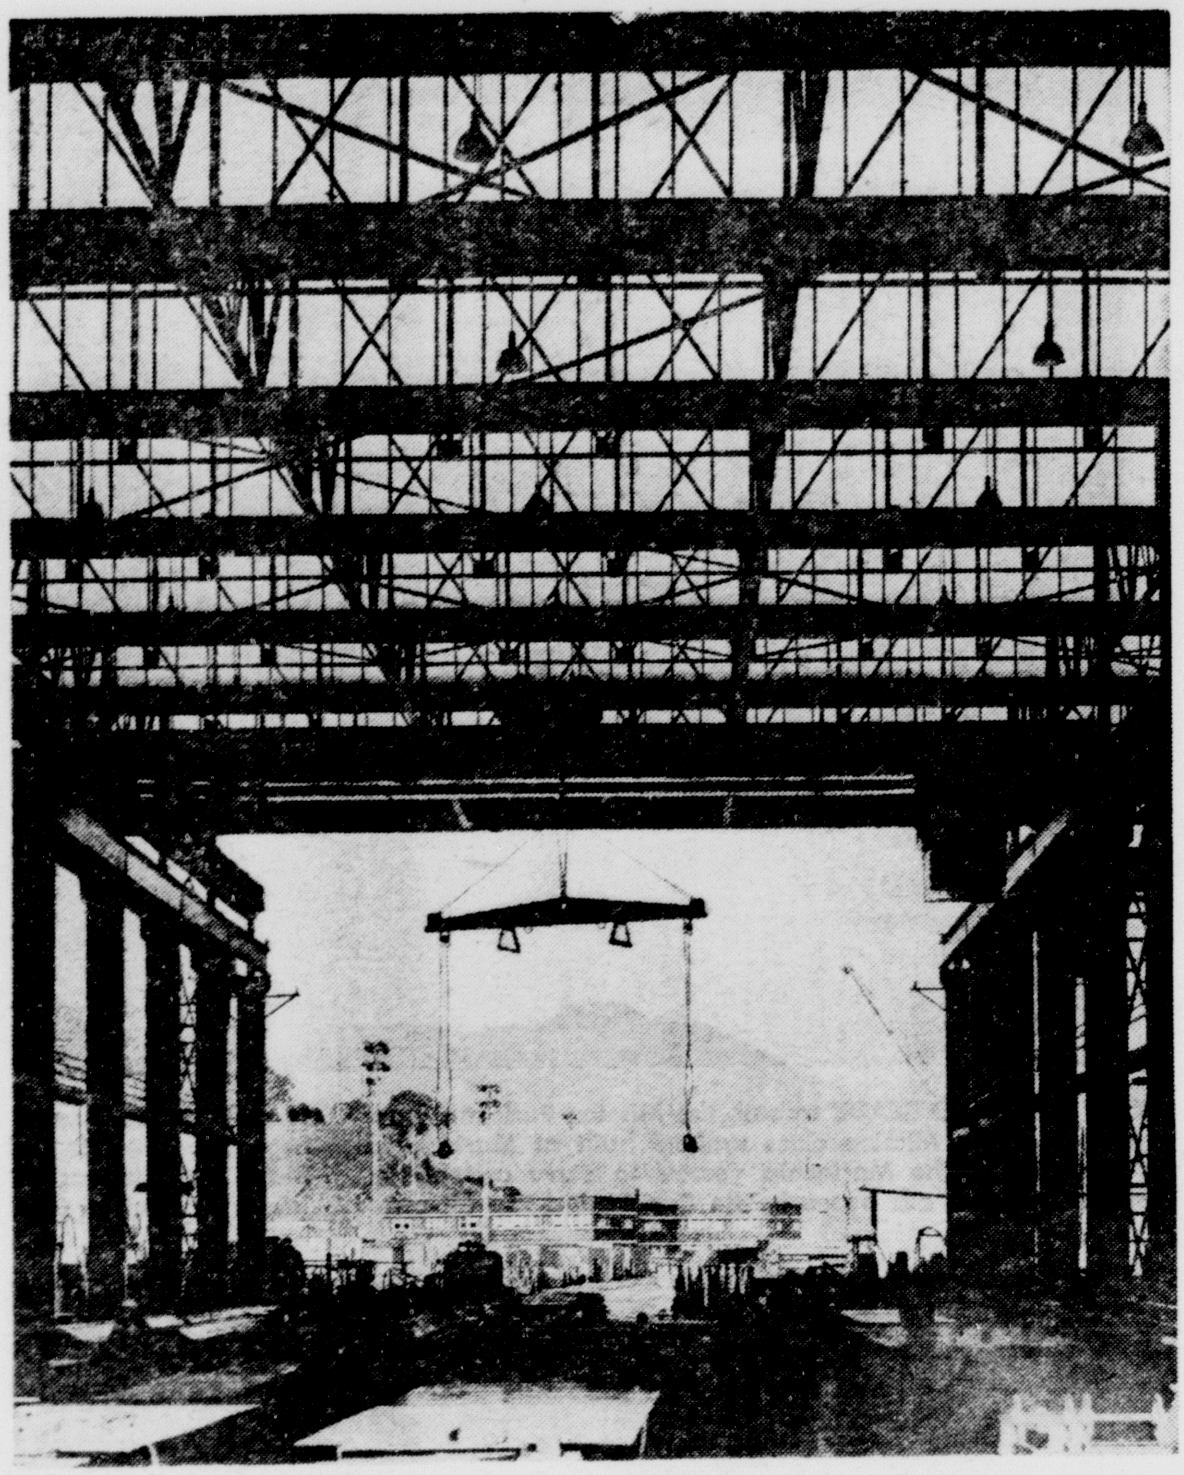
At Marinship workers were beginning to leave the yard and the exodus, except for key personnel, was practically complete by July when suddenly the yard was informed of a top secret project known simply as "Dagwood." Marinship, Calship and the Kaiser yards were requested to build 60 barges of a unique type designed to form a breakwater and platform for unloading troops and material for the invasion of Japan.

On Aug. 6, 1945, Hiroshima was bombed. The final curtain was lowered on Marin's great wartime industry before the barge project could get under way.

The 75,000 workers who passed through Marinship are scattered now. With them are gone the stories they could tell us, their gripes, their failures and accomplishments.

But they haven't forgotten. They have memories by the bucketfull.

I know I do.



STEEL FLOWED from storage to "Plate Shop" against a scenic backdrop of Marin County skyline as Marinship produced ships at an amazing rate during World War II. Here shape and contour were given to individual parts of the ships. Pieces were then transferred to "Sub-Assembly" and skids for incorporation in gigantic hull and deckhouse sections .More pictures of wartime Marinship can be seen on pages M-12 and M-13.

The world-record Huntington Hills was launched the following June after 28 days on the shipway and delivered fully outfitted five days later.

The year 1945 was mostly downhill sledding. The great American war potential had delivered the goods and victory was in the air. There was no longer the crying need for more tankers as the war entered its last decisive phase.

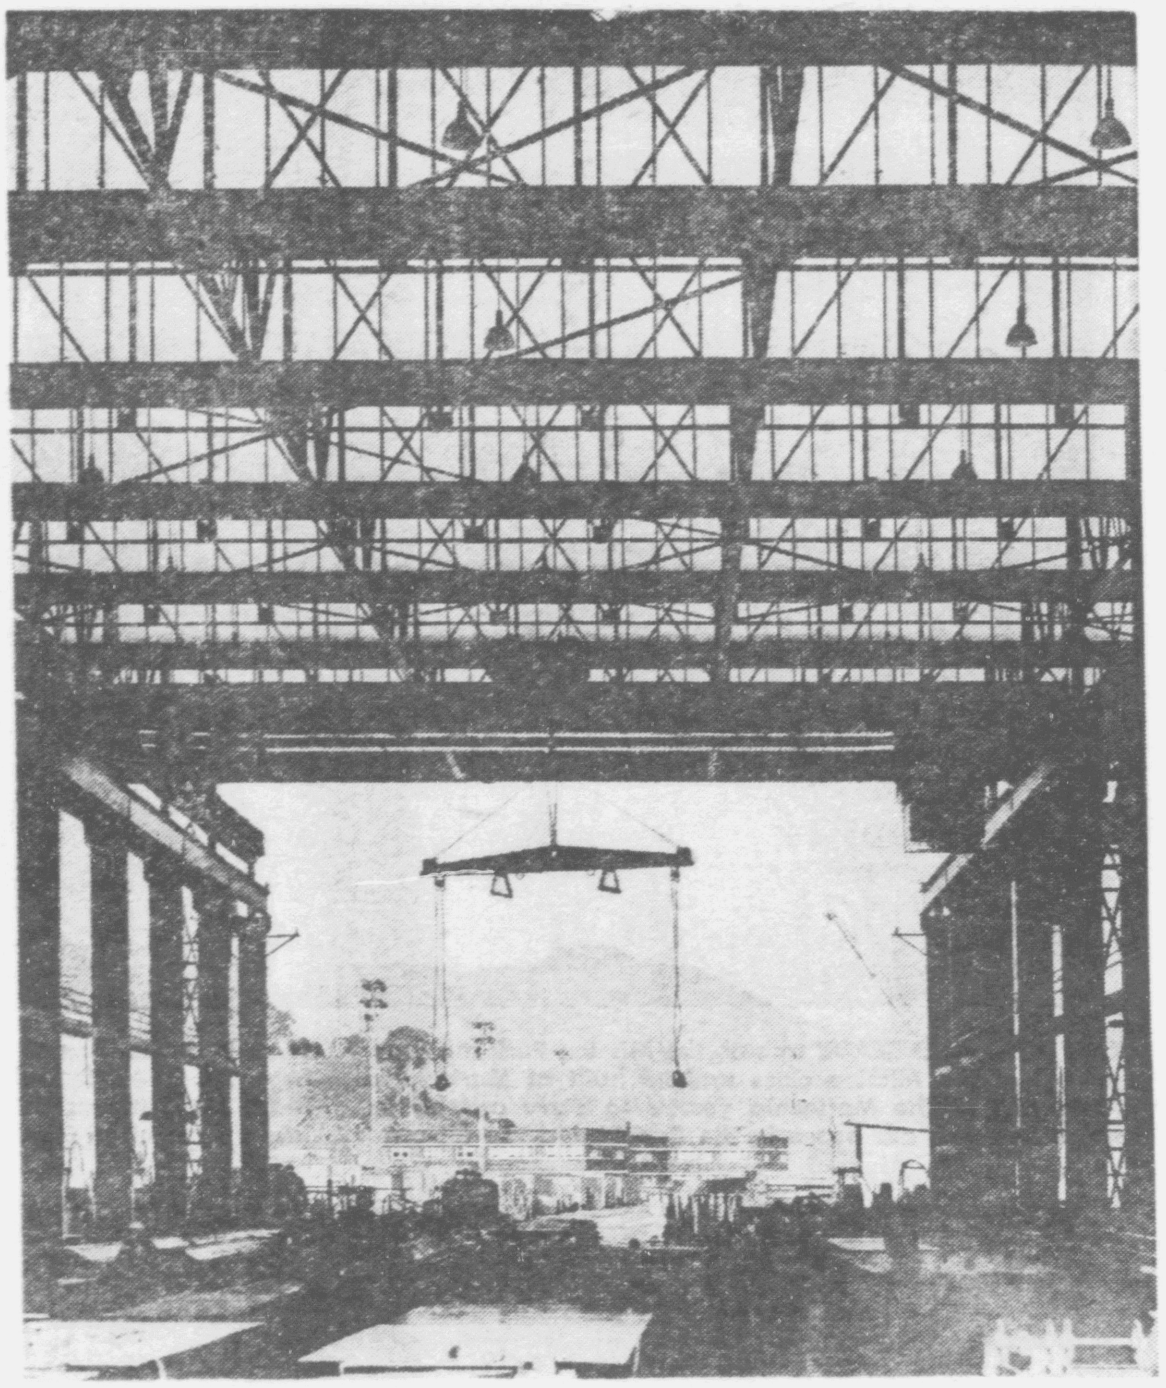
At Marinship workers were beginning to leave the yard and the exodus, except for key personnel, was practically complete by July when suddenly the yard was informed of a top secret project known simply as "Dagwood." Marinship, Calship and the Kaiser yards were requested to build 60 barges of a unique type designed to form a breakwater and platform for unloading troops and material for the invasion of Japan.

On Aug. 6, 1945, Hiroshima was bombed. The final curtain was lowered on Marin's great wartime industry before the barge project could get under way.

The 75,000 workers who passed through Marinship are scattered now. With them are gone the stories they could tell us, their gripes, their failures and accomplishments.

But they haven't forgotten. They have memories by the bucketfull.

I know I do.



STEEL FLOWED from storage to "Plate Shop" against a scenic backdrop of Marin County skyline as Marinship produced ships at an amazing rate during World War II. Here shape and contour were given to individual parts of the ships. Pieces were then transferred to "Sub-Assembly" and skids for incorporation in gigantic hull and deckhouse sections .More pictures of wartime Marinship can be seen on pages M-12 and M-13.

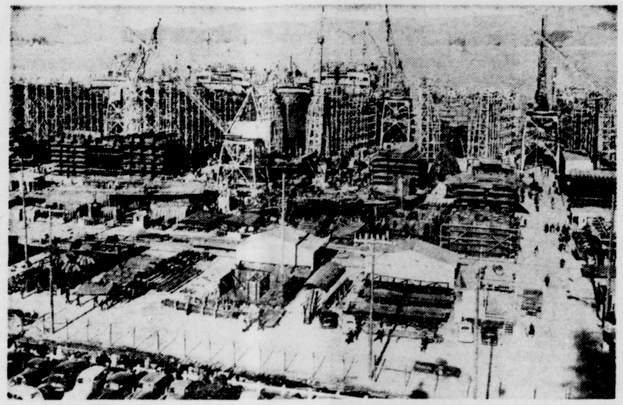
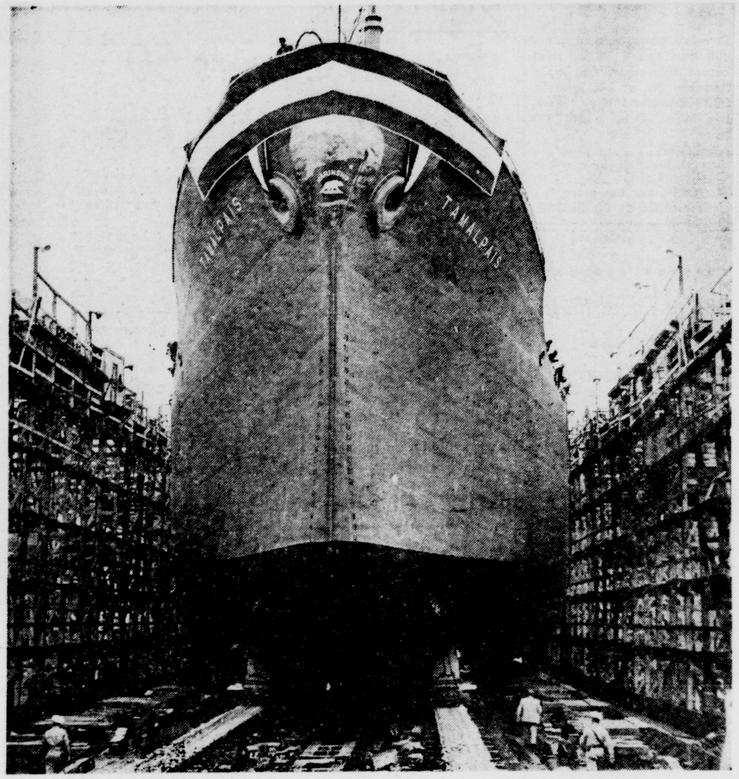
It was one of the Marinship vessels to carry on shuttle service between our bases in the Pacific and the oil centers. From the time of its delivery on Nov. 23, 1943, until Sept. 21, 1945, it had logged 146,325 nautical miles. In May, 1947, it was listed by the Maritime Commission as laid up at Suisun Bay.

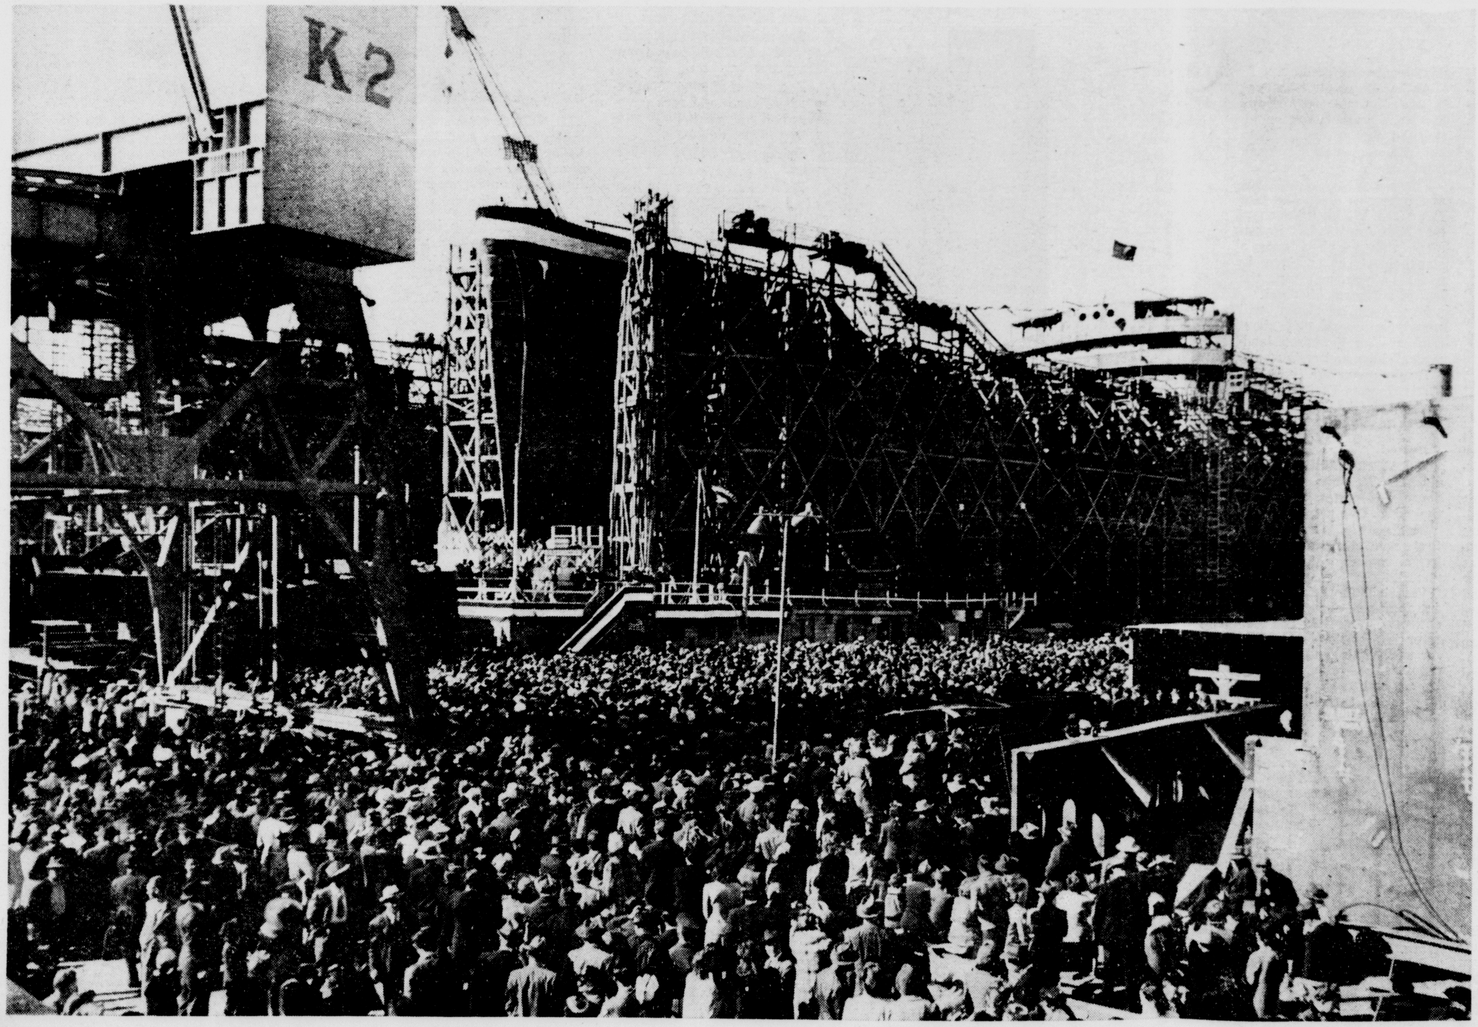


BY MID-JULY OF 1943, with the launching of the last Liberty, Marinship's six ways began producing tankers and oilers exclusively. Keel, shell and deck sections were pre-assembled and piled in huge stacks through the center of the yard and transferred to the hulls in sequence. As much as 1,500 tons of steel was often erected within the first 24 hours after keel laying.

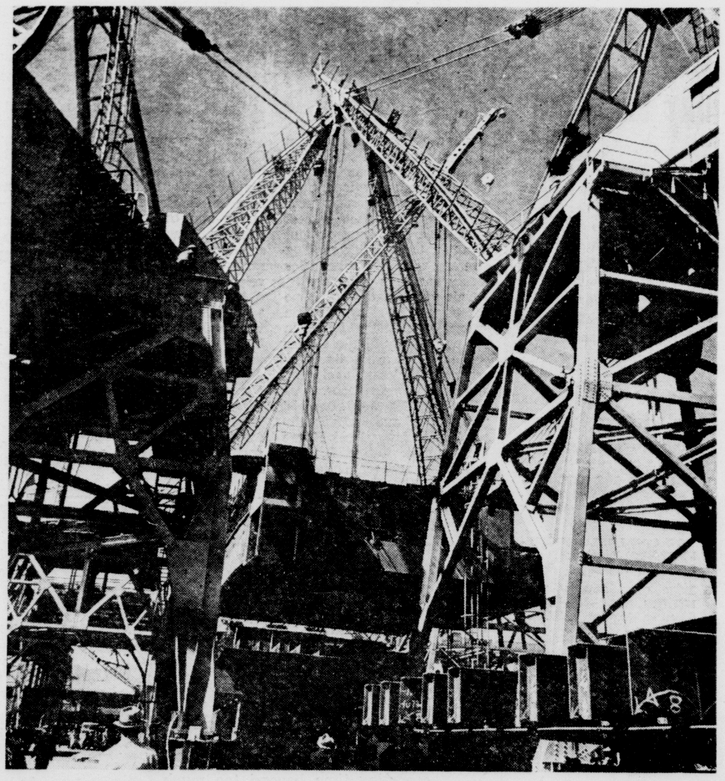
When Marinship Came Through For Uncle Sam's War Effort



THE LAUNCHING CREW removed the shoring timbers, there was a breathless hush as burners cut through the last sections of the tie plates and the traditional bottle of champagne was swung against the hull. Then a cheer arose as 5,000 tons of steel slid down the way. Five ships bore names which indicated their Marin County origin — the Tamalpais, shown here, and the William A. Richardson, John Muir, Mission San Rafael and the Marin Hills.



THIS WAS MARINSHIP'S first tanker launching. The keel of the Escambia was laid on the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor. And the ship was launched 139 days later on April 26, 1943. It was one of eight Marinship oilers which were with the fleet assembled at Sagami Bay for the Japanese surrender. Many launchings drew large crowds of spectators and were accompanied by much pomp and ceremony. Others were just part of a day's routine and went almost unnoticed by the busy yard workers. But every one represented a U. S. "triumph" against its wartime foes.



MOST SPECTACULAR of the crane lifts was that of the pre-assembled midship deck house weighing 97 tons, transferred in midair from the booms of two gantries to two others and lowered into exact position. A still heavier lift was the entire inner bottom aft, including shell plating, tank top with foundations and machinery already installed, weighing 116 tons. (Photos courtesy of Fred Drexler)

Baruch Covers 50 Years In Public Life

BARUCH — THE PUBLIC YEARS by Bernard Baruch, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 416 pages, $6. Reviewed by Bill Hendricks.

This second volume of memoirs by one of the really big figures in American life, Bernard Baruch, covers 50 years of hobnobbing with top level diplomats, politicians, financiers — the behind-the-scenes-in-the-presidential-suite type operation that has come to be identified with the nation's top park bench philosopher-philanthropist.

Amazingly, it is written with a light and interesting touch.

Of particular interest, currently, are Baruch's comments on the nomination and race for the presidency of Governor Al Smith, his Catholicity and chances of election. It might have been written about the present campaign.

The League of Nations, the Harding-Coolidge era, big ticker tape filled Wall Street, quiet restrained Cordell Hull, the big crash of '29 and finally FDR and the New Deal are all attacked with Baruch's careful restrained prose—attacked and defended or explained, according to his lights.

A very interesting bit of historical commentary and well worth the reading by anyone who wants an insight into the last 50 years from a top governmental vantage point.

ELLERY QUEEN'S 15TH MYSTERY ANNUAL edited by Ellery Queen, Random House, 248 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

When you get right down to it a review of an Ellery Queen mystery annual is pretty superfluous. It is a book which you can open up year after year with the utmost confidence that you are about to enjoy top quality reading fare and without the need for reassurances in advance.

This year's anthology is no exception. The story selection is excellent. And while, as in the past, many of the stories are not true mysteries, they are, nevertheless, all gripping and entertaining yarns.

We liked Harold R. Daniels' "Road Hog" and Hugh Pentecost's "The Lame Duck House Party" best. Robert L. Fish has done another delightful spoof of Sherlock Holmes. You may have other favorites. But we doubt if you will skip any of them.

An interesting bonus is a mystery story written by F. Scott Fitzgerald at 13 and published in a school paper. It was his first published work. And it proves only that he wrote much like any other 13-year-old.

MY FATHER, GENERAL LEE, by Robert E. Lee Jr., Doubleday and Co. 453 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

The hero of the Confederacy was no less a hero to his youngest son and namesake; and the cause for which he fought was no less the cause of that son, who signed his only book, originally published as "Recollections and Letters of General Robert E. Lee," as "by Capt. Robert E. Lee Jr., C.S.A."

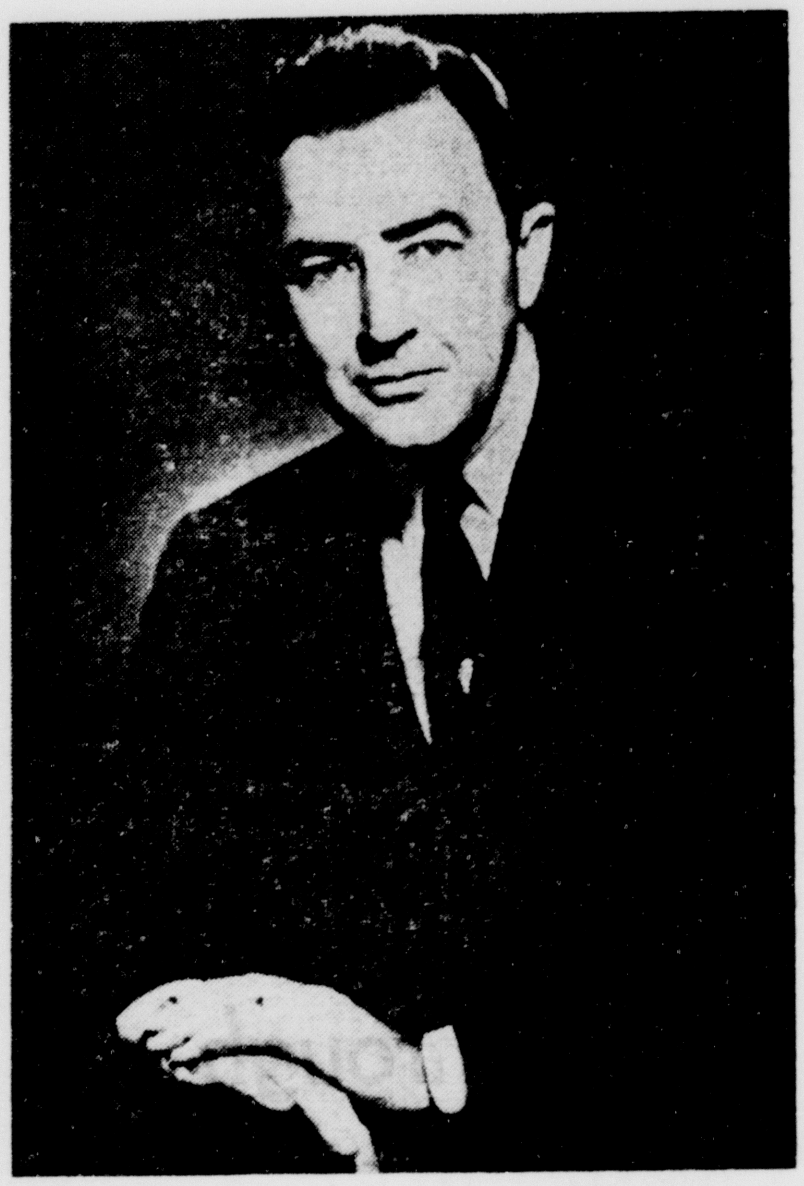
This long-out-of-print volume has been re-issued as "My Father, General Lee" with an adequate introduction and a Lee chronology by Phillip Van Doren Stern. Also included are a number of Lee pictures collected by Stern.

It is warm with the love of its author for its subject. It is warm, too, with the recollection of another way of life, which died, along with slavery, in the War Between the States.

Many of General Lee's letters in the book are trivial. But their very trivia serves to illumine the man. And the Lees and Curtises who swarm the pages bring into startling realization how much a land of home and family was the Old South.

For the many admirers of General Lee, his son's book provides what no military biography can attain: A picture of a God-fearing family man, loving and beloved by little children, much more understandably human than the ramrod general astride "Traveler" on a battlefield.

And the very fact that such a book is republished at this time tells something about the United States that perhaps few foreigners could understand. For, a century after our country's only great insurrection, the commanding general of the insurrection forces is permanently enshrined as one of the shining heroes of our nation.



ONE OF THE rapidly-rising young liberals in the United States Senate, Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, states his views on current issues, both domestic and foreign, in his new book, "Frontiers in American Democracy," published just this week.

FRONTIERS IN AMERICAN DEMOCRACY by Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, World Publishing Co., 155 pages, $3.75. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Many Americans were somewhat surprised to discover during the 1960 Democratic National Convention being brought to them on their television sets that Sen. Hubert Humphreys is not Minnesota's only articulate liberal.

The state's junior senator, Euegen McCarthy, in placing Adlai Stevenson's name into nomination for the presidency, delivered what was widely considered to be the best speech heard at either of the national conventions.

Now Senator McCarthy has authored this book, just out, setting forth his views on both domestic and international issues.

His speech, because of his strong and winning personality, is considerably more forceful than his writing. Nevertheless, the book stands as an interesting analysis of the American political scene, and as a clear and persuasive statement of the enlightened views of our Stevensonian Democrats.

McCarthy can be expected to continue his rise as a spokesman for our moderate liberals or liberal moderates, whichever way you prefer to put it. And it could well be that he is destined for future office that is even higher than the Senate seat he now fills.

AUNT JANE McPHIPPS AND HER BABY BLUE CHIPS, by Frances Rummell, Prentice-Hall, 210 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Frances Davis.

San Francisco is the setting for this giddy bit of fluff about an attractive matron who, upon becoming a widow, sets about to increase her small savings by playing the market. Many an adventure follows for Aunt Jane and her friends. One has to admire her spunk, and her unorthodox ideas are refreshing.

Author Rummell, who lives in Berkeley, obviously knows her stock market, and an interested reader cannot help but learn something from Aunt Jane's experiences.

There is plenty of romance and humor to keep the plot fast paced. We liked the chapter about Aunt Jane's investment club which attends a stockholder's meeting in widow's weeds, mourning the loss of a 10 cent dividend.

Bay Area residents will smugly enjoy reading about familiar San Francisco landmarks, shops and restaurants.

Readers who like the "Mrs. 'Arris Goes to Paris" type of novel will find "Aunt Jane" just their cup of tea.

THE MERCENARIES by Donald E. Westlake, Random House, 208 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This book is billed as "the first new direction in the tough mystery since Hammett."

Certainly there is a different approach, even if it is not entirely successful. The narrator is a professional killer for the crime syndicate—the organization—who is forced by an odd twist of circumstances to turn "detective" and track down the perpetrator of an underworld killing.

Westlake, however, does not quite succeed in convincing this reader that an underworld "enforcer" actually acts and thinks like his central character. And consequently the reader never really feels involved.

The fact that the killer who is the object of the book-long search is a bit too apparent also serves to weaken the story.

It should, however, be noted that this is a first novel. And from that standpoint, Westlake must be regarded as a promising writer who in the future very probably will write some first-rate mysteries.

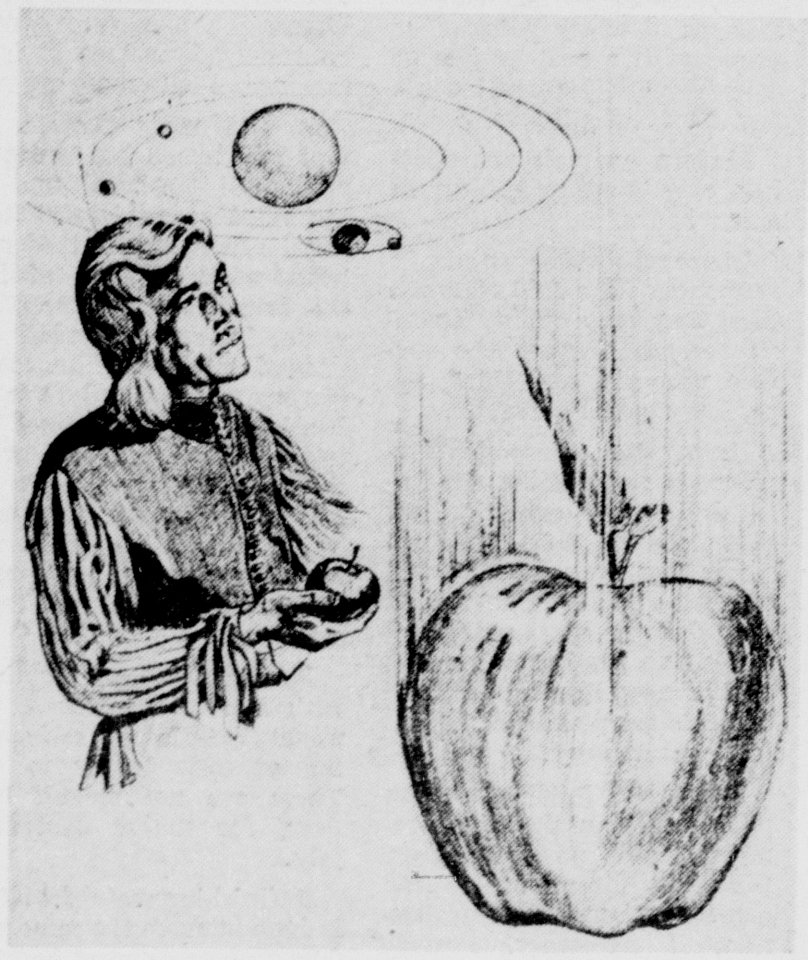
Arts And Entertainment



AN APPLE FALLS to earth. Why, then, doesn't the moon? This was just one of the phenomena that Isaac Newton helped to explain to puzzled mankind. A new book for young people, "The Quest of Isaac Newton," has just been published by Garden City Books. Picture above is of the jacket art by Arthur Renshaw, illustrator for the book.

S.F. HOSPITAL TO SHOW MARIN ART

Paintings of five Marin artists are now on exhibit at the Sutter Towers Hospital, 2356 Sutter Street, San Francisco.

They are John Lynch, Winifred Koch, Eleanore Bender, Robert Carleton and Barbara Carpenter.

Previously the hospital had held individual showings of the work of each of the five. The series is now being concluded with the display of work of all five. Each is represented by five or six of his or her paintings not previously exhibited at the hospital.

The current show, which opened with a preview last night, will continue through January of 1961.

The series was planned by the hospital for a two-fold purpose: To help acquaint the San Francisco public with the work of Marin artists, and to make use in the hospital of art as therapy and a source of enjoyment for the patients.

The series marks a unique use of fine art as part of a hospital "therapy" program.

The public is invited to view the paintings during the regular visiting hours of the hospital.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Here's A Different Kind Of Hero For The Young

THE QUEST OF ISAAC NEWTON by Barbara and Myrick Land, Garden City, 56 pages.

This is part of a science-biography series for young readers that has previously covered Galileo, Louis Pasteur and Michael Faraday.

Those biographies and the large number of other science books published of late by Doubleday and Co.'s Garden City books are indicative of the intense and gratifying interest that has arisen among our young people in things scientific.

"The Quest of Isaac Newton" is tailor-made for such youthful curiosity. The Lands do not write down to their young readers, but provide an informative and interesting text. And the illustrations by Arthur Renshaw are excellent.

MARIO by Marion Garthwaite, Doubleday and Co., 167 pages, $2.50.

Here is an adventure book for the boy about 12, slightly under or just over. And it is very much like the ones we remember that gave us so much pleasure as a boy.

Lots of action. Lots of excitement. Plenty of color and suspense.

The young hero is a Mexican boy. And the author, who, by the way, is the children's librarian in the San Mateo County Library, makes the predicaments in which he becomes embroiled quite believable. The youngster, we are sure, will become wholeheartedly involved in Mario's struggles. And in so doing he will learn some lessons, too, about the people of Mexico—and particularly those who come across the border to work in the fields of the U. S. An excellent book well illustrated by Ronnie Solbert.

OUR JAPANESE PLAYMATES by Ruth Nugent Charles E. Tuttle Co., 64 pages, $2.50.

This published-in-Japan book is aimed at youngsters in the 7 to 10-year-old bracket, but even younger children will enjoy it when it is read to them.

It is the story of Jack and Judy Brown, two American children living in Japan with their parents, and what they learned about the customs of that country.

There is plenty of adventure to hold the child's interest while he is also getting a lesson in Japanese culture. And the illustrations by Fusako Hyuga are excellent.

Mrs. Nugent certainly achieves her goal of bringing American and Japanese children "a little closer together," and does so in a most delightful way.

DECK THE STABLE by Ivy O. Eastwick, David McKay Co. Inc., 32 pages, $2.75.

Already wondering what you are going to get that little niece or nephew for Christmas? Books are always a good answer to that question. And here is one that is just right for Christmas Eve reading.

Animals are very much in the limelight and Miss Unwin presents them wonderfully in her illustrations.

IN AN IRON LUNG

Once you breathed lilac air felt ocean on your cheek, dove-listened to a mating pair, counted minnows in a creek.
Once you cantered wind with storm and plowed the pebbled beach, leaned to earth to hear a worm, turned to catch the plover's screech.
Once you pushed ball to clutch to burn the night with wheels, crowding time beyond too much, like a sentenced prisoner who feels that he must speak before the pellet drops and every aching pulse of freedom stops.

Women Turn I-J Wire Into Decorations

A combination of do-it-yourself skill and artistic imagination and ingenuity can turn some strange materials into attractive table and holiday decorations.

For instance the women of the Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church have been making effective use of a material that is familiar to every Marin family that has an Independent-Journal carrier in the family.

It is the wire used to tie the newspapers into bundles for delivery to the carriers.

Mrs. Herman Gulbransen of the Santa Venetia Church is one of the I-J mothers who had grown accustomed to finding the discarded wire around her home.

And when the women of the Santa Venetia church began discussing things they could make for sale at their upcoming Harvest Festival—to be held next Saturday—Mrs. Gulbransen realized the wire might well prove to be a bonanza.

And it has been just that. From the wire Mrs. Gulbransen and some of the other women, including Mrs. Earl Berg, Mrs. Walter Lowe and Mrs. Robert Davenport, have fashioned some very attractive decorations.

The women found that the bright, silver-colored wire, supplemented with scotch tape and tacks, made excellent frames for their holiday mobiles.

Their handiwork will be offered for sale at the Harvest Festival which will be a benefit for the Santa Venetia Presbyterians' Church school building fund.

To Give Your Furniture A New Lease On Life—Enamel

New, unpainted furniture and unsightly, scarred old pieces can be turned into possessions of which you can be proud with a coat or two of colorful quality enamel and a few hours of pleasant work.

Modern enamels are odorless, easy to apply, and dry in a few hours.

There are three points to remember for a first class job First, buy only quality enamel; second, prepare the surface properly, and third, apply the enamel correctly.

Preparation of wooden furniture is easy. If the old finish is in good condition, all that need be done is to remove any wax or oil with odorless paint thinner and then dull the gloss with steel wool, fine sandpaper or one of the new liquids designed for this purpose. Be sure it is clean and dry.

A cracked finish or one in poor condition should be removed with paint remover, following directions on the can for its use and neutralization, if necessary. Provide adequate ventilation. Fill any holes or cracks with water putty or plastic wood. When the piece is dry, sand lightly and then apply an enamel undercoat which in turn, must dry hard before the topcoat is applied.

Unfinished furniture should be sanded smooth before the undercoat is applied. If one or more coats are to be used, sand lightly between them.

You'll be able to do a good job easier if you remove all drawer pulls and other hardware before you start to work. Where the hardware cannot be removed protect it from the enamel with masking tape

Do not apply enamel the way you brush out ordinary paint. Fill the brush and apply quickly and freely, flowing the enamel with the grain of the wood. Without refilling the brush, stroke across the grain. This will spread the enamel in an even film, covering any misses. Lastly, tap the brush fairly dry against the inside of the can and brush lightly once more with the grain, making the strokes as long as possible. This will take up any excess enamel which might otherwise cause sags.

For small pieces or those with intricate surfaces, you might find the new self-spraying enamels handy to use. These are not meant, however, for major decorating jobs.

Refinishing metal furniture is done in much the same way. Any rust spots must be sanded down to the bright metal which should then be primed with a metal primer such as zinc chromate.

Aluminum furniture which has lost its sheen can be enameled the same as iron or steel enamel of your choice.

You'll find it easier to enamel chairs if you up-end them on a bench or table and do the legs and other surfaces from this convenient height.

Give Fireplace A 'Face-Lifting' Over Weekend

An old fireplace can be given a "face lifting" over a weekend by a home handyman who likes to keep his home modern and attractive.

Ornate mantels that were in tune with interior decorating standards of the earlier day when the fireplace was installed may not fit the present-day setting. Some mantels would look better trimmed down or removed.

The front of the fireplace or the wall above may show indelible signs of wear or soil. Often the only satisfactory solution is to resurface the area.

Marble-pattern panels of Marlite, a decorative hardboard, are used in many fireplace modernizing projects to lend a distinctive note befitting such an important element of the room. There are six different marble patterns to choose from in this material, which also is finished in woodgrains and plain colors.

Marlite or similar products can be applied with wallboard adhesive right over old walls and fireplace fronts, including brick surfaces, with removal of loose material or excessive soil the only advance preparation needed. Matching mouldings are available to protect corners.

A baked plastic finish guards the beauty of paneling, makes cleaning easy and prolongs wear.

The New Fabrics Express An Era Of Home Elegance

Today's "age of elegance" is finding wide expression in the new furnishing fabrics.

The move toward formality is evident throughout the lines—in the new colors, patterns, weaves, and textures.

Colorwise, while the more casual earthtones are still highly acceptable, neutral shades have lightened considerably — with whites, off-whites, and oatmeal beiges drawing wide interest. Symbolizing the elegant trend is the fact that shades of purple—the hue of royalty—are leading the high fashion parade of non-neutrals. Tones of lilac and lavendar, as well as deeper purples, are seen throughout the new offerings.

THE CLASSIC URN newly interpreted in brass with a dull English finish makes a lamp of graceful proportions. Acanthus leaf and bead and reed motifs serve to emphasize the delicacy of the urn shape.

Turquoise is still drawing favor, and avocado is growing in popularity.

Even Early American is taking on a more elegant mood.

A natural accompaniment to elegance is the growing interest in outline quilting and embroidering. Many of the new upholstery lines are especially designed for this treatment, which shows signs of establishing itself as an important style trend. Also contributing to elegance are many luxuriously soft new textures.

Perhaps because they harmonize well with the new, softer lines in furniture, such fabrics as damasks, jacquards, and brocatelles are receiving favorable attention.

Nylon, it appears, is the biggest news in upholstery fibers. While it has already proved popular in the East, interest here in the West has lagged until now. Making up for lost time, however, dealers are currently expressing great demand for it, and it is appearing widely — in new weaves, broader color ranges, and in combination with other fibers.

More news in fabrics shows up in the way in which several manufacturers' lines are now being merchandised. These are planned around colors—with several patterns or textures in monochromatic shadings, accented with one or two additional colors around which an upholstered line or a room setting may be keyed.

Yesterday a decorator's dream—today a reality of palatial beauty in your home. This lovely new flooring features vinyl inlays sprinkled lavishly with jewel-toned metallics and translucent vinyl chips. Its sparkling beauty and crisp freshness turn even a modest interior into one of luxurious beauty.

Armstrong Palatial Corlon is a completely new kind of inlaid vinyl formulation that means—longer wear, easier maintenance, and deeper, richer, clearer colors. It can be installed upstairs, downstairs, and even in the basement to give palatial splendor throughout the home. See the beautiful colors now on display at MARIN'S LARGEST FLOOR COVERING DEALER

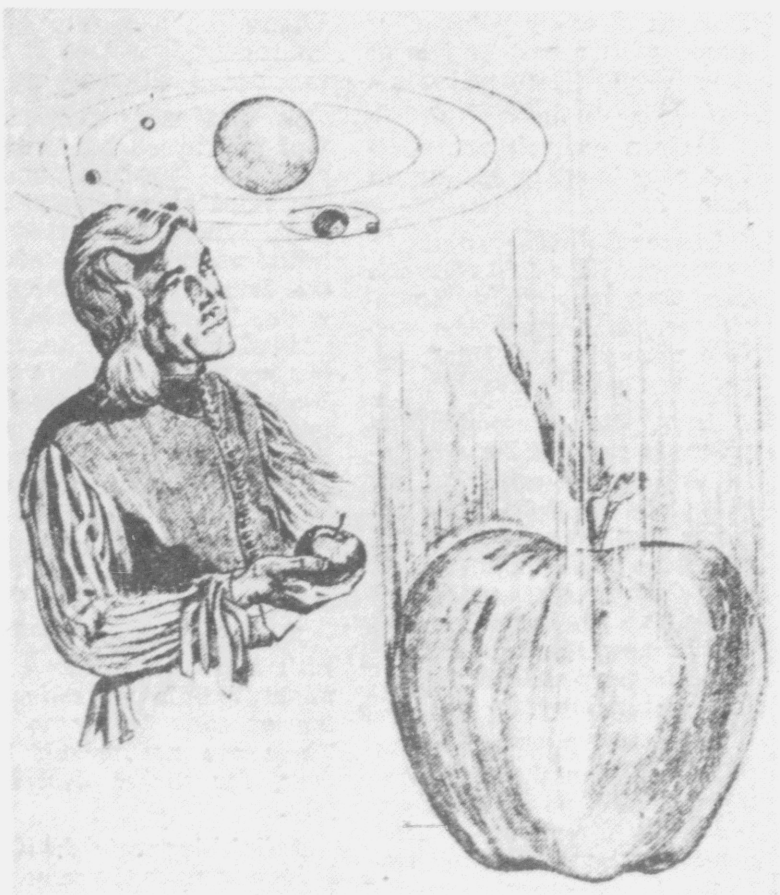
Arts And Entertainment



AN APPLE FALLS to earth. Why, then, doesn't the moon? This was just one of the phenomena that Isaac Newton helped to explain to puzzled mankind. A new book for young people, "The Quest of Isaac Newton," has just been published by Garden City Books. Picture above is of the jacket art by Arthur Renshaw, illustrator for the book.

S.F. HOSPITAL TO SHOW MARIN ART

They are John Lynch, Winifred Koch, Eleanore Bender, Robert Carleton and Barbara Carpenter.

Previously the hospital had held individual showings of the work of each of the five. The series is now being concluded with the display of work of all five. Each is represented by five or six of his or her paintings not previously exhibited at the hospital.

The current show, which opened with a preview last night, will continue through January of 1961.

The series was planned by the hospital for a two-fold purpose: To help acquaint the San Francisco public with the work of Marin artists, and to make use in the hospital of art as therapy and a source of enjoyment for the patients.

The series marks a unique use of fine art as part of a hospital "therapy" program.

The public is invited to view the paintings during the regular visiting hours of the hospital.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Here's A Different Kind Of Hero For The Young

THE QUEST OF ISAAC NEWTON by Barbara and Myrick Land, Garden City, 56 pages.

This is part of a science-biography series for young readers that has previously covered Galileo, Louis Pasteur and Michael Faraday.

Those biographies and the large number of other science books published of late by Doubleday and Co.'s Garden City books are indicative of the intense and gratifying interest that has arisen among our young people in things scientific.

"The Quest of Isaac Newton" is tailor-made for such youthful curiosity. The Lands do not write down to their young readers, but provide an informative and interesting text. And the illustrations by Arthur Renshaw are excellent.

MARIO by Marion Garthwaite, Doubleday and Co., 167 pages, $2.50.

Here is an adventure book for the boy about 12, slightly under or just over. And it is very much like the ones we remember that gave us so much pleasure as a boy.

Lots of action. Lots of excitement. Plenty of color and suspense.

The young hero is a Mexican boy. And the author, who, by the way, is the children's librarian in the San Mateo County Library, makes the predicaments in which he becomes embroiled quite believable. The youngster, we are sure, will become wholeheartedly involved in Mario's struggles. And in so doing he will learn some lessons, too, about the people of Mexico—and particularly those who come across the border to work in the fields of the U. S. An excellent book well illustrated by Ronnie Solbert.

OUR JAPANESE PLAYMATES by Ruth Nugent Charles E. Tuttle Co., 64 pages, $2.50.

This published-in-Japan book is aimed at youngsters in the 7 to 10-year-old bracket, but even younger children will enjoy it when it is read to them.

It is the story of Jack and Judy Brown, two American children living in Japan with their parents, and what they learned about the customs of that country.

There is plenty of adventure to hold the child's interest while he is also getting a lesson in Japanese culture. And the illustrations by Fusako Hyuga are excellent.

Mrs. Nugent certainly achieves her goal of bringing American and Japanese children "a little closer together," and does so in a most delightful way.

DECK THE STABLE by Ivy O. Eastwick, David McKay Co. Inc., 32 pages, $2.75.

Already wondering what you are going to get that little niece or nephew for Christmas? Books are always a good answer to that question. And here is one that is just right for Christmas Eve reading.

It is a Christmas story in sparkling rhyme by Miss Eastwick, a member of the British foreign service, with some charming illustrations by Nora S. Unwin, another Britisher.

Animals are very much in the limelight and Miss Unwin presents them wonderfully in her illustrations.

Tips On Refinishing Floors In Your Home For Lasting Beauty

Beautiful, well-kept floors add much to the appearance of every room in the house, and it is worth remembering that properly maintained floors can be renewed several times before complete refinishing becomes necessary.

A well finished and waxed floor should remain attractive for many years before the old finish has to be removed, but the waxed surface does need periodic renewal. The best way to remove the old wax is with mineral spirits, being sure to have adequate ventilation. Wipe up the dissolved wax before the solvent dries, for otherwise the wax will be redeposited. Use steel wool to loosen thick spots of wax. A new coat of wax will satisfactorily renew the floor if the old finish is in good condition.

If the old finish is worn only in spots, it is possible to retouch them, thus making a complete revarnishing job unnecessary. Care must be taken not to leave lap marks, however. Clean the worn spots to remove dirt and stains. If the wood itself has become worn and roughened, sand smooth and apply a penetrating sealer.

IF IT IS decided to revarnish over the old finish, the entire floor must be cleaned thoroughly. Using fine to medium sandpaper, move with the grain to remove rough spots and too glossy areas. Remove all sandings with a vacuum cleaner and wipe the floor with a dust rag. Be sure all wax is removed.

Eventually, in spite of rewaxing and spot refinishing, it will become necessary to refinish the floor completely. The old finish is best removed with a power sander which can be rented from many paint stores or from shops specializing in floor equipment. Or you can pay to have it done. Get full instructions from the renter. It is important that all sandings be vacuumed up and that the floor is absolutely clean.

The next step is to stain the floor, unless the color of the wood is completely satisfactory. Even a clean finish will darken the floor slightly, so this must be considered when selecting a stain. Stain is applied evenly with a brush or rag. With a dark stain, any surplus remaining on the floor after five minutes should be wiped off with waste or rags. Light colored stain should not be wiped. All stains should be permitted to dry over night.

OAK FLOORING has pores which show small depression in the wood and in order to have a perfectly smooth surface these pores should be filled. If the old filling is not intact after the sanding or if the flooring is new, go about it this way. Apply the filler with a brush, first across the grain, then with it. After the filler has dried for a few minutes, the surplus must be removed as soon as the gloss disappears. Cover only an area that can be wiped quickly. Wipe with burlap, first across the grain, then gently with it, changing to clean material frequently. Allow the filler to dry completely.

Penetrating floor sealers are used widely as finishes for hardwood floors.

Floor sealer is applied liberally with a long handled lamb's wool or nylon applicator, first across the grain then with it. The surplus should be wiped up with rags if the label instructions so indicate, and the rags burned.

After the drying time specified by the manufacturer has elapsed, the surface should be buffed with steel wool, most easily with an electric buffer. Any steel wool particles or dust should be vacuumed away and a second thin coat applied with the grain, After this coat has dried, the floor is ready for use. If greater gloss is desired, the sealed floor makes an excellent base for varnish or it can be waxed.

VARNISH IS perhaps the most popular and familiar floor finish. Be sure to purchase floor varnish that is formulated to withstand abrasion and not one meant for another purpose. Allow 24 hours for the stain, if any, to dry. If a sealer has not been used, at least two coats of varnish will be needed for uniform appearance.

It is important to work with a dust-free brush on a dust-free floor in a room with as little draft as possible. Do not stir or shake varnish. Flow the varnish on liberally with a well-loaded brush and do not brush out as you would ordinary paint. This causes bubbles. Bubbles can be removed by brushing back into the area with light feathering strokes before the varnish sets.

Shellac, while it is light colored and dries rapidly, is not equal to high quality varnish in wear resistance and it is easily spotted by water. However, a well-waxed shellac finish will last for a long time.

Sometimes the staining and varnishing operations are combined by using a varnish stain, a colored varnish which still permits the grain to show through. This does not, however, give the depth and beauty of separate staining and varnishing.

WHERE FOR one reason or another removal of the old finish is not desirable, there are two alternatives. One is to use floor and deck enamel which comes in a variety of colors and hides the old surface completely.

A second method involves the use of a ground coat, or varnish undercoat, which hides the old surface and gives the floor the color of bare wood, but without grain. This can be finished with two coats of clear varnish, two coats of varnish stain, or a coat of varnish stain and a coat of clear varnish.

It is possible to obtain a grained effect by using graining colors over the ground coat. Any grain pattern can then be created by the use of graining tools. After this coat has dried, apply two coats of varnish or varnish stain of the desired shade.

DIVIDE A ROOM without reducing the space? It's possible if you use one of the new flexible steel ribbon dividers now in vogue. Here a living room has been divided to create a separate area for refreshment service, but space values have been maintained, thanks to the airy character of the supple ribbons, in this case the Ribbon Wall designed by George Nelson for the Howard Miller Clock Co. and featured in Marin at Bellach's. Carrying out the color scheme of the room — bright orange, olive and turquoise — the same colors were selected for the ribbons, with a solid band of orange to mark the outer end of the curtain.

Walls Of Ribbon For The Home

Ribbons are the rage . . . not for your hair, but for your home.

These are ribbons that hang from the ceiling, made of flexible fine steel and brightly colored.

They can make two areas out of one, curtain in a window, artfully conceal blemished walls, and provide a generous amount of decorative dash wherever they are used.

Relatively new on the market, it can be custom-cut to fit the individual homeowner's needs. And thus can be hung almost anywhere in the house.

The ribbons are flexible, so they can hang freely where a solid divider would be impractical or space-confining.

They provide a good and colorful way to disguise a kitchen pass-through. They offer the illusion of privacy on a patio without cutting off air passage. An if a room is too large, you can partition it with the ribbons without losing the sense of spaciousness.

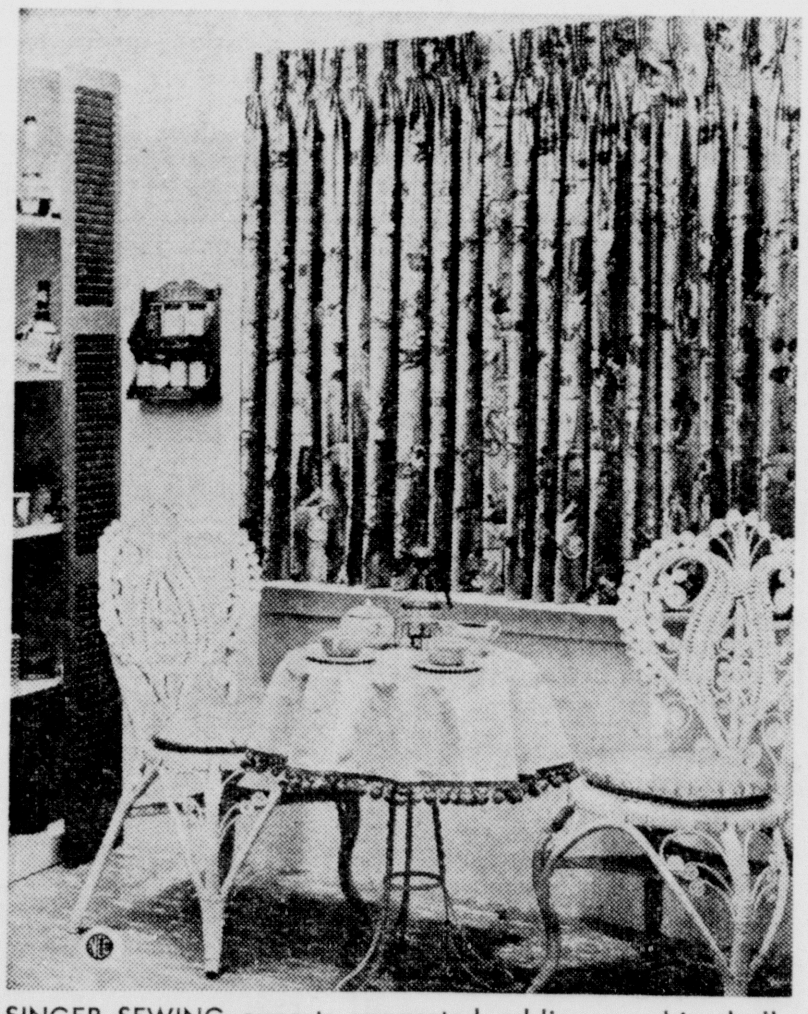
A number of varying color effects can be achieved simply by varying the color balance.

For instance, against a dark background, an all-white Ribbon Wall can be dramatically effective. Multi-colored olive and turquoise provide a shimmering, tropical setting.

Bold bands of orange and charcoal enliven a boy's room or the family room. And the color combinations go on endlessly. You can be your own decorator.



SINGER SEWING experts suggested adding a white ball of fringe to the diminutive table covering that matches the lavender tone in draperies and in chair cushions. The result is just the right relaxed atmosphere for the coffee break. Fabrics are Waverly Glosheen.

Visit To A Home On Hilltop

The house was designed and built to the Romanos' specifications by the William H. McDevitt Building Co. of San Rafael.

CALIFORNIA'S indoor-outdoor approach to living finds its finest expression in this stunning home, designed to envelope a beautiful pool and patio.

Just as the exterior and interior are two complementary parts of a whole, the interior is unified by use of compatible wood and stone throughout the three bedroom home.

Slate flooring in the entry is also carried the length of the hall in the bedroom wing. A soft eggshell tone is used for all painted walls; the floor-to-ceiling windows facing the pool also reflect this tone with curtained draw draperies. Exposed wood beam ceilings, rub-finished to a warm beige, give a pleasing contrast. Redwood walls inside and outdoors have also been given this same cocoa tone rubbed finish by the McDevitt firm.

The entire hearth wall in the spacious living room is composed of Santa Maria rock. It extends to the outside too, providing an attractive accent of texture against the redwood siding.

THE LARRY Romanos who occupy this spectacular home are newlyweds. They are choosing their furnishings with great care, and enjoying every moment of it. Since both are accomplished musicians, a grand piano was one of the first major items to be placed in their domicile. Treasured art objects from their ancestral country will be used as focal points in their decor.

A unique and interesting requirement demanded by the Romanos from the McDevitt firm was an insulated wine cellar. This was logical since Larry Romano is Northern California sales manager for the Beaulieu Vineyards. A traditional vintner's key and chain hangs by the wine cellar door, adding an interesting touch.

The Romanos, who have just started to enjoy their new home, look forward to many years of happiness in the pleasing surroundings and a spectacular site. With the growth of their garden and the completion of the furnishing of their home, their house promises to be one of the showplaces of Marin County.

Tips On Refinishing Floors In Your Home For Lasting Beauty

Beautiful, well-kept floors add much to the appearance of every room in the house, and it is worth remembering that properly maintained floors can be renewed several times before complete refinishing becomes necessary.

A well finished and waxed floor should remain attractive for many years before the old finish has to be removed, but the waxed surface does need periodic renewal. The best way to remove the old wax is with mineral spirits, being sure to have adequate ventilation. Wipe up the dissolved wax before the solvent dries, for otherwise the wax will be redeposited. Use steel wool to loosen thick spots of wax. A new coat of wax will satisfactorily renew the floor if the old finish is in good condition.

If the old finish is worn only in spots, it is possible to retouch them, thus making a complete revarnishing job unnecessary. Care must be taken not to leave lap marks, however. Clean the worn spots to remove dirt and stains. If the wood itself has become worn and roughened, sand smooth and apply a penetrating sealer.

IF IT IS decided to revarnish over the old finish, the entire floor must be cleaned thoroughly. Using fine to medium sandpaper, move with the grain to remove rough spots and too glossy areas. Remove all sandings with a vacuum cleaner and wipe the floor with a dust rag. Be sure all wax is removed.

Eventually, in spite of rewaxing and spot refinishing, it will become necessary to refinish the floor completely. The old finish is best removed with a power sander which can be rented from many paint stores or from shops specializing in floor equipment. Or you can pay to have it done. Get full instructions from the renter. It is important that all sandings be vacuumed up and that the floor is absolutely clean.

The next step is to stain the floor, unless the color of the wood is completely satisfactory. Even a clean finish will darken the floor slightly, so this must be considered when selecting a stain. Stain is applied evenly with a brush or rag. With a dark stain, any surplus remaining on the floor after five minutes should be wiped off with waste or rags. Light colored stain should not be wiped. All stains should be permitted to dry over night.

OAK FLOORING has pores which show small depression in the wood and in order to have a perfectly smooth surface these pores should be filled. If the old filling is not intact after the sanding or if the flooring is new, go about it this way. Apply the filler with a brush, first across the grain, then with it. After the filler has dried for a few minutes, the surplus must be removed as soon as the gloss disappears. Cover only an area that can be wiped quickly. Wipe with burlap, first across the grain, then gently with it, changing to clean material frequently. Allow the filler to dry completely.

Penetrating floor sealers are used widely as finishes for hardwood floors.

Floor sealer is applied liberally with a long handled lamb's wool or nylon applicator, first across the grain then with it. The surplus should be wiped up with rags if the label instructions so indicate, and the rags burned.

After the drying time specified by the manufacturer has elapsed, the surface should be buffed with steel wool, most easily with an electric buffer. Any steel wool particles or dust should be vacuumed away and a second thin coat applied with the grain, After this coat has dried, the floor is ready for use. If greater gloss is desired, the sealed floor makes an excellent base for varnish or it can be waxed.

VARNISH IS perhaps the most popular and familiar floor finish. Be sure to purchase floor varnish that is formulated to withstand abrasion and not one meant for another purpose. Allow 24 hours for the stain, if any, to dry. If a sealer has not been used, at least two coats of varnish will be needed for uniform appearance.

It is important to work with a dust-free brush on a dust-free floor in a room with as little draft as possible. Do not stir or shake varnish. Flow the varnish on liberally with a well-loaded brush and do not brush out as you would ordinary paint. This causes bubbles. Bubbles can be removed by brushing back into the area with light feathering strokes before the varnish sets.

Shellac, while it is light colored and dries rapidly, is not equal to high quality varnish in wear resistance and it is easily spotted by water. However, a well-waxed shellac finish will last for a long time.

Sometimes the staining and varnishing operations are combined by using a varnish stain, a colored varnish which still permits the grain to show through. This does not, however, give the depth and beauty of separate staining and varnishing.

WHERE FOR one reason or another removal of the old finish is not desirable, there are two alternatives. One is to use floor and deck enamel which comes in a variety of colors and hides the old surface completely.

A second method involves the use of a ground coat, or varnish undercoat, which hides the old surface and gives the floor the color of bare wood, but without grain. This can be finished with two coats of clear varnish, two coats of varnish stain, or a coat of varnish stain and a coat of clear varnish.

It is possible to obtain a grained effect by using graining colors over the ground coat. Any grain pattern can then be created by the use of graining tools. After this coat has dried, apply two coats of varnish or varnish stain of the desired shade.

DIVIDE A ROOM without reducing the space? It's possible if you use one of the new flexible steel ribbon dividers now in vogue. Here a living room has been divided to create a separate area for refreshment service, but space values have been maintained, thanks to the airy character of the supple ribbons, in this case the Ribbon Wall designed by George Nelson for the Howard Miller Clock Co. and featured in Marin at Bellach's. Carrying out the color scheme of the room — bright orange, olive and turquoise — the same colors were selected for the ribbons, with a solid band of orange to mark the outer end of the curtain.

NEWEST IN DIVIDERS

Walls Of Ribbon For The Home

Ribbons are the rage . . . not for your hair, but for your home.

These are ribbons that hang from the ceiling, made of flexible fine steel and brightly colored.

They can make two areas out of one, curtain in a window, artfully conceal blemished walls, and provide a generous amount of decorative dash wherever they are used.

Relatively new on the market, it can be custom-cut to fit the individual homeowner's needs. And thus can be hung almost anywhere in the house.

The ribbons are flexible, so they can hang freely where a solid divider would be impractical or space-confining.

They provide a good and colorful way to disguise a kitchen pass-through. They offer the illusion of privacy on a patio without cutting off air passage. An if a room is too large, you can partition it with the ribbons without losing the sense of spaciousness.

A number of varying color effects can be achieved simply by varying the color balance.

For instance, against a dark background, an all-white Ribbon Wall can be dramatically effective. Multi-colored olive and turquoise provide a shimmering, tropical setting.

Bold bands of orange and charcoal enliven a boy's room or the family room. And the color combinations go on endlessly. You can be your own decorator.

SINGER SEWING experts suggested adding a white ball of fringe to the diminutive table covering that matches the lavender tone in draperies and in chair cushions. The result is just the right relaxed atmosphere for the coffee break. Fabrics are Waverly Glosheen.

Here's A Versatile Camellia That Deserves More Attention

By CHARLES FERRONI

The versatile Camellia Sasanqua, a native of Japan, has not gained the popularity it rightfully deserves.

It offers hardiness, an early and profuse bloom from September to January, and a dark green foliage that takes full sun or light shade. And it can be used in landscaping as a ground cover, vine, hedge, or as a specimen.

Culture is the same as that of our well known Camellia Japonica.

There are about 45 varieties of Sasanquas available, among them, several are outstanding and unsurpassed for beauty and quality. Variety Apple Blossom, white flushed pink, is a vigorous spreading grower. Cleopatra, rose-pink, semi-double to peony form, is a compact grower. Hiryu, deep crimson red, double, vigorous upright compact growth, is excellent, Jean May, large shell pink, double, is outstanding, and Sparkling Burgundy, the All America Award winner for 1960, is a full double burgundy red, upright growth, profuse bloomer.

For the lover of white camellias, White Doves in the semi-double to peony form is extremely prolific over a long period.

AS A CUT flower, camellias rank high being available at the time of the year when most blooms are very scarce. Some varieties are excellent for corsages that do not shatter easily.

Tradition has condemned cutting of blooms for possible injury to the plant. The proper time for pruning and shaping camellias is right now.

Sasanquas were relatively scarce in the nursery trade until recent years. But the nurserymen report that growing public awareness of the Sasanqua's virtues has increased the demand for them — hence the supply in the trade.

ITS WILLOWY pattern of growth makes the Sasanqua far more adaptable than either the Japonica or Reticulata camellias. It makes a wonderful espalier against fence or wall. It can be planted in a raised bed and made to tumble over the edge if you weight the branches with a few well-placed stones. You can even tie or staple it at ground level to form a unique, if not completely dense, cover in shaded areas.

Most important to the gardener, however, is the fact that the early blooming Sasanquas extend the camellia season over so many months. Many of them actually begin to bloom in September and are still blooming when the earliest Japonicas start. Consider that camellias bloom well into spring and it won't take you more than a minute of finger counting to determine that this means over half a year of bloom from this family.

While you're looking for early blooming Sasanquas this fall, look also for the new All-America Camellia, Bonnie Marie. Bonnie Marie is a hybrid, the result of crossing a Japonica parent with a member of the rugged and little known Saluensis side of the family. It combines the beauty of one with the hardiness of the other to produce a lovely phlox-pink blooms on an upright shrub which seem to thrive under adverse conditions, especially heat.

SPECIAL EMPHASIS is being placed upon the arrangements division of this year's Chrysanthemum Society of Marin Show which opened today at the First National Bank of San Rafael, and which will continue tomorrow. Mrs. Russell Bjorn of San Rafael, chairman of the division, works here with an arrangement of Yellow Delaware 'mums against a background of Swiss chard greenery. The popular Yellow Delawares are a medium incurve 'mum, hardy, long-lasting as a cut flower, and excellent in texture. Doors to the 'mum show will be open until 9 tonight, and tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. There is no admission charge. (Independent-Journal photo)

Giant Daffodils Wonderful Bulbs

There's nothing that speaks of spring like the giant yellow blooms of the King Alfred Daffodil. You simply can't overdo it with these wonderful bulbs.

Plant some in pots for portable color, in plant boxes, and along walks or pathways. When you plant them in flower beds, remember that they are most effective when clumped in groups of bulbs, rather than spread thinly to cover more ground.

GRAPE IVY is one of the easiest and most graceful of indoor vines. It grows by leaps and bounds in a window with morning sun if fed and watered regularly. If you like, you can give it a small pot trellis on which to twine. Try a small plant in a two-inch pot, or buy several and transplant them to an eight-inch clay pot for really striking indoor decoration.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔If you want an exotic touch in the window this winter, try a potted orchid. When you select one, make sure it will bloom during the winter months. Your nurseryman will know.

✔Plant the large hybrid lilies as soon as you get them home from the nursery. They never really go dormant and cannot be stored like other bulbs.

✔Ranunculus can be planted right through the first part of next year for a long succession of bloom in spring.

✔Plant annuals for winter and spring color; perennials for spring and summer color.

Visit To A Home On Hilltop

Enhancing a magnificent wooded hilltop site, the Kent Woodlands home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Romano, on Crown Road, has a simplicity of line and sublety of color that achieves a pleasing harmony with the surroundings.

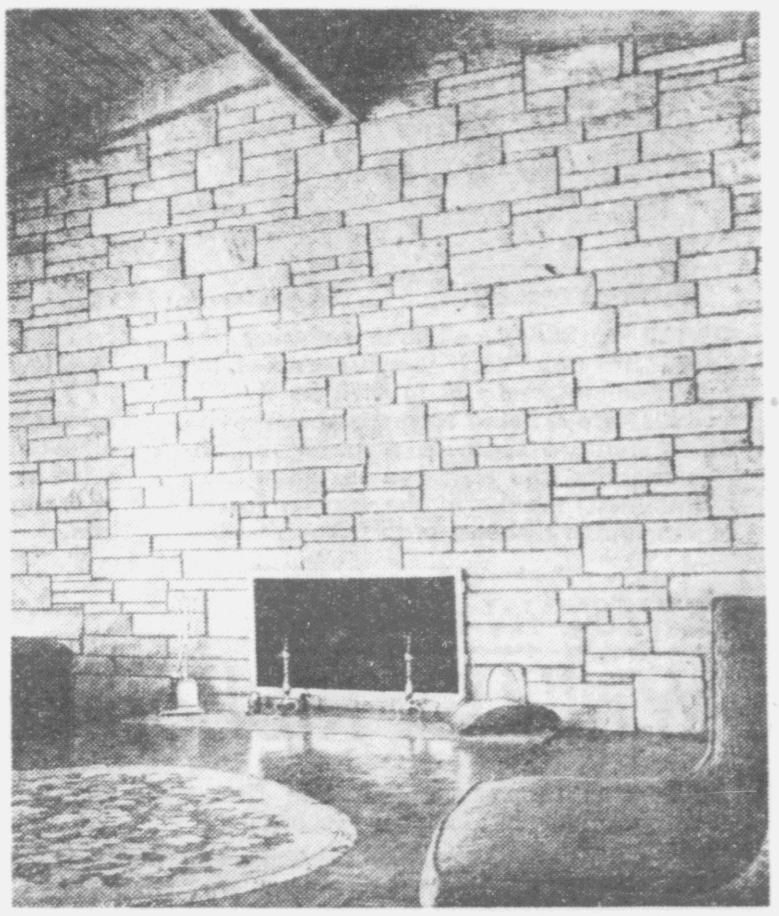
The house was designed and built to the Romanos' specifications by the William H. McDevitt Building Co. of San Rafael.

CALIFORNIA'S indoor-outdoor approach to living finds its finest expression in this stunning home, designed to envelope a beautiful pool and patio.

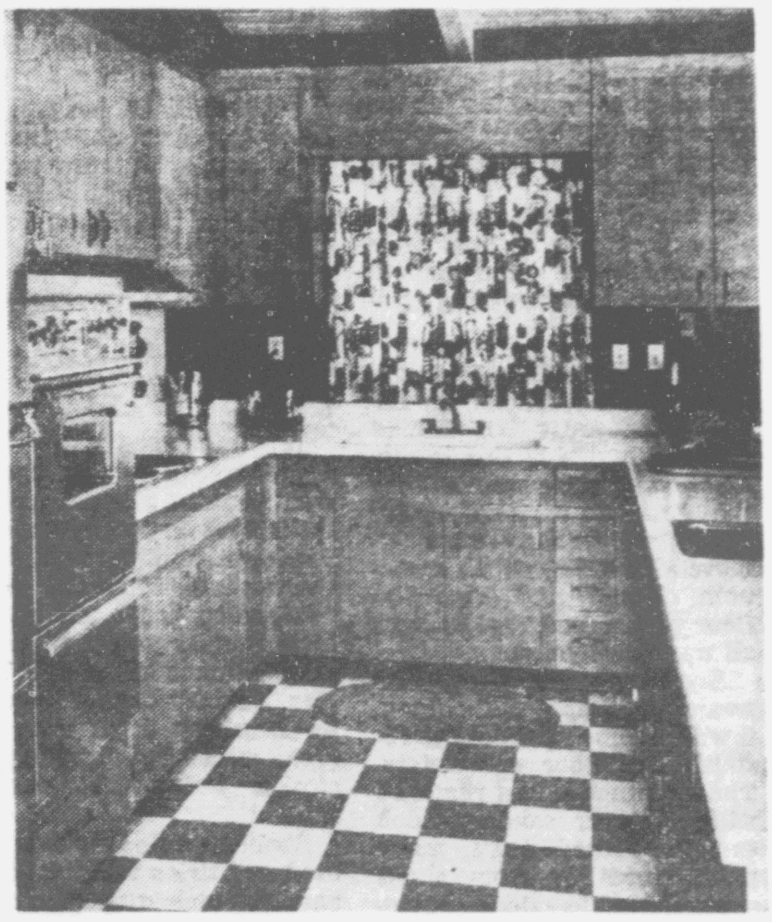
Just as the exterior and interior are two complementary parts of a whole, the interior is unified by use of compatible wood and stone throughout the three bedroom home.

Slate flooring in the entry is also carried the length of the hall in the bedroom wing. A soft eggshell tone is used for all painted walls; the floor-to-ceiling windows facing the pool also reflect this tone with curtained draw draperies. Exposed wood beam ceilings, rub-finished to a warm beige, give a pleasing contrast. Redwood walls inside and outdoors have also been given this same cocoa tone rubbed finish by the McDevitt firm.

The entire hearth wall in the spacious living room is composed of Santa Maria rock. It extends to the outside too, providing an attractive accent of texture against the redwood siding.



THE ENTIRE hearth wall in the spacious living room of the Romano home is of Santa Maria rock. The exposed beam ceiling, rub-finished in warm beige tone, is used throughout the house, thus providing a pleasing architectural unity.



CUPBOARDS IN the compact kitchen are treated with satin finish on blonde birch. Adjoining the kitchen is a comfortable family room which opens onto the pool area. An unusual feature here is specially constructed wine cellar in this wing.

THE LARRY Romanos who occupy this spectacular home are newlyweds. They are choosing their furnishings with great care, and enjoying every moment of it. Since both are accomplished musicians, a grand piano was one of the first major items to be placed in their domicile. Treasured art objects from their ancestral country will be used as focal points in their decor.

A unique and interesting requirement demanded by the Romanos from the McDevitt firm was an insulated wine cellar. This was logical since Larry Romano is Northern California sales manager for the Beaulieu Vineyards. A traditional vintner's key and chain hangs by the wine cellar door, adding an interesting touch.

The Romanos, who have just started to enjoy their new home, look forward to many years of happiness in the pleasing surroundings and a spectacular site. With the growth of their garden and the completion of the furnishing of their home, their house promises to be one of the showplaces of Marin County.

Here's A Versatile Camellia That Deserves More Attention

By CHARLES FERRONI

The versatile Camellia Sasanqua, a native of Japan, has not gained the popularity it rightfully deserves.

It offers hardiness, an early and profuse bloom from September to January, and a dark green foliage that takes full sun or light shade. And it can be used in landscaping as a ground cover, vine, hedge, or as a specimen.

Culture is the same as that of our well known Camellia Japonica.

There are about 45 varieties of Sasanquas available, among them, several are outstanding and unsurpassed for beauty and quality. Variety Apple Blossom, white flushed pink, is a vigorous spreading grower. Cleopatra, rose-pink, semi-double to peony form, is a compact grower. Hiryu, deep crimson red, double, vigorous upright compact growth, is excellent, Jean May, large shell pink, double, is outstanding, and Sparkling Burgundy, the All America Award winner for 1960, is a full double burgundy red, upright growth, profuse bloomer.

For the lover of white camellias, White Doves in the semi-double to peony form is extremely prolific over a long period.

AS A CUT flower, camellias rank high, being available at the time of the year when most blooms are very scarce. Some varieties are excellent for corsages that do not shatter easily.

Tradition has condemned cutting of blooms for possible injury to the plant. The proper time for pruning and shaping camellias is right now.

Sasanquas were relatively scarce in the nursery trade until recent years. But the nurserymen report that growing public awareness of the Sasanqua's virtues has increased the demand for them — hence the supply in the trade.

ITS WILLOWY pattern of growth makes the Sasanqua far more adaptable than either the Japonica or Reticulata camellias. It makes a wonderful espalier against fence or wall. It can be planted in a raised bed and made to tumble over the edge if you weight the branches with a few well-placed stones. You can even tie or staple it at ground level to form a unique, if not completely dense, cover in shaded areas.

Most important to the gardener, however, is the fact that the early blooming Sasanquas extend the camellia season over so many months. Many of them actually begin to bloom in September and are still blooming when the earliest Japonicas start. Consider that camellias bloom well into spring and it won't take you more than a minute of finger counting to determine that this means over half a year of bloom from this family.

While you're looking for early blooming Sasanquas this fall, look also for the new All-America Camellia, Bonnie Marie. Bonnie Marie is a hybrid, the result of crossing a Japonica parent with a member of the rugged and little known Saluensis side of the family. It combines the beauty of one with the hardiness of the other to produce a lovely phlox-pink blooms on an upright shrub which seem to thrive under adverse conditions, especially heat.

SPECIAL EMPHASIS is being placed upon the arrangements division of this year's Chrysanthemum Society of Marin Show which opened today at the First National Bank of San Rafael, and which will continue tomorrow. Mrs. Russell Bjorn of San Rafael, chairman of the division, works here with an arrangement of Yellow Delaware 'mums against a background of Swiss chard greenery. The popular Yellow Delawares are a medium incurve 'mum, hardy, long-lasting as a cut flower, and excellent in texture. Doors to the 'mum show will be open until 9 tonight, and tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. There is no admission charge. (Independent-Journal photo)

Giant Daffodils Wonderful Bulbs

There's nothing that speaks of spring like the giant yellow blooms of the King Alfred Daffodil. You simply can't overdo it with these wonderful bulbs.

Plant some in pots for portable color, in plant boxes, and along walks or pathways. When you plant them in flower beds, remember that they are most effective when clumped in groups of bulbs, rather than spread thinly to cover more ground.

GRAPE IVY is one of the easiest and most graceful of indoor vines. It grows by leaps and bounds in a window with morning sun if fed and watered regularly. If you like, you can give it a small pot trellis on which to twine. Try a small plant in a two-inch pot, or buy several and transplant them to an eight-inch clay pot for really striking indoor decoration.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔If you want an exotic touch in the window this winter, try a potted orchid. When you select one, make sure it will bloom during the winter months. Your nurseryman will know.

✔Plant the large hybrid lilies as soon as you get them home from the nursery. They never really go dormant and cannot be stored like other bulbs.

✔Ranunculus can be planted right through the first part of next year for a long succession of bloom in spring.

✔Plant annuals for winter and spring color; perennials for spring and summer color.

Three San Francisco World Fairs To Be Recalled On KGO Program

MANY AN OLD-TIME Bay Area resident can and does recall fondly having attended three "world fairs" in San Francisco—the San Francisco Midwinter International Exposition as a child, the Panama Pacific Fair as a young adult, and the Golden Gate International Exposition in more "recent" years.

The rest of us will get to see something of what we missed on KGO-TV's second edition of its new locally-produced show, "Expedition-California," this coming Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The stories behind each of the three big fairs will be illustrated with rare pictures.

Incidentally, each of the expositions has left behind lasting mementoes. The Midwinter International Exposition in 1894 marked the completion of Golden Gate Park and San Francisco's emergence as a great metropolis. From it we still have the original wing of famed De Young Museum and the lovely Japanese Tea Garden in Golden Gate Park.

The Panama Pacific International Exposition of 1915 celebrated the completion of the Panama Canal and the rebuilding of San Francisco after the 1906 earthquake and fire disaster. The incredibly beautiful Palace of Fine Arts, now slated for restoration after decades of neglect, was the result of that exposition held in the Marina District.

And finally the 1939-40 world's fair gave the Bay Area a new island, Treasure Island, man-made especially as a site for the exposition. That fair commemorated the completion of the two great bridges, Golden Gate and the Oakland-Bay span.

Tuesday's show, you can bet, will bring back nostalgic memories on the part of the many who have attended one, two or all of the three great expositions.

WHAT PROMISES to be the best explanatory job yet done by television on the exceedingly complicated and controversial state water plan has been scheduled by KQED-TV (Channel 9) for next Friday night at 8 o'clock.

If you haven't yet made up your mind as to how you will vote on the water bond issue next month, then you will be wise to dial in on this one. The station promises "a thorough investigation" of the issue.

The two-hour program will also mark the completion of microwave relay service between KQED in San Francisco and KVIE in Sacramento. And thus part of the show will originate from the state capital, part from the Bay Area.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown and State Department of Water Resources director Harvey Banks will appear. Special film footage will illustrate the state's water problem. And there will be a debate with Fred Bold, Richmond attorney, and Ralph Brody, deputy director of the department of water resources, upholding the bond issue, and Assemblyman Bruce Allen, from Santa Clara County, and Don Vial, research director for the California Labor Federation (AFL-CIO), urging its defeat. Attorney Caspar W. Weinberger will moderate.

Also on KQED this coming week: An "Open End" discussion Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. that should be a humdinger. The subject: The very timely one of "Politics."

The panel has been chosen to provide for a maximum divergency of viewpoints. For instance, a Democratic governor, California's Pat Brown, and a Republican governor, Oregon's Mark Hatfield. Also Paul Ziffren, the former Democratic national committeeman from California who lost his post largely through Brown's manipulations. Then there will be Edward (Ted) Kennedy, brother of Democratic presidential nominee John Kennedy and one of his closest advisers and busiest workers, along with Murray Chotiner, the Beverly Hills lawyer long closely associated with Republican presidential aspirant Richard Nixon. And finally, Kyle Palmer, political editor of the Los Angeles Times.

The sparks should fly when this bunch gets together.

FANS OF British movies will be delighted by the word that KTVU (Channel 2) has just purchased television rights to a new package of J. Arthur Rank films.

The collection totals 38 movies, all post-1950 pictures, and starring the likes of Alec Guiness, Kay Kendall, David Niven and James Mason.

The transaction is all the bigger break for those who like good motion pictures, even on the small screen, in that KTVU alone, of all the Bay Area stations, does show movies during the prime evening viewing hours. The other stations restrict such showings to the daytime hours or to the late, late time spots.

AND WHILE ON the subject of movies on TV, admirers of Greer Garson, certainly one of the better actresses Hollywood has produced in the past 20 years, are in for a treat this coming week.

KGO-TV (Channel 7) will offer a week-long schedule of Greer Garson favorites in its 11 p.m. time spot, starting Monday evening and with "Mrs. Miniver," an all-time favorite, leading off that night.

Incidentally, four of the five pictures to be shown feature Walter Pidgeon as Miss Garson's co-star.

Some other top movie bets for the coming week: "Edison the Man" with Spencer Tracy, tonight, 11 p.m., Channel 7; "Arch of Triumph" with Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer, Sunday, 4 p.m., Channel 4; "MacBeth" with Orson Welles, Sunday, 5:30 p.m., Channel 4; "Great Expectations" with John Mills and Alec Guinness, Wednesday, 3 p.m., Channel 4; and "Jane Eyre," with Joan Fontaine and Orson Welles, Friday, 11:15 p.m., Channel 5.

Three San Francisco World Fairs To Be Recalled On KGO Program

MANY AN OLD-TIME Bay Area resident can and does recall fondly having attended three "world fairs" in San Francisco—the San Francisco Midwinter International Exposition as a child, the Panama Pacific Fair as a young adult, and the Golden Gate International Exposition in more "recent" years.

The rest of us will get to see something of what we missed on KGO-TV's second edition of its new locally-produced show, "Expedition-California," this coming Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The stories behind each of the three big fairs will be illustrated with rare pictures.

Incidentally, each of the expositions has left behind lasting mementoes. The Midwinter International Exposition in 1894 marked the completion of Golden Gate Park and San Francisco's emergence as a great metropolis. From it we still have the original wing of famed De Young Museum and the lovely Japanese Tea Garden in Golden Gate Park.

The Panama Pacific International Exposition of 1915 celebrated the completion of the Panama Canal and the rebuilding of San Francisco after the 1906 earthquake and fire disaster. The incredibly beautiful Palace of Fine Arts, now slated for restoration after decades of neglect, was the result of that exposition held in the Marina District.

And finally the 1939-40 world's fair gave the Bay Area a new island, Treasure Island, man-made especially as a site for the exposition. That fair commemorated the completion of the two great bridges, Golden Gate and the Oakland-Bay span.

Tuesday's show, you can bet, will bring back nostalgic memories on the part of the many who have attended one, two or all of the three great expositions.

WHAT PROMISES to be the best explanatory job yet done by television on the exceedingly complicated and controversial state water plan has been scheduled by KQED-TV (Channel 9) for next Friday night at 8 o'clock.

If you haven't yet made up your mind as to how you will vote on the water bond issue next month, then you will be wise to dial in on this one. The station promises "a thorough investigation" of the issue.

The two-hour program will also mark the completion of microwave relay service between KQED in San Francisco and KVIE in Sacramento. And thus part of the show will originate from the state capital, part from the Bay Area.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown and State Department of Water Resources director Harvey Banks will appear. Special film footage will illustrate the state's water problem. And there will be a debate with Fred Bold, Richmond attorney, and Ralph Brody, deputy director of the department of water resources, upholding the bond issue, and Assemblyman Bruce Allen, from Santa Clara County, and Don Vial, research director for the California Labor Federation (AFL-CIO), urging its defeat. Attorney Caspar W. Weinberger will moderate.

Also on KQED this coming week: An "Open End" discussion Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. that should be a humdinger. The subject: The very timely one of "Politics."

The panel has been chosen to provide for a maximum divergency of viewpoints. For instance, a Democratic governor, California's Pat Brown, and a Republican governor, Oregon's Mark Hatfield. Also Paul Ziffren, the former Democratic national committeeman from California who lost his post largely through Brown's manipulations. Then there will be Edward (Ted) Kennedy, brother of Democratic presidential nominee John Kennedy and one of his closest advisers and busiest workers, along with Murray Chotiner, the Beverly Hills lawyer long closely associated with Republican presidential aspirant Richard Nixon. And finally, Kyle Palmer, political editor of the Los Angeles Times.

The sparks should fly when this bunch gets together.

FANS OF British movies will be delighted by the word that KTVU (Channel 2) has just purchased television rights to a new package of J. Arthur Rank films.

The collection totals 38 movies, all post-1950 pictures, and starring the likes of Alec Guiness, Kay Kendall, David Niven and James Mason.

The transaction is all the bigger break for those who like good motion pictures, even on the small screen, in that KTVU alone, of all the Bay Area stations, does show movies during the prime evening viewing hours. The other stations restrict such showings to the daytime hours or to the late, late time spots.

AND WHILE ON the subject of movies on TV, admirers of Greer Garson, certainly one of the better actresses Hollywood has produced in the past 20 years, are in for a treat this coming week.

KGO-TV (Channel 7) will offer a week-long schedule of Greer Garson favorites in its 11 p.m. time spot, starting Monday evening and with "Mrs. Miniver," an all-time favorite, leading off that night.

Incidentally, four of the five pictures to be shown feature Walter Pidgeon as Miss Garson's co-star.

Some other top movie bets for the coming week: "Edison the Man" with Spencer Tracy, tonight, 11 p.m., Channel 7; "Arch of Triumph" with Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer, Sunday, 4 p.m., Channel 4; "MacBeth" with Orson Welles, Sunday, 5:30 p.m., Channel 4; "Great Expectations" with John Mills and Alec Guinness, Wednesday, 3 p.m., Channel 4; and "Jane Eyre," with Joan Fontaine and Orson Welles, Friday, 11:15 p.m., Channel 5.
